GOULD TELLS WABASH PLANS

Line to Baltimore Will Be Opened in 18 Months.

PLEASED WITH WORK

WABASH ENGINEERS PRAISED

"Within 18 months we will have our lines completed and in operation from the Atlantic tidewater to Salt lake."

George J. Gould, active head of the Gould system of railroads, made this assertion when he returned yesterday from an inspection of the improvements that are being made for the local Wabash terminal.

"I am pleased beyond expression with the progress that has been made, despite the obstacles that have presented themselves. Everything is now clear for the maturing of the plans for the grand extension of the Wabash.

"By the first of the year there will be a clear block from Pittsburgh to Toledo, and then the connecting links which will give us a trunk line to Baltimore can be speedily built.

"My short visit here has been a revelation to me. I have been impressed by the happiest evidences of prosperity. In the west we have reason to believe that the same conditions exist. Pittsburgh is a workshop burdened with orders, insuring a continuance of our industries and consequent confidence in the commercial world. This might be regarded as an optimistic view, but who can come here and not become enthused into the most sanguine mood?"

Mr. Gould had just stepped from the steam launch Idler, after a voyage up the Monongahela with the members of his inspection party, and turned to thank

TREASURES FOR NEW GALLERY

CARNEGIE A DONOR

J. P. Morgan Will Build Wing in Which His Contribution Will Be Displayed.

BILL READY FOR CONGRESS

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Washington, July 12.—It can be stated authoritatively that lovers and patrons of art in this city, New York, Boston and other centers have planned to go before congress at its next session and ask for an appropriation for a national art gallery, embracing all treasures of art, with especial reference to ceramics, textile fabrics and other forms also made by the North American Indians. It is stated that Mr. Morgan has had a number of conferences recently with an officer of the Corcoran gallery relative to the transfer of his collection to the proposed national gallery. According to the story, Mr. Morgan, who has hitherto circumscribed his proposed donation with impossible restrictions as to the character of buildings, etc., is now satisfied with one stipulation that the gallery shall be located in Washington. Congress, he suggests, should appropriate money for a suitable structure, but Mr. Morgan wishes to contribute the money necessary to build the Morgan wing, which would contain the Morgan collection. Andrew Carnegie, it is stated, has also deeply interested himself in the plan, as well as C. T. Yerkes and P. A. B. Widener of Philadelphia.

Ceramics Included.

A prominent member of the congress will introduce the bill and if congress acts favorably on the proposition he will himself contribute at least $1,000,000 toward the gallery. A relative of this member stands ready to donate a valuable

DIME NOVELS NOT IMMORAL; DIAMOND DICK A GOOD FELLOW

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 12.—Sunday school teachers attending the School of Methods were shocked today by the remarks of Dr. Forbush, when he said good stories to interest scholars could be secured from dime novels. He said there is a reason for reading dime novels and an art of story telling in them that appeals to boys. "They have the four characteristics of all good books—a hero, plenty of action, suspense and a final solution where virtue conquers."

He said: "I have read a great many of them. They are not immoral, with the possible exception of the Jesse James series. Diamond Dick is not such a bad sort of a fellow."

ROXBURY'S MURDERER KILLED HIS COMPANION

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 12.—A woman's blood-soaked clothing found close to the Harlem river, underneath the Second avenue elevated railway bridge, has set the Bronx police at work on the theory that the murderer of Charles W. Roxbury afterward killed his woman companion to prevent her becoming a betrayer. Inspector Titus announced that a second murder had been committed and gave instructions that resulted in a systematic search for the body of the mysterious woman. The inspector believes this woman was the companion of the man who murdered Mr. Roxbury.

"We have reason to believe that the murderer did not escape unscathed from the encounter," said Inspector Titus. "I am satisfied that Roxbury put up a fight and a good one. He was a big, powerful man, ready and willing to fight. He was an expert bowler. That he was by no means too helpless to put up some kind of a fight is shown by the wonderful nerve and strength he displayed when he walked two miles to his home with his skull fractured in four places.

"It is impossible to disconnect the two stories. We know that Roxbury, his assailant, and the assailant's woman companion had all disappeared within a very few minutes after the first blow was struck. Miss Thomas ran 500 feet for help and Gates and Schultz ran back along River avenue at once and saw no one.

"The trail of blood that Roxbury left is distinct all the way to his home. We found another trail of blood east of One Hundred and Sixty-first street from Jerome avenue and this ended at the northern end of the Mott Haven freight yards. This may have been that of the murderer hurt by Roxbury in the struggle."

Baptist Union Adjourns.

ATLANTA, GA., July 12.—The convention of the Baptist Young People's union of America ended tonight. PRINCE OF WALES WILL INSPECT KEARSARGE

Royal Party Travels from London to Portsmouth to See American Ships.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

PORTSMOUTH, ENGLAND, July 12.—The prince of Wales arrived this morning for the inspection of Rear Admiral Cotton's flagship Kearsarge tomorrow. Ambassador Choate and Secretaries White and Carter of the American embassy traveled in the same train from London.

Admiral Sir Charles F. Hotham received them at the station and the whole party drove to the admiralty house as the admiral's guests, the prince of Wales, Ambassador Choate and Admiral Hotham occupying the first carriage. H. O. Arnold-Foster, parliamentary secretary to the admiralty, and other departmental officers have also arrived from London for tomorrow's inspection.

Among the guests at the dinner given by Admiral Hotham in honor of the prince of Wales were the officers of the American squadron.

FULKERSON WANTED TO DO THE INVESTIGATING

EL PASO, TEXAS, July 12.—(Special.)—Special treasury agents are in El Paso investigating what is claimed to be fraud in the collection of customs duties on ores along the Mexican border. In his report to Collector F. E. Garrett of this port of entry, John Fulkerson, the government storekeeper, told of the alleged frauds, offered to give evidence and asked to be made a member of the investigating committee. The treasury department ordered Fulkerson to report the facts to special treasury agents, but he refused to act with the agents and tendered his resignation. The department wired the agents to prefer charges against Fulkerson.

HE WAS SHOT DEAD WHILE UNDER THE DOCTOR'S KNIFE

Wolfe Killed on the Operating Table by His Angry Father-in-Law, Who Used a Double Barrel Shotgun.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

Bluffton, Ind., July 12.—John Terrell, a wealthy farmer, living near Petroleum, nine miles from here, killed his son-in-law, Melvin Wolfe, this afternoon, firing both barrels of a shotgun into his head as Wolfe lay on a doctor's operating table to have a leg amputated, necessitated by a wound from Terrell's gun, fired a short time before.

Four years ago Wolfe married Terrell's daughter. Wolfe deserted the girl, it is said, leaving her with a young child. A suit was brought to compel him to support his wife.

It is claimed Wolfe had twice driven by the Terrell home, shouting insulting remarks and shaking his first at Terrell. The third time he drove by Terrell jumped from some bushes along the roadside and fired at his son-in-law with a double-barreled shotgun. The first charge shattered Wolfe's right leg. The second barrel missed. Wolfe was hurried to the office of Dr. Saunders at Petroleum and placed on an operating table to have the leg amputated.

While a crowd stood around watching the doctor, Terrell came up from his home in a buggy, broke in the doors of the doctor's office, drove out the crowd at the point of his gun, and with the remark, "I am after him and I am going to get him yet," fired both barrels into his son-in-law's head. He was terribly mutilated. At the time he fired the young man was only half conscious.

Terrell got in his buggy, loaded up his shotgun and pointed it at the mob that had hastily formed, held it at bay and drove to the sheriff's residence. He is in jail.

KILLED AND INJURED BY LIGHTNING FLASH

Bolt Struck a Boathouse Where Bathers Had Taken Refuge from Storm.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.—During a terrific thunderstorm which passed over the city today, lightning struck a boathouse near the Potomac river in which about a dozen men had taken refuge on their way home from the bathing beach. One man was killed outright, another so badly injured that he may die, and still another is in the hospital suffering severely from the effects of the bolt.

The dead man is Robert B. Smith, aged 33 years; the seriously injured is Charles Slaughter, colored, aged 20 years, may die.

Every one of the men who had taken refuge in the boathouse felt the effects of the thunderbolt. Ten feet of the flagpole over the house was wrenched off and the structure itself was wrecked. C. H. Bannigan, the policeman on duty at the beach, while hurrying to the Emergency hospital for assistance after the accident, was twice rendered temporarily unconscious from the effects of the lightning striking trees near him.

Physicians from the hospital succeeded in restoring most of those who had been hurt to consciousness and the remainder were taken to the hospital. Here it was found that Slaughter, the colored, man was so badly shocked and burned that he may die. He is still unconscious and delirious from the accident. William Lyons, a white man, aged 37 years, was also badly burned, but he will recover.

In another part of the city Nora Shipley, colored, aged 15 years, who was sitting at a window, was badly stunned by a lightning bolt.

There was a succession of thunderstorms during the afternoon, all of them accompanied by vivid flashes of lightning, but so far as reported to the police, there were no other casualties.

THREE MEN KILLED AND FIFTY INJURED

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

KANSAS CITY, July 12.—Missouri Pacific fast mail No. 7, which left St. Louis this morning for Kansas City, crashed into an excursion train, southbound from Kansas City, that had become stalled between Little Blue and Lees Summit. Three persons were killed outright, two of them tramps, the other being an unknown man.

Fifty people were injured, all except one or two of the crew on the fast mail, being on the excursion train. Most of them were negroes from Kansas City, and their injuries, with one or two exceptions, consisted of cuts and bruises. None of the passengers on the fast mail was hurt. Walter G. Coleman, mail clerk, of St. Louis, was badly bruised and cut.

Responsibility for the wreck seems to rest with the crew of the fast mail, which failed to stop promptly when flagged. The engine on the excursion train, which consisted of 12 coaches heavily loaded, broke down. While repairs were being made two flagmen were sent ahead to stop the fast mail, then about due. The engineer on the mail train failed to see the foremost flagman and only slackened up when warned by the second man, who was within a short distance of the excursion train. The fast mail was running at a high rate of speed, and it was impossible to come to a full stop.

VICTIM OF TRAIN ROBBED OF MONEY AND JEWELRY

FINDLAY, O., July 12.—(Special.)—A train on the Hocking Valley railroad struck Harry Adams at Hayward switch this morning. He was terribly mangled, but lived two hours. Adams was 30 years old and single, and was an oil pumper. Frank Tolles, his partner, testified that last night he had seen Adams with two strange men. He had money, a watch and two rings with him, and when found on the tracks the money and jewelry were gone.

SIR FREDERICK TREVES RETIRES FROM PRACTICE

Surgeon Who Saved King Edward's Life Has Too Many Patients.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, July 12.—The increasing army of sufferers from appendicitis have learned with much regret that the most renowned and successful operator for that dread disease is about to retire from practice. Sir Frederick Treves, who probably saved the king's life at that terrible time last year, when his majesty's sudden illness caused the postponement of the coronation, announces that growth of his practice has compelled him to give it up, as it prevents him giving attention to his great work in connection with the royal army medical corps, which he is reorganizing.

Sir Frederick will retain his position as surgeon-in-ordinary to the king and surgeon-in-ordinary to the prince of Wales. He is only 50 years of age, and with his abundant energy and sound knowledge it is expected that he will make the British militia medical service the finest in the world. He had practical experience of the medical needs of an army in the field, having been consulting surgeon to the forces during the war and accompanied the Ladysmith relief column. He is the author of several standard works on surgery, particularly on intestinal surgery. His great success in the king's case has made him more than ever the most renowned and sought-after operator for appendicitis, which, by the way, he prefers to call perityphilitis.

TWENTY PERSONS HURT AND MANY HOMELESS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

BALTIMORE, July 12.—A severe wind and rain storm occurred here this afternoon which was particularly violent in a limited section of northeast Baltimore, where, within a radius of about four blocks, 50 houses were unroofed, walls demolished and trees uprooted.

For several squares the streets were thickly strewn with the debris of wrecked roofs, brick and splintered limbs of trees. Three hundred people were rendered homeless for the time being and were compelled to find shelter in neighboring houses.

The damage to houses and household goods is estimated at $100,000.

Twenty persons were injured, one seriously. The rainfall here for the day was 3.90 inches and the velocity of the wind 40 miles an hour.

LARGE FUND FOR EXPENSES

New Filtration Commission Will Control Over $700,000.

SECRET OF THE LOBBY

Former Director McCandless Says Mechanical Firms Have Consolidated.

ONLY ONE BIDDER IN SIGHT

The new filtration commission, which the alum-water advocates tonight will ask councils to appoint, will have a cool expense fund of $700,000 or more at its disposal to compel the people of Pittsburgh to accept the mechanical or chemical system. This fact possibly explains the presence of an industrious lobby working for the mechanical idea and the determination of a band of politicians to force councils to approve their scheme.

Former Director J. Guy McCandless stated yesterday that a consolidation of the large mechanical filter companies had been effected, and that if the city repudiated sand filtration and adopted the mechanical system there would be only one firm to bid, and its bid would be large enough to consume the remainder of the $2,500,000 voted in 1899 for sand filtration.

It is estimated that a mechanical plant large enough for Pittsburgh would not cost over $1,500,000 and possibly less. This estimate is based upon the cost of other mechanical plants in operation. The city has already expended about $284,000 for land for filter beds and the preparation of plans. This leaves a balance in the bond fund of about $2,216,000.

Fund May Reach a Million.

The difference between $2,216,000, the money now on hand, and $1,500,000, the maximum estimate of the cost of a mechanical plant, is $716,000. These figures are regarded as conservative, and there are persons who claim that the difference would run up to $1,000,000.

The activity of the mechanical filter agents among councilmen speaks volumes. With but one mechanical firm in business, as alleged by former Director McCandless, there would be no competition for the contract of building the plant, and the filter monopoly could get the job at its own price. It is the opinion of the advocates of sand filtration that the alum water agents have promised to bear all expenses of a commission or other parties that may assist in giving them a fat job at a largely remunerative figure, and that the amount in excess of the actual cost of the plant will be judiciously distributed.

"Two mechanical firms were experimenting here when we were making tests, and I know that both of these firms have since consolidated," said Director McCandless. "I do not care to say what I believe is back of this fight for mechanical filtration, but if the city asks for bids for a mechanical plant there likely will be but one bidder. The people can form their own conclusions."

Lobby Is Working Hard.

The alum water people are working might and main to foist their scheme upon councils. They do not claim that mechanical filtration is better than sand filtration, but they say it is just as good as sand filtration, and better for Pittsburgh, because it is cheaper. They also endeavor to destroy the popularity of the sand system by piling up estimates of additional cost in the hope of discouraging those who have taken a firm stand in the past for the sand system.

Chairman Thomas M. Brown promises to present the report of the filtration committee to common council tonight. If this report is adopted sand filtration will be a remote possibility, as the report substantially provides that the question of sand filtration shall be left to the finance committee and the director of public works to act upon at their pleasure, while the proposed new commission shall proceed at once to adopt the mechanical.

POLICEMEN ATTACKED BY MOB OF NEGROES

Shots Were Exchanged During a Riot in Street of New York.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 12.—A riot which required the reserves of three police precincts to suppress broke out tonight in the negro quarter in West Sixty-second street. The trouble was precipitated by the attempt of Policeman Connor to arrest William Johnson, the leader of a gang of negroes who were making a disturbance in the street.

The policeman secured his prisoner after a sharp fight, and was dragging him to the station house when he was assailed by a mob, and volleys of bricks and stones were hurled at him from the roofs of adjacent tenements.

On the arrival of two other policemen Connor opened fire on a negro on a roof and the shots were returned from windows of the house. The reserves cleared the streets and chased the rioters over the roofs, making several arrests, and finally restored order.

INEVITABLE IS ONLY DELAYED

NOT VERY CONFIDENT

DISPUTES AMONG CARDINALS

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

Rome, July 13, 6:45 a. m.—The condition of the pope was stationary during the night. He slept at intervals, but was not entirely tranquil.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

Rome, July 12.—The pope's illness continues to follow the normal course. In vatican circles the belief is beginning to spread that the pope will recover and that matters at the apostolic palace will return to their former condition. The picket of the guard of nobles, which was stationed in the pontificial ante-chamber, has been withdrawn and the palatine guards that had been posted everywhere in the vatican, on the staircases and in the courtyard, have also disappeared.

The cardinals went to the vatican again today to inquire about the pope's condition, and were informed that the improvement continues. They therefore returned home instead of passing hours waiting for news as they had been doing.

Tonight Dr. Lapponi made the following important statement in answer to the question if he believed that the improvement in the pope's condition could continue:

"I believe that if the improvement lasts until July 21 we may not perhaps achieve an absolute cure, but we will secure such a general state of health in the patient as will allay our anxiety."

During the morning the pontiff participated in the celebration of mass. The ceremony was held in the chapel adjoining the sick chamber, Mgr. Marzoni being the celebrant. The door connecting the sick room with the chapel was opened, so that his holiness might follow the service. He insisted that Dr. Lapponi and his valet, Centra, should leave his side and enter the chapel in order to better hear the mass.

An Uneventful Day.

The history of the day has been comparatively uneventful. The pontiff had several hours' repose, Dr. Lapponi resting near him throughout the night. The physician twice administered injections to him, once of digitalis to strengthen the heart and another injection of camphor caffeine to overcome the patient's growing depression. This morning found the pontiff with spirits bright and the conditions generally improved.

Dr. Mazzoni joined his assistant at 8:20 a. m., and after a brief conference issued the most encouraging official bulletin thus far given. Besides summarizing the satisfactory pathological conditions, the doctor gave the cheering tidings that the pontiff's condition had manifestly improved. The pulse, which went down yesterday to 52, had risen to 56, while the temperature and respiration showed no abnormal characteristics.

Pope Leo took his usual light breakfast and Dr. Lapponi, who has remained in unceasing vigil since the patient's case became desperate, felt sufficiently assured to leave the vatican for the first time, going to his home, where his daughter lies stricken with fever.

Sits in His Armchair.

When the physician left the sick room he was almost mobbed by high dignitaries including several cardinals who rejoiced at seeing the physician tranquil enough to leave the patient. Dr. Lapponi addressed them all by saying:

"Yes, the pope is better, but I beg you not to exaggerate in optimism in order to avoid a disillusion later."

Dr. Mazzoni was also absent from the pope's side, which in itself gave the clearest evidence that the doctors themselves were relieved of immediate apprehension. Dr. Rossoni has been taken sick with fever and was prevented from visiting the pope this evening, as he intended.

During the afternoon the pope felt strong enough to get up. He rose, dressed himself alone in white, and went to sit in his arm chair, where he remained for some time. Then the windows were opened for a change of air, the sun streaming in, together with a light, refreshing breeze from the Mediterranean. Late in the afternoon he received Cardinals Mathieu, Steinhuber, Agnardi and Casali. The pope showed his usual brightness and lucidity of mind, and spoke to each without showing any perceptible fatigue. To Cardinal Mathieu his holiness said:

Praying for France.

"I have not ceased for one moment to pray God to protect France and have the men now governing her repent and stop the persecution of the church." He then sent the apostolic blessing to Cardinal Mathieu's sister, who is a nun. He heartily thanked Cardinal Steinhuber, who told him that the whole Jesuit order was daily praying for his recovery and preservation, and he asked Cardinal Agnardi how he liked the position of vice-chancellor of the church, to which he was appointed at the last consistory, a how the cardinal enjoyed his new residence, the beautiful and historic palace of the chancellery. Hearing that the cardinal had not yet moved there, Pope Leo said:

"You must settle yourself before leaving for the country," as though the conclave was a most remote possibility. He thanked Cardinal Casali for the warm interest he had taken in his illness and then gave all the cardinals his hand to shake. As the king of Spain had telegraphed to inquire about the pope's health and had asked for the papal benediction, his holiness directed Cardinal Rampolla to telegraph back granting the request.

Doctors Return in Evening.

Later the pontiff took a short nap and slept tranquilly enough, although he seemed to have somewhat more difficulty in breathing. The doctors returned at 7:30 p. m. and their evening bulletins gave negative encouragement, simply showing that the favorable conditions of this morning had been maintained. Throughout the day St. Peter's was surrounded by the usual Sunday worshipers and steady lines of inquirers visited the vatican courtyard, where the bulletins are issued. Unusual rigor was adopted to prevent unseemly gatherings.

Prof. Rossoni has told me he would not be surprised if the pope lived several days longer. He mentioned that he had once attended a woman aged 80 who was suffering from pleurisy similar in character to that of the pope and that she resisted the inroads the malady made for two months. There is consequently ground for hope that the pope may keep up his struggle with death for a long time yet. The danger of sudden death lies in the condition of his heart, which is still very weak.

Numerous conflicts between cardinals and prelates have taken place at the vatican during the past few days since the pope's authority practically ceased. One of the gravest of these incidents arose out of the fact that anybody and everybody was allowed to enter the vatican and penetrate as far as the courtyard of St. Damascus and even further.

Captain of Guard Arrested.

Never since 1870 had access to the vatican been as easily obtained. Cardinal Oreglia much regretted this, because it appeared to constitute the termination of the pontificial policy of resistance to the usurpation of Rome by the present government of Italy.

Baron Meyer, the Chauensee commander of the Swiss guards, who shares Cardinal Oreglia's views, has placed Capt. Smith under close arrest because it was found that he had given information concerning the pope's illness to a journalist.

The populace's idea that the pope may live for weeks is not shared by the physicians. The crisis is expected some day this week. It is believed the pope is being kept alive only by digitalis, caffeine and the remnants of a marvelous constitution. It is reported the pontiff is still unaware of Volpini's death and the illness of the other cardinals.

He insisted upon rising and occupying an armchair. The Austrian and Hungarian cardinals today conferred upon their action in the probable conclave, and it is reported they agree to join German cardinals and support Gotti. If Gotti fails their votes will probably go to Serafino Vannutelli or Agliardi.

Says Gibbons Has No Chance.

LONDON, July 13.—The Daily Telegraph correspondent at Rome telegraphs: "I am authorized to state on the authority of two cardinals, one of whom is himself a candidate, that neither Cardinal Gibbons nor any other foreign member of the sacred college, possesses the remotest chance of succeeding Pope Leo."

LOCOMOTIVE BLEW UP.

Engineer Killed and Fireman Fatally Hurt, but Trucks Are Not Derailed.

CALORES, WYO., July 12.—(Special.)—While running at a high rate of speed the locomotive hauling a Union Pacific fast westbound train, exploded near this city this afternoon killing Engineer Lyons and fatally wounding Fireman Hansen.

Although the locomotive was completely wrecked, everything above the drivers being blown away, the wheels and trucks remained on the track and the train stopped of its own weight without injury to others. Engineer Lyon was blown through the cab a distance of 50 feet. Pieces of boiler were picked up 300 yards from the scene of the accident. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

SENATOR HANNA TO VISIT ROOSEVELT AT OYSTER BAY

NEWPORT, R. I., July 12.—(Special.)—Senator and Mrs. M. A. Hanna and family returned this morning on the steam yacht Alvina as the guests of Clement A. Griscom, who entertained with a luncheon, while Mrs. George Peabody Wetmore gave a luncheon in honor of Miss Hanna. Senator Aldrich, who has been entertaining Senator Hanna and his party at Warwick, paid a visit to Senator Hanna today. Senator Hanna will be here till Tuesday, when he leaves for Oyster Bay to visit the president. Later in the season Senator and Mrs. Hanna will return for several weeks' stay with Senator and Mrs. Wetmore.

CAPT JOHN W. M'INTYRE DIED AT HIS HOME

CORAOPOLIS, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—Capt. John W. McIntyre, 67 years old, died at his home here this morning. He was taken ill Wednesday morning while on duty as captain of the Monongahela excursion steamer, Mayflower. Capt. McIntyre was one of the oldest rivermen in point of service. He practically spent his life on the Allegheny, Monongahela and Mississippi rivers. He was born near McKeesport. He was twice married, his second wife being Miss Anna B. Sharpe, whom he married 13 years ago. He was a member of the Masons and of the Pilots and Sailmasters' association. He is survived by two daughters, at home, and by one brother, Daniel, of Allegheny, also a pilot.

JUDGE GRAY'S BOOM APPEALS TO MINERS

POTTSVILLE, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—The quiet boom among the anthracite miners of Judge Gray of Delaware for president is assuming tangible shape. A canvass of the officers of the mine workers show that a great majority of these who are Democrats favor Judge Gray's nomination. Since the collapse of the Cleveland boom the adherents of both Cleveland and Bryan have united in praise of Judge Gray and it is expected that the latter will be indorsed for president at the approaching Schuylkill county Democratic convention.

PREDICTS TEN MORMONS IN UNITED STATES SENATE

DENVER, July 12.—The local pulpits were occupied today by visiting clergymen, delegates to the Christian Endeavor convention. The Rev. A. K. Wright of Boise, Ida., created a sensation at a meeting in Trinity church by denouncing Mormonism, and declaring that the political leaders of Idaho, Utah and some other states had formed alliances with the Mormon church. He predicted that there would soon be 10 Mormons in the United States senate.

Police Capture 24 More.

Early this morning the police raided the house of Helen Reed, No. 520 Third avenue, and arrested four women and two men; at Kate Brown's house, No. 524 Third avenue, three women and nine men were arrested, and at the house of Maud Stanton, No. 237 Second avenue, five women and one man were arrested. All prisoners were sent to Central police station.

Polish Wedding Too Noisy.

Seven boisterous Poles were arrested by the McKeesport police at 7 o'clock last night in a raid on a Polish wedding in Locust street. The neighbors complained.

GIBBONS A FACTOR IN THE CONCLAVE

CRITICISM OF ROOSEVELT

President's Omission to Inquire After the Pope's Health Considered by Some as a Breach of International Courtesy—Nieces Visit Leo.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROME, July 12.—The present situation points to three parties entering the conclave. Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli will head the Austrian party, Cardinal Agliardi will lead the German party, while Cardinal Sarto, the patriarch of Venice, will lead the Italian national party. Much depends on the attitude of the foreign cardinals, particularly Cardinal Gibbons. It is therefore not impossible that Sarto will be elected as pontiff because of his more desirable international tendencies.

In pontifical circles and among intelligent Romans astonishment is expressed because President Roosevelt has not made inquiries concerning the pope's condition. Considering the enormous number of Catholics in the United States, Mr. Roosevelt's negligence has caused adverse comment in all circles in Rome as a breach of international courtesy all the more marked because the rulers of countries with comparatively few Catholics, like Russia, Germany and England, made special telegraphic inquiries and have written special letters. Americans in Rome are surprised that Roosevelt did not at least instruct the United States embassy here to make inquiries in his name.

Despite encouraging medical reports Rome continues to believe the pontiff will not recover. Today his holiness is full of hope and said to the physicians: "I shall recover; I shall recover."

The pope's nieces, Marquise Canali and Countess Maroni, visited the vatican today. Heretofore they have remained away, fearing to see the change ill health had made in their uncle. Tonight the nieces remained in his bedroom a few minutes. Before departing they kissed the pope's hand and asked his blessing. Cardinal Ferrata had an audience with the pope this afternoon and says: "Your holiness' illness has excited great piety and devotion among the people."

The pope answered: "I am happy then in my sickness."

Monsignor Carraceiol, prince of Torchiarol, arrived at Rome from Naples bearing the mitre of St. Januarus. The mitre was placed at the head of the pontiff and then deposited on a table beside the Neapolitan patron saint who is the pope's favorite. The city of Naples is excited because of the pope's improvement today and attribute it to the intercession of St. Januarus. If his holiness continues to improve an immense pilgrimage of Neapolitians to Rome will be made.

CONVICTED MURDERER ATTACKS HIS LAWYER

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ATLANTA, GA., July 12.—Torn and bleeding, Attorney Robert Jordan was dragged, just in time to save his life, from the cell in which Millard Lee is chained while awaiting execution for the murder of his sweetheart, Miss Lalia May Sutley.

The attorney went to the jail to see Lee relative to taking steps to prevent the execution of the death sentence and was admitted to the cell. Soon afterward the guards in the corridor heard sounds of a struggle and smothered cries. Rushing to Lee's cell, they found the attorney on the floor, his throat gripped by the prisoner, who was also battering his victim's face. The guards dragged the unconscious attorney out. It was necessary to club Lee's fingers to make him release his grip. Jordan's throat was badly torn and his face battered. When the lawyer was revived he said that while discussing the case, Lee cried, "I'll kill you," and attacked him.

A year ago today Lee killed Miss Sutley, who had refused to marry him at the close of services in an Atlanta suburban church. Lee's lawyer defended him on the ground of insanity, but he has twice been convicted and given the death sentence.

KING PETER'S BIRTHDAY.

Servia's New Monarch Holds Reception and Grants Amnesty to Prisoners.

BELGRADE, SERVIA, July 12.—The birthday of King Peter was celebrated today and thanksgiving services were held throughout the country. The king held a reception at the palace and granted amnesty in honor of the occasion, in which were included many military prisoners. The city was decorated and illuminated.

It is stated that the king will probably visit the czar in September. A crisis is expected to occur involving a reconstruction of the cabinet.

FIERCE FIGHT OVER WIFE.

Thomas Johnson Resented Attention Showed to His Spouse.

Thomas Johnson of No. 130 Lambert street, East End, was seriously hurt in a fight over his wife at their home at 10 o'clock last night. The two were drinking with two men said to be Frank Jacksworth and John Stewart. It is claimed Johnson resented the attention shown his wife by the two men and a fierce melee followed.

During the fight one of the men struck Johnson on the head with a beer bottle, knocking him senseless and cutting a gash several inches long across his forehead. Policeman Peter McCollough was called and Johnson was sent to the Charity hospital. Mrs. Johnson was arrested and lodged in No. 6 police station, but her husband's assailants escaped.

Fight May Result in Homicide.

In a street fight in Brick alley last night Thomas Jefferson, a negro, hit aged Ludwig Klawser over the head with a club, knocking him down and probably fracturing his skull. Kiswser was taken to his home and is in a serious condition. Jefferson gave himself up and is being held to await the result of Klawser's injuries.

Mill Men to Resume Work.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., July 12.—Four thousand mill men at Ashland, Ky., and Ironton, O., who have been on strike for six months, will return to work tomorrow, said State Labor Organizer Nightingale of West Virginia, who was called several days ago to assist in making a settlement. Concessions were made by both sides.

Hail Destroys Crops.

YORK, NEB., July 12.—A hailstorm today destroyed all crops in the northwestern part of the county, covering a strip nine miles long and three miles wide.

Plumed Knight's Widow Dying

Mrs. James G. Blaine.

AUGUSTA, ME., July 12.—(Special.)—Mrs. James G. Blaine is failing rapidly. She has been unable to recognize friends for some time. She is able to take only liquid nourishment and her speech is practically gone. She remains in a semi-comatose condition, and the attending physician says that, while she may continue a week or more in that condition, her death may be expected at any moment. The members of the family are all here.

GEORGE J. GOULD TELLS THE WABASH PLANS

J. W. Patterson, who is directing the engineering work around Pittsburgh.

Inspired by Pittsburgh Energy.

"You have made splendid progress," said the chief, "and the realization of the plans is everywhere visible. The work has been more than satisfactory. I am glad that the spirit of Pittsburgh energy has been infused with such magnitude in the undertakings that have been begun here."

It was Mr. Gould's first extended visit to Pittsburgh and nothing escaped his notice. To Joseph Ramsey, Jr., president of the Wabash, and the local representatives of the engineering and traffic departments, he gave liberal encomiums for their labors for the establishment of the road in Pittsburgh territory. He noted that the Wabash passenger station laid practically in the heart of the city's business district; he spoke of the advantages which would be secured through the lines to the South Side mill district; he characterized the line of the Pittsburgh, Carnegie & Western in its two great tunnels and cantilever bridge across the Monongahela a masterpiece of engineering, and added praise for the citizens of Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh newspapers for their encouragement in bringing the Wabash into a virgin field.

Unassuming Man of Affairs.

The man who directs the vast railroad interests bequeathed by Jay Gould is pre-eminently a son of his father. George J. Gould is a practical business man unadorned by frills. His work embraces a multitude of details, and he attends to these with clock-like precision. This inspection is his vacation journey, but nevertheless is fraught with duties requiring an immense amount of care. In a plain straw hat and business suit Mr. Gould yesterday would have attracted little attention as a man of affairs, but in the world of finance he is a giant, little overshadowed by the fame of his distinguished father.

The private trolley car Duquesne of the Pittsburgh Railways Company was placed at the disposal of the party in making the trip from the boat to the Hotel Schenley. Riding out Fifth avenue and Forbes street, Mr. Gould sat by the open window eagerly viewing the swiftly passing panorama.

Suggestive of Stability.

"You know, I have seldom been in Pittsburgh before," he said to a reporter for The Gazette, "and I have formed very crude ideas as to the extent of the city's business interests and the monumental enterprise of its people. There is the finest office building in this country. In the massive architecture combined with beauty and utility, Mr. Frick has taught us just what is desired in a modern office structure. It happily typifies Pittsburgh in its suggestion of stability. Do you believe Pittsburghers ever stopped to think of that? And everywhere we look around this city we find the evidences of thrift and the industry that has produced these conditions.

"I am gratified to see our lines extended here and feel grateful to the people of Pittsburgh and the newspapers of Pittsburgh for the hand of welcome that is extended to the Wabash. The commercial development that will follow will be deserved by these enterprising people.

"Down in San Antonio, Tex., several years ago I noticed a large amount of structural material which had been delivered for buildings there. I asked where that steel had been secured and the contractor replied, 'Why, from Pittsburgh, of course.' Right there my ambition to have a terminal in Pittsburgh received a wonderful impetus. And everywhere, all over the country, Pittsburgh's trade mark is conspicuous.

"There is much yet to be done in improving the Western Maryland. Grades must be cut down and there will be several years of busy work for the engineers, but when this is done we shall have a route to Chicago shorter than the Baltimore & Ohio.

"It is expected, too, that a rich field for excursion traffic will be opened up. This line will traverse the battlefield district which at present is more or less isolated from the main highways of travel between the east and the west."

Mr. Gould was told that the people in Southern Pennsylvania were eagerly awaiting the development of that district by the Gould system and was asked if especial efforts would be made toward opening Gettysburg as a tourist point. He answered:

Railroads Always Welcome.

"By all means, yes. It is encouraging to find the people so heartily in accord with a railroad company's efforts to develop new territory, and in Pennsylvania and West Virginia I have found the people quite as eager as those in the west to welcome a new railroad."

The inspection party sailed up the Monongahela above Homestead affording the visitors the best opportunities to view the mills on the South Side and at Homestead, Rankin and Braddock. After dinner Mr. Gould boarded a trolley car, and with President Ramsey and other officials rode through the East End district to view the residences of H. C. Frick, C. M. Schwab and A. R. Peacock. In the morning the party was driven in carriages through the parks.

At 7:30 o'clock this morning the special train will push on to Connellsville, and the country to be traversed by the Uniontown divison will be visited and an inspection made of the West Virginia Central lines.

ART TREASURES FOR PROPOSED NEW GALLERY

art collection and money necessary for the purchse of examples of the handicrafts, pottery, etc., of the natives of new possessions of the United States and Mexico, this collection to be exhibited alternately in Washington and at the various expositions throughout the country.

The suggestion that Mr. Morgan is now ready to donate his collection appraised at $6,000,000, but worth many times that, to this national gallery, has revived popular interest in the subject and with the influence that can now be brought to bear upon congress, it is believed that the next session will authorize the start, at least, of what has long been the hope of the lovers of art in this country, the establishment of a magnificent national gallery of art at the nation's capital.

It is doubtful if any person except Mr. Morgan himself could give an exact appraisal of the value of his art treasure now in England. He has been buying rare pictures, porcelains, silver, bronze, tapestry and other antiques for years, and his collection is almost priceless.

At his country estate, "The Dover House," at Roehampton, and his new town house, No. 53 Grosvenor street, in the heart of Mayfair, bought last summer of the Countess of the Dudley, are many valuable works of art. His first London house, No. 13 Princess gate, has long been filled with old masters.

He has there paintings by Constable, Rembrandt, Teniers, Van der Heydt, Ruysdael, Messonier, Corot, Rubens, Boucher and other famous painters. He has several hundred miniatures, some of which cost $5,000 each. Gainsborough's famous "Duchess of Devonshire," for which he paid $150,000, and the celebrated Meanheim collection of art curiosities, for which it has been said by connoisseurs Mr. Morgan probably paid $2,500,000.

Among the famous paintings owned by him and now in England are "Lady Betty Delme and Children," by Sir Joshua Reynolds, for which he paid $11,000; Raphael's famous "Madonna of St. Anthony of Padua," bought for $50,000; Rubens' "Portrait of the Grand Duke," price, $125,000; landscape by Tadema, from the Dorcester house gallery, bought for $110,000, and the Fragonard panels, painted for Dubarry's palace, near Paris.

The collections of Carnegie, Yerkes and Widener, while not so valuable as Mr. Morgan's, are valued at several millions.

OFFICERS' QUICK WORK RUNNING DOWN CLEW

Twenty Minutes After Notification of a Burglary Suspect Is Under Arrest.

Dr. Michael F. O'Brien of No. 2808 Sarah street, South Side, telephoned to the police station about 7:30 o'clock last night and asked that officers be sent to his residence, as he had been robbed. Inspector P. F. Kelly and Officer James Conner were at the station at the time and at once went out on the case.

Dr. O'Brien told the officers that he had seen a man coming down the stairs in his house a short time before and that upon investigation he found he had been robbed of four rings and a piece of valuable bric-a-brac worth, combined, about $150.

DISTRIBUTED STOLEN MONEY.

Negro Secured $125 and Then Handed It Around to His Friends.

Charged with stealing $125 and giving it around to his friends, Charles J. Harris, a negro of No. 624 Ross street, was arrested last night and placed in No. 6 police station. His arrest was made on complaint of Mrs. Annie Howe, a negress, the proprietress of the boarding house in which Harris lives. James Edwards and Henry Jackson, two negroes who received some of the money, were also arrested.

Mrs. Howe claims she went to sleep on Saturday with the money in her pocket and when she awoke it was gone. She suspected Harris and had him arrested. Harris protested his innocence, but it was found that on Saturday he gave $75 to Edwards, $10 to Jackson and smaller amounts to other colored friends. Edwards and Jackson admit having received the money.

Seventeen Injured in Riot.

BUDAPEST, HUNGARY, July 12.—Disorders broke out today at a meeting of electors at Nagyvard, capital of Mihar province, which was being addressed by Dr. Parabas, the leader of the extreme Left in the Hungarian diet. Seventeen persons were injured and the military had to be summoned to restore order. Many arrests were made.

Drinking Party Broken Up.

An alleged speakeasy, conducted by Richard Smith in a small shanty on the hillside near Brown station was raided yesterday. Smith and three visitors were arrested.

WOUND LIKELY TO PROVE FATAL

DYING DEPOSITION TAKEN

Injured Man Refused to Say Much About the Shooting—Woman in the Case—No Trace of the Culprit, Who Escaped.

Charles Head, who was shot by John Flanagan at No. 27 Watson street last Saturday night, is in a dying condition at the Homeopathic hospital. Late last night he made his dying deposition to Alderman C. F. Anderson and Detective Harry Hutchinson. After he related the story of the shooting he collapsed. His death is expected at any moment. The bullet lodged in the right lung and the physicians say the wound is fatal. Flanagan has escaped and at a late hour last night the detectives had not succeeded in finding him.

Head and Flanagan boarded together with Mrs. Ella Walsh. Head was an engineer on the Steamer R. L. Aubrey and Flanagan was a carpenter. Mrs. Walsh says the men went into her house late Saturday night and went to their rooms. Later she heard a shot and getting up went to the room. Head was lying on the bed with a bullet in his shoulder. He told Mrs. Walsh that Flanagan had shot him. Officer William Wess was called in to make an investigation. Dr. E. L. Tripp was summoned and Head was taken to the hospital.

At the hospital Head said that Flanagan entered the room and shot him without any warning. He refused to divulge their differences if they had any. Head said they had both been going with the same woman, but would not tell who she is. Mrs. Walsh was arrested as a witness in the case and is at the central police station.

Both men have been employed along the river for years. Flanagan is described as 40 years old, 6 feet tall and weighing 180 pounds. He has a sandy complexion and a description of him has been sent to the police all over the country. It is alleged that he was seen in this city yesterday.

Head is 39 years old and unmarried. His home is in McConnelsville, O. Mrs. Walsh has a stand in the Diamond market. She is the wife of a former police officer.

BRIBERY CASE REVIVED.

Treasurer of Clarion Normal School Insists on Return of Money.

CLARION, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—Interest in the normal school alleged bribery which it was thought was dead, has again revived. I. M. Shannon, president of the Second National bank and treasurer of the school, through his attorneys, G. G. Sloan and A. A. Geary, went before the board of trustees and requested the board to bring action against the persons implicated in the payment of the $2,750, to the end that the sum be restored to the school. This sum was 10 per cent of an appropriation of $27,500 received by the school from the state, and it is claimed that it was paid on an order said to have been for repairs, etc.

Mr. Shannon says that if the trustees refuse to take action to recover the money that he will do so as a stockholder of the school. The trustees read and referred the matter to the finance committee which consists of Messrs. Shirley, Roy, Rimer, Laughlin and Maffett, and it is understood that they will meet tomorrow and take some action.

UNION MAN SHOT

Fire Opened Upon Crowd Around Syracuse Factory, Where Men Are on Strike.

STRACUSE, N. Y., July 12.—(Special.)—George Moore, a molder, lies at St. Joseph's hospital tonight suffering from a bullet wound supposed to have been inflicted by a Winchester in the hands of an Italian strike breaker. Three men are under arrest, but the crime has not been fixed on any of them.

The trouble at the Stearns shops dates back several weeks when a strike was declared over the question of unionizing the place. There have been numerous conflicts between the strikers and the non-union men. This morning there was a rumor that one of the men inside the factory had threatened to shoot one of the strike leaders. This brought a large crowd to the place. Late this afternoon, while the crowd was greatest, a rifle was thrust from a window of the factory and three shots were fired. Moore fell and the crowd scattered. The police broke into the factory and arrested three men. They also seized a number of rifles and dirks. When the trio were bundled into a patrol wagon, the officers were obliged to fight their way through the crowd, which seemed intent upon avenging the shooting.

LULU GLASER SIGNS.

Will Appear in "My Lady Molly" With Andrew Mack in Frohman Company.

NEW YORK, July 12.—(Special.)—It was rumored along Broadway tonight that Lulu Glaser has been signed for next season by Charles Frohman, and that the comedienne will appear with Andrew Mack in the forthcoming production of "My Lady Molly."

Frohman held a long conference with Miss Glaser at London, and the actress attended several performances of "My Lady Molly." Mr. Mack will play only a brief season in "My Lady Molly," as he has been engaged to star in "The Middle of June" beginning early next September. It is likely that Mr. Mack and Miss Glaser may appear as dual stars until the time for the production of "The Middle of June," and thenceforward the actress be featured in the piece alone.

FRANK A. PARKER.

Boy Bathers Arrested.

A squad of police, under Inspector Robert G. Gray, made a raid on a crowd of boys who were bathing in the Allegheny river, near Brilliant station, yesterday afternoon. Eight of the boys, Carl Hartley of Whittier street, Lem. Wilhelm of Whittier street, Fred and Frank Abt of Winslow street, Frank Bryson of Winslow street, Nathan Thomas of Omega street and Samuel Kennedy of Lemington avenue, were arrested and locked up in No. 6 police station.

Took Up a Good Collection.

There were 97 cases at No. 5 police station yesterday morning, the large number of prisoners being due to the raids in that district Sunday morning. Out of the entire number there was not one jail prisoner, but the fines and forfeits amounted to $650.

Foot Crushed by a Timber.

Boy's Life Saved by Opening His Skull

NEW YORK, July 12.—(Special.)—Walter Graham, a five-year-old boy, suffering from lockjaw as the result of the explosion of a blank cartridge which lacerated his hand on the Fourth of July, was saved today as the result of a last-resort operation.

Dr. George C. Weiss, in the presence of 12 physicians, cut open the lad's skull and inserted anti-toxin. The jaws relaxed in an hour and the child is doing well. Dr. Weiss says he will recover.

YES, SAID THE MAIDEN OVER THE TELEPHONE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, July 12.—As the result of a proposal over the long-distance telephone, Thomas Phillips, president of the Federal Trust Company of Chicago and Miss Alice Wood Carnahan of Cadiz, O., were married in the latter place yesterday. Miss Carnahan visited Chicago in 1901 and met Mr. Phillips. Mr. Phillips was first attracted to Miss Carnahan for the reason that her home town, Cadiz, O., was his old home. When Miss Carnahan had returned to her home Mr. Phillips realized what her absence meant for him. That night he wrote a proposal of marriage to her. Early the next morning he called up Miss Carnahan's home on the long distance.

"Hello," he called. "Is this Miss Carnahan?"

"Yes," came the answer.

"Have you received my letter? What is the answer?"

"Yes," came the hesitating reply from Miss Carnahan.

FIVE VICTIMS NOW OF TOY PISTOLS ON FOURTH

Solomon Zeidner, son of Roumanian Barber, Expired. Boy Drowned.

The funeral of the fifth victim of toy pistols on the Fourth of July took place yesterday, when Solomon Zeidner, aged 23, a Roumanian, was buried. Zeidner was the son of a well-to-do banker in Roumania, and came to this country five weeks ago yesterday to make his fortune. He stayed with his brother, Marcus Zeidner, at No. 20 Vine street. On the Fourth of July he was celebrating the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence of the country of his birth and in shooting a toy pistol he badly burned his arm by a blank cartridge's contents. The wound healed up after being dressed by a physician, and on Friday the wound appeared to have entirely healed. Saturday the young man began to feel pains in his jaw, which rapidly became worse and finally developed into a case of lockjaw, which caused Ziedner's death late Saturday evening.

Five boys in a skiff were run down in the Ohio river by a towboat near Neville Island yesterday afternoon. They were out rowing, got in the path of the towboat, and were unable to get away. Four of them escaped, but William Tunnelton was drowned. He was a son of John Tunnelton, a grocer in Davis avenue, Allegheny. The body has not been recovered.

The body of a man supposed to have been Elmer J. Baker, aged 25 years, of West Virginia, was found yesterday afternoon in the river near Esplen. Baker worked for the Rodgers Sand Company. At about 9 p. m. Thursday he went out on a barge near Esplen to fasten a line, and fell overboard. It is thought, as he was not seen again alive. His body was removed to the morgue.

AFTER DOLE'S PLACE.

Gumshoe Campaign for Governor of Hawaii Is in Progress.

(By Pacific Cable.)

HONOLULU, July 12.—Although the term of Sanford B. Dole as governor of the territory of Hawaii does not expire until next June, campaigning has already commenced in relation to his successor. Reports have been circulated that Mr. Dole will not be named to succeed himself and a large crop of candidates is expected early next year.

Mr. Dole's friends, however, assert that his administration meets with the approval of President Roosevelt, and they confidently look for his reappointment. None of those eager to succeed Mr. Dole has yet announced his candidacy openly, but it is reported that a number are quietly interesting Washington influences in their behalf. Native Hawaiians are particularly active, it is said, and there is already discussion among them of the advisability of petitioning President Roosevelt to appoint one of their race as the official head of the islands.

VANDERBILT GIVES WINDOW.

Another Memorial Sent to Church at Biltmore, S. C.

NEW YORK, July 12.—(Special.)—There is now on the way to Biltmore, N. C., the home of George Vanderbilt, a handsome stained glass window which will help to enrich All Souls church, which Mr. Vanderbilt erected there for the benefit of the members of his household and for the use of the inhabitants of the immediate neighborhood. The window will be erected by Mr. Vanderbilt in memory of the late Paul Leicester Ford, his friend and companion, who was shot and killed by his brother last year.

This is the seventh memorial window by Mr. Armstrong to be placed in the Biltmore church by Mr. Vanderbilt, one of which was in memory of the giver's mother, another in memory of his brother Cornelius and a third in memory of Richard M. Hunt, the architect who designed the Biltmore palace and church.

Eastern Short Change Artists.

Edward Torrence and Alfred Patterson, two alleged short change men from the east, were arrested in McKeesport last night, fined $25 and costs and ordered to leave the city. They came here to reap the benefits of Allegheny county's numerous carnivals.

Arm Caught in Machinery.

William Adams of Masontown, Fayette county, was taken to the Mercy hospital yesterday with a badly crushed arm. Adams is an engineer on the steamer Columbia and got his arm caught in the machinery.

Humors

They take possession of the body, and are Lords of Misrule.

They are attended by pimples, boils, the itching letter, salt rheum, and other cutaneous eruptions; by feelings of weakness, languor, general debility and what not.

They cause more suffering than anything else.

Health, Strength, Peace and Pleasure require their expulsion, and this is positively effected, according to thousands of grateful testimonials, by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

BROKEN MAIN MAKES TROUBLE

BIG HOLE IN NEGLEY AVENUE

Thirty-six Inch Main Leaked a Week and Yesterday Morning It Tore Up the Street—No Water in Hydrants from Glenwood to Soho.

The little rivulet, which for a week has been coming from the big 36-inch water main at the north end of Negley avenue bridge developed into a good-sized stream yesterday morning, and by 8 o'clock it had swelled to a torrent. With a crash pieces of the asphalt pavement flew into the air, followed by stone, ballast, clay, sand and gravel, and a roaring cataract rushed down South Negley avenue into Center avenue.

The break in the main caused untold inconvenience and annoyance to residents of almost the entire district south of Forbes street. To repair the break it was necessary to shut off the flow from the Highland park reservoir by shutting the water gate at Center and Negley avenues, and the result was great distress. The greater part of Hazelwood and all of Glenwood, nearly the entire Fourteenth ward, and a great portion of the Twentieth and Twenty-second wards, and a part of the Thirteenth ward were without water from 8 a. m. until 9:30 p. m. During that time a force of about 50 men worked like beavers digging into the ground and temporarily repairing the water main. At 9:30 p. m., so it was said by the city authorities, the break was repaired strongly enough to allow the water to be turned on again.

Guarded a Large Hole.

All last night a lone Italian stood guard over a hole in the street, 10 feet wide, 10 feet long and 23 feet deep. The walls of the cavity were braced with heavy timbers and an engine was throbbing away, pumping the water that still leaked from the damaged main into the hole. The water poured out in Negley avenue and ran into the sewer at Center and South Negley avenues.

The break is at the north end of the bridge that crosses the Pennsylvania tracks, about 100 yards south of Center avenue. The pipe is 35 feet under ground because it has to pass under the Pennsylvania railroad tracks, which are nearly 30 feet below the surface of Negley avenue.

It was said yesterday by men who were working on the break that for a week there has been a leak in a lead joint of the main at that point, and that efforts were made to stop the waste of water without shutting off the pressure, so that no inconvenience would be caused to householders. When the pipe finally did give way there was no time to warn the water consumers that their supply was to be cut off. With as little delay as possible the gate at Center and Negley avenues was shut down, and as soon as this happened hydrants ran dry mentioned in the district above.

Where the Water Main Runs.

The main enters Forbes street some distance west of the junction of that street with South Negley avenue and comes down Forbes street into the Soho district. At Boundary street a 12-inch main taps the pipe, runs down Boundary street into Second avenue and there connects with the Butler street main which supplies the downtown district and Second avenue, as far east as the western end of Hazelwood.

The main was put in only a few years ago to supply the higher parts of Hazelwood, the Second avenue main not being sufficiently capacious. At Craft avenue another 12-inch pipe taps the big main, runs to the end of Craft avenue, plunges down into the big hollow at that point and climbs up to Bates street. It continues down Bates street to Second avenue, goes up Second avenue as far as Greenfield avenue, up Greenfield avenue to Sylvan avenue and continues out to Hazelwood along the Sylvan avenue extension. As there was no water in the Forbes street main these pipes were also dry.

The sudden absence of water caused many a morning bath to be missed and many late breakfasters did without coffee until it occurred to the housewives that nearly all the drug stores keep distilled water on hand.

Much Distilled Water Sold.

One drug store in Ophelia street sold 15 cases of one dozen bottles of distilled water before nightfall, and in more populous parts of the waterless district the druggists sent piteous pleas for more water to the manufacturers of the distilled product.

The water bureau authorities said last night that it would not be necessary to shut off the water gate at Center and South Negley avenues today, but that the main would be made as good as new without inconveniencing anybody. The same main broke at the same point nine years ago.

All day long the telephone bell was ringing in the water bureau office in city hall. The men on duty there could give no information following the policy observed in the department of public works, and thousands of householders got no satisfaction. In fact the men in the office in city hall knew nothing of the break until told of it by citizens.

WILL GIVE SUPPORT.

Pavers and Rammers to Assist Curb Cutters in Their Fight.

Pavers and rammers, at their headquarters, No. 535 Smithfield street, last night, received a committee from the curb cutters and setters asking for support in the effort to maintain a union and secure a scale of wages. The committee claimed that much curbing is being done by non-union men working below the scale fixed by the organization. The pavers and rammers passed a resolution that no paving be done by any of its members unless the curbstones were cut and set by union men.

A committee was appointed to protest against the city authorities holding up the appropriations for street improvements. The money was appropriated some time ago, but is tied up in committee.

WENT TO HER OLD HOME AND DIED

Pathetic Case of Mrs. James Markham of Stanton Ave., Eighteenth Ward.

MARRIED ONLY A SHORT TIME

When Assured That Death Was Near the Young Wife Was Placed in a Cot in a Baggage Car and Was Speeded to Binghamton, N. Y.

Married only a short time, becoming ill in a strange city and longing for old scenes and a look into the faces of her parents before her death, which the doctors assured her would be a matter of a short time, Mrs. Cora Markham, wife of James Markham, a molder of Stanton avenue, Eighteenth ward, this city, was taken to her former home at Binghamton, N. Y., and expired. Mrs. Markham's condition was such when she left this city that she had to travel all the way in a baggage car on a cot, as she was so weak that any attempts to move her around would likely have proved fatal.

Lying in the baggage car, flying toward Binghamton, fighting death with every breath until she could close her eyes in the home that sheltered her during her girlhood, the young wife was taken from Pittsburgh to her father's residence in Binghamton.

The case was a most pathetic one. Mrs. Markham's brief married life had been unusually bright and happy, but when she was stricken with tuberculosis and a touch of peritonitis it became evident she could not live. Then blood-poisoning developed, and her heart turned with renewed longing toward the old home, and her prayer was that she might live until it was reached.

Although the husband had been assured that the death of his wife would not be far distant, yet he hoped that by granting her last wish her life might be prolonged a short time and her final hours on earth would be as bright as they possibly could be made. So a cot and attendants were procured and Mrs. Markham was transferred from the Stanton avenue home to the railroad baggage car, where she was made as comfortable as circumstances would permit.

The trip to Binghamton was uneventful, and, although fatigued from the long journey, the stricken woman showed considerable improvement and was noticeably brighter when she arrived at her old home and saw the friends of her childhood and the scenes with which she was so familiar.

Almost the last words Mrs. Markham said when she had been placed in the home of her father, John D. Phillips, was that she was glad to be back again. Shortly afterward she bade her parents goodby, closed her eyes and dropped asleep, never to awaken. The telegram announcing the death came to the friends of the family in Pittsburgh yesterday.

FOUR LABOR MEETINGS SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

Two Boards of Arbitration Meet in Pittsburgh to Consider Contentions Between Unions.

Four important meetings are to be held today, all of which effect local organizations. Two will be held in Pittsburgh and two in Cincinnati. Those to be held here are to arbitrate the dispute between the bricklayers and stone masons and between the stone cutters and the stone contractors, the latter on the operation of cutting machines. The two Cincinnati meetings are the convention of the Glass Bottle Blowers and the executive board meeting of the molders to consider ordering a strike of the local molders.

The arbitration of the bricklayers-stone masons dispute will take place in the banquet hall of the Hotel St. Charles. The contention regarding the stone masons appointing an attorney as an arbitrator will be left in the hands of the other five arbitrators. If they decide that an attorney is qualified to sit on the board, then each side will state their grievance. If they decide against the attorney, the stone masons will have to make another selection or the controversy will not be arbitrated.

The stone cutters and the stone contractors have each appointed two disinterested parties and the four will select a fifth. It is expected that the board will be able to render a decision some day this week. Pending the decision the stone cutters will continue work.

Although the molders have taken a secret ballot on the strike proposition, which was favorable, it is thought the executive board will not issue the strike order until another effort has been made to adjust the wage dispute. The machinists balloted to strike, but the cooler heads succeeded in effecting a compromise. The same is expected regarding the molders, who are closely allied to the machinists.

ATTORNEY GENERAL VISITS PITTSBURGH

Attorney General Philander C. Knox and his son Hugh spent several hours in Pittsburgh yesterday after attending the Knox family reunion in Brownsville. Mr. Knox registered at the Hotel Schenley and spent the afternoon visiting Pittsburgh associates with Attorney James S. Young. Last night he returned to the east with his son and will go to his summer home at Beverly Farms, Mass. He will spend the remainder of the heated term there on account of the illness of Mrs. Knox.

PHYSICIANS ARE KEPT BUSY IN WILKINSBURG

Wilkinsburg physicians say there is more than the usual amount of sickness in the borough this summer and they have all they can attend to. There is no epidemic of any particular disease, though there are quite a number of cases of typhoid fever and grip. Most of the cases are summer complaints, which are especially prevalent among children, the result mainly of overindulgence in unripe fruit and vegetables, ice water and iced drinks.

FOUR CONTESTS OCCUR TONIGHT

LIVELY COUNCIL MEETING

Stevenson and Supporters Trust in Select Council, Mayor Hays and Blind Luck. Hope to See Action on Baltimore & Ohio Measures Repeated.

The Duquesne way railroad ordinance, Director E. M. Bigelow's blanket ordinance, the report of the filtration committee and the proposed vacation of Watson street, Sixth ward, will claim the attention of common council tonight and will be sufficient to make a long and lively session.

The Duquesne way ordinance will come up on third reading. It cannot be debated unless the opponents of the measure succeed by some accident in getting the council body to go into a committee of the whole. The Stevenson faction may attempt this, but its leaders admit they have no chance of success. If they make the motion to go into a committee of the whole it will be for the sole purpose of forcing the members on record again.

W. H. Stevenson and his supporters are now pinning their faith on select council and Mayor William B. Hays, but to all appearance it is simply a case of blind faith and clutching at straws. They express the opinion that select council will hold up the Pennsylvania ordinance for the same reason it held up the Baltimore & Ohio ordinance.

As a last resort they claim they have Mayor Hays to fall back upon should select council concur in the action of the common branch and pass the ordinance upon its merits. They profess to believe Mayor Hays will veto the ordinance, but they offer no particular reason for this belief except the general one that the mayor is not pleased with the manner in which the ordinances has been put through common council.

Hays Got All He Asked.

Mayor Hays has shown no signs of being dissatisfied with the ordinance in its present shape. It contains all the amendments which he asked for—the right of other roads to cross over or under the Pennsylvania tracks; that the railroad shall pay all damages and that a specific time shall be fixed for the lifting of the tracks from Liberty avenue. The mayor did not ask for, nor was he an advocate of, cash compensation.

The mayor left the city the same day that Director Bigelow had a special meeting of common council called to pass the railroad ordinance, and he took no further part in the fight in common council.

If the rules are adhered to tonight the report of the filtration committee will be acted upon before Director Bigelow's blanket ordinance is taken up. The blanket ordinance is on the table in the order of unfinished business, which, under the rules, follows the reports of committees. The rules provide that when the business for which councils are called in special session is transacted that the order of business for stated meetings shall be followed.

Blanket Bill May Come First.

If the blanket ordinance is taken up first tonight the report of the filtration committee may not be brought in, as a long discussion on the blanket bill is predicted.

Chairman Chris Beckert, Jr., of the surveys committee is anxious to get unfavorable action tonight on the ordinance repealing the vacation of Watson street for Select Councilman Peter Hermes of the Sixth ward. Councilman Hermes has striven hard and long to get the street vacated so that he might extend his buildings across the street, owning the property on both sides. He got the vacation ordinance through councils some time ago, but before the street could be vacated the repealing ordinance was introduced, and until the repealer is defeated by both branches of councils Mr. Hermes cannot proceed with the vacation of the street. The repealing ordinance has been juggled back and forth between councils and the surveys committee for months, and will make its appearance again tonight in councils with a negative recommendation from Chairman Beckert's committee.

ELECTED A PRINCIPAL.

Instructors Chosen for the Union High School in Turtle Creek.

Union high school board of directors of Turtle Creek, composed of three members of each school board of East Pittsburgh, Turtle Creek and Wilmerding, Saturday evening elected Prof. R. E. Anderson of Punxsutawney principal of the Union high school to succeed Prof. William G. Ganns, who two weeks ago was chosen principal of the Wilmerding borough schools, after a deadlock lasting almost three months, and over 500 ballots had been taken for a successor to Prof. Grant Norris. Prof. Anderson's salary was fixed at $1,200 per year. There were more than 65 applicants for the position, from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Western New York, Virginia and West Virginia. Fifteen ballots were necessary to decide who should be principal.

Prof. H. W. Goodwin, assistant principal of the high school, was re-elected, and his salary was increased from $800 per year to $1,000. Miss Clara Rinehart was re-elected for teacher in the commercial course, and Miss Zetta Stewart of East End, this city, was chosen musical instructor.

A special executive committee of five was appointed to have charge of matters at the high schools between regular meetings of the board. The members are Messrs. John A. Glant, Chris Horrocks, the Rev. J. Elmer Bittle, Dr. William S. Plotner and Jackson J. Kerr.

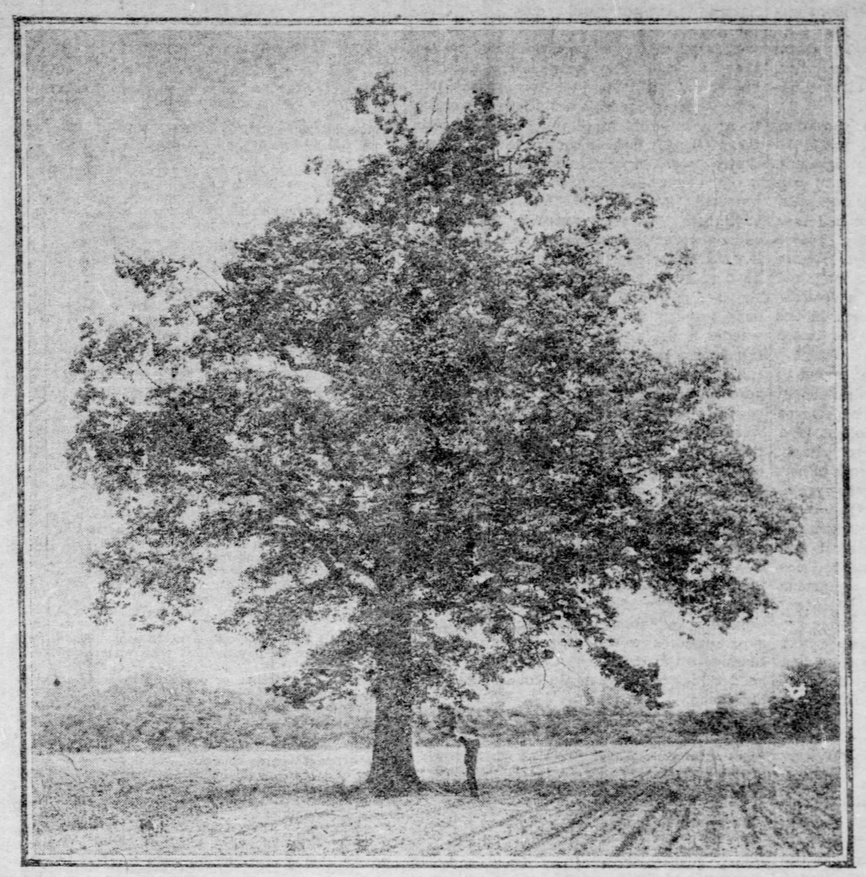
FATAL LOCKJAW RESULTS FROM THE LINCOLN BRIDGE HORROR

John A. Wiley is the fifth, although indirect, victim of the Lincoln avenue bridge accident on the Fourth. John was 13 years old and the son of William Wiley of No. 6372 Shakespeare street. He died of lockjaw in the East End hospital early yesterday morning.

The boy was playing on the boulevard under the bridge when the car plunged over, striking 80 feet below, killing the motorman and three passengers. John had a toy pistol with which he was celebrating the day. In his excitement in witnessing the accident, the boy discharged the pistol, inflicting a wound in his hand. The flesh was but slightly torn and it did not pain him until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon when he went home. His brother took him to a doctor at once and the latter attended him until Saturday when he advised the father to send him to the hospital. The boy was badly affected by tetanus at that time and nothing could be done for him.

HISTORIC OAK AT ECONOMY TO BE PRESERVED



Isolated in a buckwheat field on the outskirts of the old town of Economy stands a tree that is famous in the annals of Beaver county. The people are planning to preserve the arboreal landmark, and the charter oak of Connecticut or the Washington elm in Cambridge never received more devout care.

Under this tree, which is a black oak of immense size, Father Rapp and his band of brethren of the Harmony society ate their first meal after landing on the banks of the Ohio. This was over three-quarters of a century ago, and a few hundred yards east of the spot they founded their quaint settlement and gave it the name of Economy. The tree was venerated by the settlers, and when the surrounding wilderness was cleared away the sturdy black oak was spared from the woodman's ax.

But this was historic ground long before Father Rapp and his German kinsmen poled their boats down the Ohio. At this place the river flows past a high bluff which juts out above the water like an inland Gibraltar. Tradition says that the French and some of their Indian allies landed here after their flight from the smoking ruins of Fort Duquesne on Friday night, November 24, 1758. The bluff is still known among rivermen as French Point, and on the level ground on top of the hill the solitary tree can be seen from passing boats for miles along the river.

The sale of the old Economites' farm and the subsequent improvements which will be made by the American Bridge Company have aroused Beaver county antiquarians to make prompt efforts to protect the tree. It will be surrounded by an iron fence and will be given a new lease of life.

FATHER LYONS WAS KNOWN HERE

WAS ON HIS VACATION

Dead Priest's Identity Established Through Diocesan Chancellor's Office. Was Formerly Stationed at Holy Cross Church, South Side.

The identity of the Rev. Charles M. Lyons, a member of the Catholic priesthood, who was found dead on his bed in the New Market hotel, at No. 837 West Sixth street, Cincinnati, Saturday morning, has been established by the chancellor of the Pittsburgh diocese of the Roman Catholic church in Pittsburgh. Last evening the chancellor, when notified of the telegram announcing the death of the Rev. Father Lyons, said that the dead priest had received a leave of absence for a few weeks, and upon leaving said he intended to go south.

Father Lyons was about 40 years old, and his last charge was at the Catholic church at Dawson, Pa., a small town about 32 miles from Pittsburgh, on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. Father Lyons came here from New Jersey. He first became connected with the Pittsburgh diocese, according to the chancellor, about 10 years ago, and for some time following his coming to Pittsburgh Father Lyons was stationed at the Holy Cross Catholic church, at Carson and South Thirty-second streets. Some years ago he was appointed to the charge at Dawson.

According to the clerk at the hotel at which Father Lyons was found dead, the priest had told him that he was compelled to leave the priesthood owing to trouble in which he had become involved with the church authorities. As to the truth of this the chancellor said he was unable to say, as the bishop would have to be consulted in the matter, for any dealing the dead priest had in an official capacity would have been directly with the head of the diocese.

The chancellor said he did not believe that Father Lyons had been silenced. According to the report, Father Lyons died from natural causes. The chancellor last night stated that the local church authorities had not received a report of the death of Father Lyons, but that arrangements will probably be made to have his remains brought to Pittsburgh for interment.

SWISSVALE NOT A DUMP.

Burgess Linn Showing Pittsburgh Hucksters Their Mistake.

Burgess J. Madison Linn of Swissvale is waging war on the Pittsburgh hucksters who use his borough as a dumping ground. For several months past, it is alleged, wagon after wagon has hauled all sorts of refuse from this city and dumped it on the streets of Swissvale, especially on Woodstock and Braddock avenues.

Last week 25 of the offenders were caught by the police of the borough and taken before Burgess Linn, who fined each one $10 and costs.

The burgess has officers patrolling the streets over which the hucksters drive to get into Swissvale, and says they will be kept there until the practice of using Swissvale as a dumping ground is stopped.

EXPERT OPINION ON MAKING AUTOMOBILES

Stuart Simpson Says Many Machines Are Dangerously Constructed.

"Lives are jeopardized by the inferior mechanism of automobiles that are being manufactured," last night said Stuart Simpson, an expert machinist, who is business agent of the local machinists' union. He was formerly employed in making automobiles, bicycles and similar vehicles. "Unless the manufacturers pay more attention to the quality, durability and safety of such machines accidents, resulting in death and injury, will be the result."

Being an expert machinist he was asked by local automobilists to give an opinion regarding the machines, and in replying to the request said that a large number of automobile manufacturers are paying too much attention to speed and not enough to the strength of the machines. He recited several incidents where accidents have occurred. He showed that most of them are caused by some of the working apparatus getting out of order and becoming uncontrollable. He recalled the incident of the blowing up of the machines at the Duquesne garden a few days ago. Speaking of this accident he said:

"No doubt the manufacturer was fully convinced that the machine was made properly and entertained no thought that it was not safe. Yet on its second trip it exploded and no person has been able to state the exact cause. Upon a careful examination defects could be seen. They could not permit the pressure allotted to such a machine.

"In building a machine two things are essential. The first is safety and the second speed. Without either, the machine is not what is expected of it. To run an automobile that is not strongly made is as dangerous as running a locomotive with a defective boiler—no person can tell when it will explode. It is evident that in the future a law will be passed requiring only competent men to make the vehicles, and the finished machines will have to pass an examination before being allowed to be placed on the market."

CROSSING IS DEADLY.

Swissvale Residents Want the P. R. R. to Build Bridge at Noble Avenue.

A petition has been placed in circulation in Swissvale requesting council to make an arrangement with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for the erection of an overhead bridge at Noble street.

Hundreds of people cross the tracks at this point every day, and as several have been killed during the past two months citizens are desirous of eliminating the danger. All the employes of the Kopp glass works use the Noble street crossing, and narrow escapes from death by trains is of daily occurrence. The petition is being generally signed.

JOSEPH HORNE CO.

Weather—Fair. Monday, July 13, 1903.

Tomorrow, Collars, Cuffs, Negligee Shirts.

Advance Notice to Men.

Tomorrow and Wednesday we will hold our annual July sale of men's linen. Our news this afternoon and in "The Gazette" of tomorrow morning, will enter into details. The feature of this occasion will be the Negligee Shirts for 75c each. We are free to say they are the best special shirts we ever had, although we rather inclined to the thought that those of last Summer had reached the mark of highest perfection. But these go them several points better.

None of these special goods will be on sale today—they are as yet not even out of their cases, and will not be until after 5:30 this evening. This advance notice is given so that men who wish to secure Summer supply of Collars, Cuffs and Shirts, and who may be going out of town, can leave their order with us.

For accommodation of men who come in on early trains, and others who desire to buy before going to their work, the Men's Store will open its doors tomorrow morning at quarter to eight o'clock.

Aggressively Low Prices for Today have been named for goods in each of the departments which go to make the whole of this great store.

Literally there is everything that one can think of for greatly reduced prices—even to candy. We do not know when we had quite such a fine lay-out as that for today.

There is a tremendous collection of Summer goods here to be disposed of and we intend using drastic measures to accomplish their speedy removal.

MOORE SAYS M'TIGHE ACTED UNDER ORDERS

Director Approves Raiding of Quay Club—Calls It a Speakeasy and Those Who Frequent It Wharf Rats.

"The Quay club is nothing more nor less than a speakeasy and it was raided as such by the police acting under my orders," said Director Harry Moore yesterday. "There were 30 or 40 cases of beer in the club house, and it was sold to any person who paid the price.

"It is not true that the Quay club is a Citizens organization. Only a lot of wharf rats frequent the place. The parties running the club try to make it appear that it is a Citizens party organization, but this will not protect them. I intend to allow no speakeasies to exist while I am at the head of the public safety department, and Mayor Hays will support me. He is in hearty sympathy with everything I have done," added the director. The director said no charge of gambling had been preferred against the club.

It was reported yesterday that the raiding of the Quay club had created bad feeling between Supt. John P. McTighe and some of the Citizens leaders who are alleged to have interceded in behalf of the club. Councilman Harry Lamb of the Eleventh ward and William Shore, Jr., are said to have protested against the interference with the club and to have threatened to have Supt. McTighe removed from office. Director Moore said yesterday that he was not aware of any efforts on the part of Shore or Lamb to help the Quay club or to take vengeance upon Supt. McTighe.

Director Moore said that Supt. McTighe would not be permitted to extend any favors to the Quay club or to any other club or individual, and that McTighe could not be held accountable for the raiding yesterday. Director Moore made it plain that he assumed the responsibility for the entire affair, and that if any politicians had a grievance they would have to go after him instead of the police superintendent to obtain satisfaction.

Friends of Councilman Lamb and Shore stated yesterday that while both Lamb and Shore were members of the Quay club, they did not think that any effort to interfere with Supt. McTighe would prove successful.

The men arrested in the raid on the Quay club, at No. 416 Third avenue, early yesterday morning were arraigned for a hearing at 10 o'clock before Police Magistrate T. D. Stewart. J. E. Swartz was fined $25 and costs on a charge of keeping a disorderly house, but the other prisoners were fined according to the sums they had in their pockets. Magistrate Stewart first imposed a fine of $10 and costs upon these visitors, but learning most of them did not have that amount, he agreed to take what they had.

Two of the prisoners had $7 between them, and this was accepted by the magistrate. Three others had $20, and the magistrate accepted that. The sergeants then informed the magistrate two more of the prisoners had some money. Two men were brought out, and they had $1 20 between them. Magistrate Stewart accepted this amount and discharged the men.

Superintendent of Police John P. McTighe refused to discuss his reasons for raiding the Quay club, beyond saying:

"It's a joint, and I am going to drive it out of existence."

MRS. KOUNTZ ANXIOUS FOR A RECONCILIATION

Carries Fruits, Cigars and Literature to Jail, but Her Husband Refuses to See Her.

Mrs. Margaret Kountz is persistent in her attempts to secure a reconciliation with her husband, Dr. Walter P. Kountz, who was recently convicted of shooting and killing Contractor John E. Walsh on May 9, and is now in jail awaiting sentence. Mrs. Kountz has made three visits to the jail, each time taking magazines, cigars, fruits and other articles, which are accepted by the prisoner, although he refuses to see his wife.

Mrs. Kountz called at the jail yesterday afternoon. She carried a number of weekly newspapers and magazines. She handed them to the attendants for her husband. Mrs. Kountz asked about his health and the condition of his spirits. Permission was then requested to see him. Mrs. Kountz was informed that no visitors were allowed in the institution Sundays, and what was more, her husband had no desire to see her.

"Very well," she said as she walked away, "I will call again. He will see me after while."

Mrs. Kountz was attired in a neat-fitting, white duck dress, and shows no ill effects from the wounds inflicted on her by her husband when he killed Walsh. She is still a guest at the Hotel Henry, and it is understood she intends remaining in the city until her husband's case is decided.

JOHN M. M'TIGHE ELECTED.

He Will Represent the Father Lambing Society in the National Convention.

The Father Lambing Total Abstinence society held an enthusiastic meeting yesterday afternoon in Duquesne hall, No. 216 Penn avenue. Charles D. McShane presided. After a spirited contest John M. Tighe was elected a delegate to the national convention of the organization to be held here in August.

Novbert S. Reid, who is compiling the souvenir book for the convention, made an address on the work for temperance performed by a number of the archbishops and prominent laymen. Portraits of these men will be used to illustrate the souvenirs.

A committee was appointed to prepare resolutions on the death of John Maloney, a son of John J. Maloney, who for many years has been president of the Father Lambing society.

Addresses were made by John M. Tighe, Joseph McDonough and John D. Dougherty and a number of persons took the total abstinence pledge.

TRIAL TRIP OF THE ROBERT D.

New Fast Gasoline Boat of Percy Donner Ready for First Plunge.

The trial trip of the Robert D., the fast gasoline boat built by R. C. Price & Co. for Percy Donner, will be made today. The run will be made by Mr. Donner and a party of friends from the wharf at the foot of Sandusky street, in Allegheny, either at noon today or at 7 o'clock this evening. The first trip will be taken to Monessen.

The new boat is 35 feet long and 5 feet wide, and is run entirely by gasoline. It is built on the style of a torpedo boat, with a 7-horse power engine. It will make a speed of 10 miles an hour and will be the fastest gasoline craft on the river. The tank will contain 60 gallons of gasoline and will bear a steady run of eight days.

Monday, July 13, 1903.

A little inquiry develops the fact that if bids are invited for mechanical filtration for Pittsburgh there will probably be but one response. The spirit of merger has been felt among the alum water concerns. This may account in part for the revival of enthusiasm in the camp of the alum water councilmen, though the inducement of a junket at the public expense is not to be overlooked. It is not likely common council will give more attention to the filtration committee's report this evening than to receive and file, but a putting off of that sort will hardly discourage a committee that dallied for months before it held a meeting. Meantime, typhoid fever continues to cost Pittsburgh an average of 10 lives and about $2,200 in loss of time each week.

Concluding a technical discussion of the cause of the Brush creek disaster, the Engineering Record concludes that no new lesson in engineering is taught, but that emphasis is lent to the view that reservoirs built in precipitous watersheds ought to be provided with very large spillways and under state supervision. That is exactly the view taken by The Gazette. The state should be prompt to enact regulations for such structures and establish a system of supervision and inspection. Adequate sluiceways and cement-covered faces will make dams secure. No more lives should be lost for lack of reasonable precautions. There are many insecure reservoirs throughout the state, and it ought not to be left for abnormal weather conditions to discover them, with the attendant expense of loss of life and property.

In England there is also an anti-American party. Our advices from London tell how the London county council, the real government of the metropolis, have come near destroying their own plan for the finest business street in the world by trying to shut out American enterprise. What foolish, short-sighted policy! Among our corrupt municipal administrations in this country we find many things to complain of, but none of them have ever gone to the length of trying to prevent the erection of modern business structures by English capitalists. On the contrary, builders from all quarters are welcome. Give the machine power to tax the improvements and spend the taxes and it cares not what country the money comes from. London county council has much to learn of advantage to its city, if not to itself.

George J. Gould, head of a great railroad system and general financier, is a clever and entertaining man. He is not afraid to discuss great questions for the public, and what he has to say is of interest. In an interview with a Gazette reporter yesterday he said some things about Pittsburgh; more about the railroad system that in one year will be operating in Pittsburgh and in two years from the Atlantic seaboard to Salt lake; and more still about the signs that indicate continued prosperity in this great country. Mr. Gould is an unassuming man, but on that account it must not be supposed he has not his finger upon the business pulse, or that he does not know its indications. He is a man of very large affairs, who inherits much of his father's keen insight into existing conditions and prescience as to future developments.

Emperor William's burst of cordiality in the entertainment of the Americans at Kiel has so roused the anti-American party in Germany that Prince Henry's talked of visit to the St. Louis exposition is not likely to materialize. Such is the burden of cable advices from Berlin. Of course, it is well known the agrarian party in Germany is hostile to everything American, and at the time of the Kiel festivities we discounted the value of the kaiser's friendly protestations as not being representative of the whole German people. But it is somewhat of a surprise to learn that this anti-American party is strong enough to discourage the emperor's efforts to improve the relations between the two countries. The natural conclusion is that the pro-American element of the German population is democratic in sentiment, and therefore of no political value to the imperialist, though it may include half of all the people.

Special advices from the far east tell of the surprise of Russian officials at Port Arthur at the American attitude toward the aggression upon Manchuria. Those officials, it is said, expected opposition from England and Japan, but relied upon the traditional friendship between Russia and the United States to prevent any protest from the latter against the extension of Russian influence. Those officials must have made a queer estimate of American complaisance. Traditional friendship is not undervalued in this country, but when it takes the form of using national influence to injure American trade by unfair means, as in Manchuria, it is no longer rated above par. If the coercion of Chinese traders into handling Russian wares to the exclusion of the American manufactures, which the Chinese prefer, is a manifestation of traditional friendship, the American people cannot be blamed for discarding it.

A special letter in The Sunday Gazette told of the development of industry at Kittanning and other points along the Allegheny river. This development has been less rapid than that of the Monongahela valley for two principal reasons: First, the superior quality of the Monongahela valley coal, and, second, the lack of slackwater in the Allegheny. Private capital improved the Monongahela years ago and the coal made a profitable traffic. The Allegheny, though it promised a fair traffic, did not invite private capital to slackwater it, because it is a difficult stream, prone to floods, ice and heavy drift. The government, however, has the courage and the money and an improved Allegheny river will be realized in course of time. The Allegheny River Improvement association had accomplished something toward that end, but unfortunately its leaders have been, for a year or more, wasting their effort in a futile attack upon other interests. How they were led into antagonizing the railroads and the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny by demanding unnecessary, expensive bridge raising and obstruction to ordinary traffic we do not know. But we do know that the association in its legitimate function of promoting river improvement simply, could count upon the co-operation of all the interests mentioned. The prosperity of the Allegheny valley is desired by all as much as that of the Monongahela and Ohio valleys, but the people of the Allegheny valley cannot promote that prosperity by aiding a few men in an attempt to inflict injury upon great industries elsewhere.

The Railroad Ordinance.

This afternoon there will be a meeting of the chamber of commerce to consider the Duquesne way ordinance of the Pennsylvania railroad, preliminary to the meeting of common council this evening. This is a commendable exhibition of public interest. The meeting has been called at the instance of the river men in the chamber, who are anxious lest the elevated structure may interfere with their use of the wharf. Some of them are more concerned because they fear the construction of the elevated will put an end to the agitation for raising the river bridges.

On this latter point they can hardly expect any sympathy from the chamber of commerce or the city council. Both bodies have formally and deliberately petitioned the secretary of war, together with Allegheny councils, in the public interest against the raising of the bridges, because such a change would impose obstruction upon traffic. It will be idle to drag in that foreign issue. In the matter of free access to the wharf we believe there is nothing to fear. The ordinance should properly guard against walling in the wharf, though there is no reason to suspect the railroad of any such intention, and we expect the detailed plans demanded by council will show there has been no such intent. We may then naturally expect the meeting of the chamber of commerce to simplify the situation by pronouncing the clearing of Liberty avenue from railroad tracks as of the utmost importance.

There is honest difference of opinion on the question of proper compensation for the Duquesne way franchise. It is a very valuable concession, and if it could be regarded as an original grant the figures named by the opponents of the ordinance would be too low. But this franchise cannot be considered independently of that held by the railroad in Liberty avenue. We believe a majority of the business men who are members of the chamber of commerce realize this fact, and that they will agree with The Gazette that the surrender of that prior franchise overshadows all other considerations of compensation in its bearing upon the future progress of the city. They know well how much the tracks in Liberty avenue interfere with street traffic and to what extent that interference depresses the value of property on that street and thoroughfares adjoining. They also realize the insufficiency of city freight terminals, and the superior convenience of having additional facilities downtown rather than in East Liberty or Allegheny.

There is every reason to expect the ordinance will have a stronger support in common council tonight than it had last week. The amendments made on the floor of councils and in the corporations committee since the measure was first reported have greatly improved it in the matter of guarding the interests of the city, not omitting the provision subjecting the new line to any general rate of compensation or taxation that may be imposed upon other railroads within the city limits. Such being the case we hope the opposition will confine its efforts at this meeting to legitimate proffers of amendments for further improvement and omit the filibustering tactics, dilatory motions and idle appeals from proper parliamentary decisions which marred the meeting last Thursday. Free discussion and cautious procedure are commendable, but useless roll calls, purely for the purpose of consuming time, or demands for the purpose of simulating useful activity, are at all times obnoxious.

Municipal Business Failure.

The Philadelphia Ledger is making an inquiry into the business results of municipal management and it does not find the showing a good one.

The Bullitt act which gave to Philadelphia its present form of government went into effect in 1886. Since then the city has increased 36 per cent in population and 50 per cent in the assessed valuation of property. The expenditures of the city government have increased from $14,600,000 in 1886 to $24,600,000 in 1902, an increase of 130 per cent. The city payroll amounted to $4,800,000 in 1886, and in 1902 the amount was $10,000,000, an increase of 110 per cent. The expenses of government have grown nearly four times as fast as the population, and the payroll has grown over three times as fast.

Such a showing in any other corporation, except a municipal corporation, would be taken as indicating some defect of organization which would be sought out and corrected. The puerile argument would hardly be heard that it was all because bad men had gotten into office and the proper remedy was to turn the rascals out. Admitting that it were true that bad men had gotten into office there would be a determination to ascertain what there was in the organization of the concern which facilitated the process.

The public are gradually coming round to the same point of view as regards municipal corporations also. Taught by sad experience that turning out the old gang to put in a new gang in the name of reform simply makes bad worse, they are beginning to perceive that the trouble must lie in the system of municipal government. If other countries, some under really more democratic conditions than our own, can perfect systems of municipal government that produce satisfactory results, it is a safe conclusion that we can do the same if we go the right way about it. When thought and effort are directed to questions of organization and procedure, rather than to the individual character and motive of politicians, the problem of getting good government will be in a fair way toward solution.

An Agency for Relief.

He gives twice who gives quickly. Therefore, persons who desire to aid the sufferers from the flood of a week ago at Jeannette and Penn station ought to give at once. The need has been made known through the public press and through an appeal issued by the relief committees at Jeannette and Penn. The president of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce, after an investigation of the territory that was swept by the flood, indorsed the appeal, stating that at least $10,000 would be needed for sanitary uses and for relief work, of which less than $3,000 had been contributed at that time. The people of Pittsburgh are always ready to give assistance where assistance is required. The East End board of trade makes the announcement that it will receive and forward contributions. Contributions from Pittsburgh have been slow for lack of a local agency for collection, but now that this agency has been provided the necessary sum of money, and contributions of food and clothing, all of which are needed, ought to be quickly forthcoming. A large number of persons lost everything they possessed in the way of household goods and clothing, and the committee at Jeannette, which has undertaken the task of supplying them with shelter, food and clothing until they are in a position to help themselves, has had a hard struggle. The success of its work ought to be greatly assisted now that there has been a public agency for the collection of money and supplies established in this city. The work is one that of necessity must be done speedily, and the more speedily it is done the better.

On the Bargain Counter.

Provided the operation did not bull the market it would be possible for a clique of enterprising millionaires with $165,000,080, if a certain bond conversion plan has not yet done its whole work, or with only $105,000,030, if it has done it, to buy control of a billion-dollar corporation. Mark-down sales in Wall street have brought this great prize within reach of a financial pole of a length mentioned. Control of the United States Steel Corporation ought to be worth $165,000,000 of any man's or clique's money, and even in these times, when stocks are being thrown overboard, it ought not to be impossible to organize a pool for such a magnificent achievement. It might be an easy matter to organize a pool if there was reasonable assurance that the market value of the corporation's stock would "stand without hitching" long enough to carry the program to success. The trouble is, of course, that the market would not be likely to stand still with so much buying in progress as would be necessary. Market values fluctuate with supply and demand, the greater pull or pressure of the one or the other establishing the quotation of the moment. An apparent scarcity, with a continued demand, would be sure to put the price up, just as a continued pressure to sell, with demand not equal to the supply in the market has forced prices of most securities below their intrinsic value, as measured by earning power.

The par value of the authorized stock issues of the United States Steel Corporation, taking no account of a retirement of preferred stock, is $1,100,000,000, half in common stock and half in preferred, nearly all issued. The preferred stock, because it pays a dividend of 7 per cent on par, ranges about 50 points higher than the common stock in the market at the present time; the common stock, because its dividend is but 4 per cent on par and because it would be the first issue of the corporation's securities to feel the stress of hard times, is selling at about 30—sometimes above, sometimes below, but just now below. Aside from rights in earnings, common and preferred stock have equal powers, share for share. A clique that could buy up all the common stock of the corporation need have but one share of the preferred stock (ignoring the bond conversion operation, the full result of which is not known,) to elect its own board of directors and the officers of the corporation, and thus control its operations absolutely.

At the closing quotation for United States Steel common on Saturday, control of the billion-dollar corporation (still taking no account of retirement of preferred stock) was rated at a figure something like $8,000,000 below the higher sum we have mentioned as the knock-down price. If account be taken of the retirement of preferred stock by conversion into bonds, thereby extinguishing its voting power, and if $200,000,000 of preferred stock has been converted into bonds, the purchase of 3,500,000 shares of the issue of 5,500,000 shares of common stock would carry control with it. At $30 per share, which is above the last quotation of Saturday, control would cost only $105,000,000.

It is much easier to write it, of course, than it would be to conduct the practical operation, but it is readily apparent that were Andrew Carnegie ambitious for worlds to conquer he might (barring an advance in the market) purchase control of the United States Steel Corporation for much less than half the sum he received for his share of the properties he sold to it. The Standard Oil capitalists, who are reputed in Wall street to have countless millions in hand, might do it. Mr. Rockefeller is commonly believed to have property many times in excess of the required sum, but this would have to be a cash transaction. Or some Aladdin might wander into Wall street some gloomy morning before liquidation runs its course and rub his lamp hard enough to become emperor of iron and steel. Or a Monte Cristo could, conditions favoring, exchange his wealth for an imperial position from the throne of which he could command not only captains, but colonels, generalissimos and field marshals of industry. But is it likely that any one of these things will happen?

It may be less profitable to speculate along such lines for grown people than it is to write fairy tales or Mother Goose fables for children, but the lights that proceed from the castle of fancy—its foundation the crumbling quotations of the stock market, its superstructure woven from the rainbow—illuminate the truth that there are a lot of good things on the bargain counter and going cheap.

Announcement of the intention of the Hon. William Jennings Bryan to take a four months' vacation in Europe indicates that whatever his record as a presidential race loser he hasn't failed to act on the advice to harvest his hay crop while the sun was favorably disposed.

A new summer drink that is said to be popular in New York city includes lemon juice, cracked ice, carbonated water and sugar, but it is insisted that the drink will be spoiled if too large a quantity of these things is mixed with the other ingredients.

Notwithstanding the official statement that $50,000,000 worth of diamonds were imported into this country last year, there is proof on nearly every hand that there are not yet enough sparklers to go round, and this is no joke, either.

We will have to meet George Gould's hope that the Wabash may become blocked with business with a declaration of the great truth that it is the business that moves that earns dividends and not the business that blocks the road.

It appears that J. P. Morgan has $6,000,000 worth of paintings which he will give to a national art gallery if one is established, but it isn't told what proportion of it is preferred art and which is common.

It becomes more apparent that Congressman Cannon has given the members of the next congress something to think about that may cause them to do some fresh guessing on the speakership.

The Wabash party didn't reach Pittsburgh over the Wabash road but we have information that leads us to believe that its members brought a number of Wabash trains of thought with them.

The filtration committee of councils acts with a persistency which suggests that something has occurred to make it regard alum water with favor. What is it, gentlemen?

When the council comes together
For the summer evening fray
It will be a question whether Progress goes the Duquesne way.

Failure to agree on a nominating plan adds mightily to the interest of the political guessing in the Beaver-Lawrence-Washington congressional district.

Director Bigelow says it's too warm to discuss filtration, but it may be warmer before the discussion ends, unless the will of the people prevails.

There is so much doing throughout the United States in the way of real business that people haven't the time to lend a helping hand to Wall street.

The report that the president will sound an administration keynote in September gives us something to live through the summer for.

County Chairman Ford's prediction of Republican success in Allegheny county this fall puts it up to the voters to make good.

Despite the torridity of July there is a lingering of the June weather habit in that it rains so easy and so often.

While all roads lead to the summer resorts there is no place like home when the money gives out.

Allegheny valley development is not waiting upon any chimerical plans for raising the river bridges.

Of course, the introduction of alum water in our midst may promote prosperity in some directions.

Let us take courage from the circumstance that alum water is not yet on tap in Pittsburgh.

If the worst comes to the worst the Wall street crowd can go west and help harvest the grain.

It begins to appear that the technical school site is not all a dream.

Respect for Law.

The most striking need of the American people today is that wholesome respect for law that can only be inculcated by strict and thorough enforcement of law. The public officer that fails to do his duty in this respect, from whatever cause, is directly chargeable with that species of violence and disorder that destroys life and property. Indifferent enforcement of any law bears fruit in mob violence just as surely as harvest follows seed time.—Indianapolis Journal.

ERASMUS WILSON.

Where did you come from, baby dear?
Out of the everywhere into here.

Where did you get your eyes so blue?
Out of the sky as I came through.

What makes the light in them sparkle and spin?

I found it waiting when I got here.

What makes your forehead so smooth and high?
A soft hand stroked it as I went by.

What makes your cheek like a warm white rose?
I saw something better than any one knows.

Whence that three-cornered smile of bliss?
Three angels gave me at once a kiss.

Where did you get this pearly ear?
God spoke, and it came out to hear.

Where did you get those arms and hands?
Love made itself into hooks and bands.

Feet, whence did you come, you darling things?
From the same box as the cherub's wings.

How did they all come just to be with you?
God thought of me, and so I grew.

But how did you come to us, you dear?
God thought of you, and so I am here.
—George McDonald.

Take care of the babies.

Already the death rate among those under one year is beginning to increase, and it will probably continue to do so for at least two months.

Babies will not thrive on sour or spoiled milk. Of all causes of sickness among children, sour milk is one of the most common.

See that milk is sweet, and the fresher the better.

Don't put ice in milk to keep it cool. Place the ice in a vessel partly filled with water, and set the milk in this.

Keep milk in earthen or porcelain vessels.

Babies shouldn't be allowed to eat strawberries or other acid fruit. They are not able to digest such food, and it ferments very quickly in the stomach.

Sweet milk and toast is about all a baby needs after it begins to eat.

Jelly and jam should be hidden away during the summer months. These toothsome spreadings are the existing cause of no end of sickness among children.

Good butter, with a dash of sugar, is about the safest dressing for a piece of bread.

Eating "fine messes" of anything is liable to result badly, especially if the material is inclined to ferment. Small quantities of proper food taken frequently prevent hunger and preserve health.

* * * * *

When a child becomes cross or peevish there is something wrong somewhere, and to attempt to quiet it with cookies and nicnacs is nothing short of an attempt to provoke a spell of sickness.

A rash always signifies more than is apparent to the eye. It is a symptom of deranged digestion.

Castor oil is claimed by many successful family physicians to be the king of medicines for children. It allays irritability of the intestinal canal, quiets the nerves, and prevents the development of fevers. It is not as pleasant as the taste of honey, but it is powerful to heal and to prevent disease.

Consult your family physician often concerning your babies, and especially about teething time. By so doing you may prevent many painful attacks, spasms and death. St. Vitus' dance, nervous twitchings, tonsilitis, and a variety of disturbances of the stomach and intestinal canal are often due to difficult and painful teething.

A very little attention at the proper time will prevent a great deal of suffering, and very often save life.

It is gross and inexcusable ignorance concerning the care of children that makes the death rate among them so high.

* * * * *

But sociologists of the Malthusian school tell us that this high death rate among children is the only hope of the country. They argue that if all were to live there would soon be no room on the face of the earth for the people.

Another branch of this school presents formidable arrays of figures to prove that even at the present rate of increase it is only a question of time—less than 1,000 years, perhaps—until the entire food products of the earth will not be sufficient to feed all the people.

Don't worry over what these people may say. There is room enough for millions more, and the earth is not taxed to the thousandth part of its producing capacity.

Some are beginning to think the country is becoming crowded. A glance at some of the figures taken from reliable sources ought to satisfy you on this score.

The population of the world is estimated at about 1,500,000,000, or 27.1 inhabitants to the square mile of land surface. The removal of 2,000,000 would reduce this world's population by one-tenth of 1 per cent, and still leave us over 27 inhabitants to the square mile. Europe has 350,000,000, Asia 800,000,000, Africa 205,000,000, America little more than 100,000,000, and Polynesia nearly 5,000,000. The density of population is 90 inhabitants to the square mile for Europe, 48 for Asia, 18 for Africa, 7 for all America, and 20 for the United States.

There is no state in this country that has the density of population that England, France and Holland have. Little Rhode Island has the highest average for this country—318 inhabitants to the square mile, according to the census of 1890—while according to Mulhall England has 500, Holland 350, and France 210 inhabitants to the square mile. Massachusetts sustains a population of 278 to the square mile, and Germany a population of 223 to the square mile. In the west, Ohio sustams a population of 90, Indiana, 61; Illinois, 68; Michigan, 36; Wisconsin, 30; Minnesota, 18; Iowa, 34; Missouri, 38; Nebraska, 13; Kansas, 17 to the square mile.

There is no good reason why we should become fearful of being "scrouged" to death; at least not for several centuries yet to come. During the interim the people will have learned how to live more economically and successfully, so that our successors will feel it no more than we do now.

* * * * *

But some people must worry. If they haven't sufficient present ills to occupy their attention they will go years and years into the future to find them.

Goodness knows! there is enough of worry and distress in every life to cause the good, the beautiful and the wholesome to show well by contrast. We need an occasional storm to render the calm the more enjoyable. Darkness makes sunlight desirable, and cold gives to warmth much of its value, but there is no sense in keeping constantly on the dark, cold side of life.

Don't worry and fret.

It doesn't pay.

Look for the pleasure in life, and let the discomforts look for you.

IN THE EYE OF FAME.

Judge William Penn Lyon, president of the Wisconsin state board of control for eight years, has resigned and removed from Milwaukee to California.

Joseph V. Quarles, United States senator for Wisconsin, is frequently seen, clad in overalls and jumpers, at work on his farm.

Elihu I. Bowman of Glenwood, Ia., claims to have been a citizen of that state longer than any other living man. He went to Iowa in 1829.

Tolstoi has again offended the German emperor. An edition of a pamphlet by the Russian author has been seized by the police of Leipsic on the ground that it contains statements concerning Emperor William which are classed as high treason.

Arthur Barclay, the new president of Liberia, will have the task of practically ruling between 1,000,000 and 2,000,000 people of various colors, religions and tongues, though the republic's official language is English and its religion is Christianity. The new president is a well-educated man, of some wealth, and is a natural leader.

Talked of in New York

GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 12.—Citronella is a pungent vegetable extract, believed to be odious to mosquitoes. Devoted Jerseyites who have been fighting mosquitoes all night are accustomed to declare cheerfully that they have not been bitten much—because their clothing, pillows, hair, faces and arms are all treated with the vile smelling stuff before retiring. Mosquitoes are more numerous and fierce in Jersey, Long Island, Staten Island and even in Manhattan, than ever they were known to be in other summers. One of the consequences of the onslaught is so great a demand for citronella that local drug dealers declare they can hardly get enough for the trade. In outlying towns in New Jersey the article is imported in unheard-of quantities. Coming in on a morning train the commuter finds the cars impregnated with the odor, and if he has not much of it on his own person all his neighbors are sure to be soaked with it. A solemn man, who keeps books in a solemn wholesale establishment in the drygoods district, declared to me yesterday that the people at his station waiting for the train could smell it 10 minutes before it appeared, and that the fumes from the citronella hung in a blue haze above it as it came "whistling around the bend." The solemn man is regarded as a good citizen and as he smelt so strongly of citronella as he talked that I sneezed, doubtless he was telling the truth.

Pittsburghers at Belmar.

Belmar, N. J., a seashore resort in New Jersey about 57 miles from New York, is becoming a favorite retreat with Pittsburghers. Those from Pittsburgh are registered at the leading hotel there: Mrs. R. C. Wrenshall, R. Wrenshall, Mrs. John R. Rush, Frances Rush, Eliza Rush and William J. Rush.

Attractions at the Churches.

Although many prominent ministers are away for their summer vacation, the churches of Manhattan were well attended this morning. There is a large population of visitors always in this city and a visit to a famous church is usually part of the Sunday program. The music is good in the summer, too, although some of the soloists whose services are highly valued in the winter have a way of taking a summer vacation, too. Happily there are always plenty of good singers in New York to take their places and occasionally it happens that the unknown substitute proves to be better than the regular.

Kellar Secures Assailant's Release.

The release of Thomas G. Barker on parole from the New Jersey state prison mainly through the intercession of the Rev. John Kellar, whom Barker made an invalid for life, has brought up the story of the crime again and many persons are discussing it. There are champions of both sides who never can agree and the arguments to be heard today are as bitter as ever they were. It is needless to recite the cause of Barker's attack on the minister, but it may be said that public sentiment in New York is divided just as sharply as it was two years ago when Barker was sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

Learning to Bathe at Night.

Bathing by artificial light is the fad at the seashore resorts in and near Greater New York. Besides the moon, which has done its full part toward illuminating the beach, there are arc and incandescent lamps which make bathing after the sun goes down a delightful experience. Of course mosquitoes are more active in the evening than in the sunlight, but it is found that the electric lights attract them, and they keep busy 20 feet above the sands, thus giving the bathers a chance. Anyhow, a mosquito cannot bite under water, and so long as one keeps on swimming there is only the head to be attacked and even that can be protected by ducking occasionally. Bathing at night is the great amusement of the seashore here and the bath house keepers admit that they will add to their total receipts for the summer materially.

Antics of Bushy Tail.

Those amoosin' little cusses, the park squirrels, have been busy for the last week. They have not begun to get in their winter stores to any great extent but they have had enough to do in accepting nuts, fruit, cake and other delicacies from visitors. The squirrels in Central park are as tame as kittens. They run across the paths and dodge around shrubs, with a saucy persistence that is the delight of children and gives scarcely less pleasure to older persons. Of course no one ever injures the squirrels. It would be a dangerous thing to do, since every visitor to the park appoints himself a special guardian of the little fellows. Consequently they are absolutely fearless of human beings, and will jump into the lap of anyone who takes a seat on a bench near them. They multiply rapidly and at this time there are many hundreds if not thousands in Manhattan's pleasure ground.

Speculators Squeeze the City.

Real estate speculators have many chances to make money in New York if only they can get a "tip" on bridge matters. So many bridges have been projected and will be planned in the next few years that it is a good thing to own property where the bridge approaches will be. This has been seen within the last few days in the neighborhood of what is called the 40-foot Madison avenue bridge, but Commissioner Lindenthal recently made public plans to change the width to 80 feet and to construct an approach from Fifth avenue and One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street, in addition to the present approach, which begins at Madison avenue and One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street. Twenty-five or thirty lots have been picked up by forehanded capitalists within a week and it is safe to say that the city will have to purchase them at a considerable advance if it wants them for an approach to the new bridge.

The Saturday Afternoon Exodus.

Wall street brokers have developed an almost unanimous fancy for spending their Saturday till Monday vacation at some one of the seashore resorts which can be reached by the new and fleet steamboat Asbury Park, by the Sandy Hook route. It matters little to which resort the crowd may be going. The ride on the boat beyond the mouth of the harbor is always a pleasant part of the journey and by the time the passengers are put off at Atlantic Highlands they are cool and comfortable enough to look with complaisance on the rest of the journey, whichever way it may take them. When the crowd of Wall street men rushed down Rector street to the pier yesterday afternoon it looked like a general exodus of the financial district.

The Girl and the Lynchers.

Miss Mary Creech of Barnwell, S. C., a young person yet in her teens, gave a most timely illustration of the proper method of treating with a lynching party in the first stages of its activity. Having been left in charge of the Barnwell jail in the temporary absence of her father, the sheriff, she was called upon by a deputation of lynchers to hand over the jail keys and the custody of a man accused of murder whom the lynchers proposed to hang. Miss Creech so far deferred to orders as to go after the keys, but she also brought back with her a repeating rifle which she brought to her shoulder. As to further proceedings the dispatch from Barnwell says briefly: "She ordered the lynchers to scatter, and they scattered." Had this young lady been in command when the Delaware workhouse was stormed and surrendered the story of that shameful occurrence would have had an altogether different reading.—Philadelphia Record.

Governor Durbin.

In the turmoil of lawlessness by which the country north, south, east and west is torn Gov. Durbin towers a moral giant over the weak and dwarfed officials who have yielded and truckled to the mob element. This is a man on whom a flood of light should be turned from every intellectual quarter in the land, that it may be diffused through the darkness that is a shame upon American civilization.

The governor of Indiana turns out the militia to uphold the majesty of the law. He shoots down lynchers. But he does more. When it is proposed to make some concession to the lawless by "railroading" the wounded murderer to the gallows he rises once more to crush the spirit of mob rule which would deprive the wretch of his constitutional right of a fair trial by "due process of law." There will be no "railroading" any more than lynching in Evansville. "No compromise with the mob spirit" is the resolute stand of Gov. Durbin. "The state," he says to the judge, "will be ready in the event of another outbreak to give further demonstration of its disposition and its ability to do with the rioters as they deserve."

Gov. Durbin has only fulfilled the obligation he took when the oath of his office was administered to him. But how many governors, in recent times, when the structure upon which law and orders rests was rocked by the storm of the mob's fury, have risen to the stern and resolute performance of their plain duty? Durbin of Indiana has done nothing he was not sworn to do, nothing that he should not have done. Yet he has made himself an enduring national reputation in a fortnight, for Durbin of Indiana has made a big man of himself.—New York Press.

\+ \+ \+ \+

It is a great pity that there are not more men of Gov. Durbin's stamp holding executive and judicial positions in this country. If we had more judges with his understanding of and respect for the spirit as well as for the letter of the law, there would be fewer unnecessary judicial delays, fewer criminals escaping justice through quibbles and fine-spun technicalities, and therefore less excuse for mob law. If we had more executive official, possessing his courage and good judgment and his hatred of lawlessness and outrage, the temptations to such violence would rapidly grow less. Even the leaders of mobs are usually cool enough to consider what chance there is that they themselves may be killed when they start a lynching.—Kansas City Journal.

\+ \+ \+ \+

Gov. Durbin of Indiana deserves all the praise he is receiving for his splendid action in the matter of the Evansville riots. He not only promptly dispatched militia companies to the city to protect the jail and put down the mob, but he had the courage to overrule the order of a judge that the negro whose killing of a policeman was the occasion of the trouble be returned for immediate trial. * * * There spoke a truly American executive—a man who is equally opposed to mob rule and to the popular passion which would deny to a friendless criminal the fair trial which the law decrees. In these days of spineless sheriffs and demagogic executives it is refreshing to find a governor who can govern.—New York World.

\+ \+ \+ \+

Gov. Durbin of Indiana has shown that he sees his duty and is not afraid to do it. He does not mince his words in refusing to send back to Evansville for immediate trial the negro whose murder of a policeman led to the rioting in that town. Judge Rasch ordered the prisoner, who is seriously and perhaps fatally injured, brought before him for trial. The governor very promptly refused to allow him to return to Evansville, where the mob spirit still runs high, and says that he shall remain at Jeffersonville, where he was taken for safety, until his wounds are healed. He points to the evident fact that a fair trial at Evansville at this time would be out of the question. The doctrine which the governor lays down is perfectly sound. However atrocious the crime or clear the guilt the prisoner is entitled, under the most sacred tenets of our jurisprudence, to a hearing, which he cannot have in the very nature of things until he has sufficiently recovered to make a defense, if he has one to offer."—Cleveland Plain-Dealer.

\+ \+ \+ \+

Gov. Durbin has never been considered a remarkable personage. He is a plain business man, who never makes speeches, not knowing how, and who has given the state a sensible administration, phenomenal in no way. Always a strong party man, he has developed into something of a politician. It is reassuring to find such a man, in an hour of crisis, rise adequately to it, with promptness, nerve and firmness. Even more significant than his decisive stand while the mob was out is his refusal to let the negro's trial take place immediately, under military protection. He has two good reasons for this refusal: First, because it would disgrace the state of Indiana to confess to the world that the orderly process of its justice could not be carried on without the presence of troops; and, second, because unusual steps for a hastened trial would be a concession to the mob spirit.

The country owes gratitude to Gov. Durbin of Indiana. In the presence of the appalling disregard of law, nothing is today more vital for the nation's welfare than the upholding of established authority, the enforcement of the constitutional guarantees, the demonstration that this is a land in which law exists and must be respected.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Keeping Faith With Cuba.

The signing of the treaty with Cuba, whereby the United States relinquishes all claim upon the Isle of Pines, is another evidence of the determination of the American people to keep faith with the people of the island republic says the Chicago Post. It is added proof to the world at large that this government was not talking for effect when it announced that Cuba was to be wrested from the paralyzing grasp of Spain for the sole benefit of the Cubans.

It must not be overlooked that strong pressure has been brought to bear on the government by American interests in the Isle of Pines to have this original portion of Spanish territory—as embraced by the jurisdiction exercised from Cuba—retained by America. And it should also be borne in mind that under the wording of the treaty of Paris, Spain apparently ceded to the United States all the islands in her possession before the war, with the exception of Cuba. The United States might have stood for a strict construction of this clause in the treaty and have retained the Isle of Pines, but instead of this it preferred to interpret the convention in the broad spirit of our original pledge to the Cubans, merely taking care to see that American interests were properly safeguarded.

ODE TO THE GRAPHOPHONE.

Time was when in our little flat we dwelt like turtle doves,
As happy as the cherubim, without a trace of care,
But now, alas! the brooding peace a quiet person loves
Has vanished most completely, and there's discord in the air.
Say, kind, indulgent reader, do you wonder that we groan
When the denizens of flat 16 bring out their graphophone?

When we have earned and eaten our supply of daily bread
We seek the shelter of the porch to spend the evening hours;
No sooner are we seated than the instrument we dread
Begins its work of torture as the ballads come in showers.
Perhaps you think it is to laugh, but ah! it is to moan
When the denizens of flat 16 bring out their graphophone.

"The Stars and Stripes Forever" tears the atmosphere to shreds;
"He Laid Away a Suit of Gray" is played and played again;
The strains of "Mr. Dooley" make us hold our aching heads;
"Bill Bailey, Won't You Please Come Home?" is rendered now and then.
We always find out something new, about the realm of tone

We never knew till lately how deceptive music is,
The songs we used to think quite sad seem funny now,

DESERTED PARKS VIVIDLY GREEN

ONE GRAY SQUIRREL IS SEEN

Baby Baboon at the Zoo—Gifts of Two Deadly Snakes—Brood of Golden Pheasants Hatched — Fine Flower Show in the Conservatories.

The roads to the city parks were deserted yesterday. Not more than 100 persons visited Schenley park during the entire afternoon, and if more went to Highland park, it was the zoological garden that drew them. The rain, and when there was no rain, the threatening looks of the sky, deterred the lovers of the parks from visiting them, and yet Schenley park looked beautiful under the clouded sky. The rains of the past week have imparted a more vivid green to the grass, and the ravages of the Fourth of July have been almost obliterated by the grateful effects of the rain on the sward. One can hardly detect that the feet of thousands roamed over the turf, for in the spots made nearly bare the grass has sprung up afresh.

Just two bare spots, one at Forbes street entrance and another a little farther back near the Viscaya cannon, were beyond the healing power of the rain, for it was there that two merry-go-rounds operated on the Fourth, and the grass was destroyed to the very roots. The ground has been dug up by order of Superintendent George W. Burke, new top soil will be placed upon it, and it is believed that in a few weeks a new sod will have formed.

Persons who did not go to Schenley park missed a fine show of gloxinia, of which the foreman of the conservatory, J. W. Jones, is very proud. The flowers are in one of the wings off the tree-fern house, and make a gorgeous show.

A solitary gray squirrel was seen in Schenley yesterday by one of Superintendent Burke's subordinates, the first one seen for several years. It was scurrying across the road and stopped to look at the intruder upon its domain. Visitors have often remarked on the poverty of animal and bird life in Schenley park, and wonder has been expressed that so little attention has been paid to providing the thousands of child visitors something else to look at besides inanimate nature improved.

A new baboon has been born at the Highland park zoo, and because it was born on the Fourth of July it has been named Julia. Julia is the offspring of a golden and a green baboon and is expected to show a wonderful assortment of colors when she has attained to full plumage.

The serpent den has two new occupants, a rattlesnake, presented by A. R. Long of No. 2712 Wylie avenue, and a copperhead, the gift of Dr. C. J. Reynolds of No. 125 South Highland avenue.

Ernest Tretow has succeeded in hatching a brood of nine golden pheasants, and visitors to the aviary wonder at the modest colors of the young as compared with the gorgeous hues of the proud cock pheasant.

GOOD VAUDEVILLE AT THE TRACTION PARKS

Fair-Sized Crowds, Notwithstanding Bad Weather—Attractions This Week.

Notwithstanding the weather yesterday there were fair-sized crowds at the traction parks. At Kennywood Rocereto's band played two good programs. There was a decided novelty introduced in connection with the band concerts in the shape of a cinematograph. Miss Clarice Templeton, one of the well-known Arlington sisters, vaudeville artists, sang "The Holy City" in a pleasing manner. The illustrations of the song were furnished by a big cinematograph. Miss Templeton will repeat her song every evening this week, using the machine for the illustrations.

The visitors to Calhoun park were treated to a fine program by Nirella's Fourteenth Regiment band. Bryant & Saville's minstrels got up a special program for Sunday, and made a hit. In the company were Gus H. Saville, Charles Bryant, Mark Thompson, William Lawrence, Joe Kelly, William S. Cetti, James Kelly, James H. Robin and Joe McDevitt, a collection of singers. They were encored often. Robin, the juggler, proved himself to be a clever entertainer.

The Grand Army band was at Oakland park and played two popular programs. Little Marie LeRoy, the soubrette, sang several songs that were thoroughly appreciated. Gruet & Gruet, the musical comedy artists, kept the audience in an uproar of laughter all the time they were on the platform.

The Southern park crowds heard the Bartley Military band in two concerts, which were also on the popular order. Seeker, Wilkes and Seeker, the colored entertainers, were funny as ever. Andy McLeod, the Irish minstrel, gave exhibitions of his skill on the cornet.

The Oakwood and Southern shows, which open for the week tonight, include the Bryant & Saville minstrels, the Brothers Gruet, musical comedians; Charles Duncan, the singing comedian; Charles Weitzel, the hoop roller; Edwards & Kernell, in a bright comedy sketch, and the Seeker-Wilkes troupe.

RAIDS IN ALLEGHENY.

Five Disorderly Houses Visited in the Early Morning.

Five disorderly houses were raided in Allegheny between 1 and 3 o'clock yesterday morning. The first raid was at No. 500 West Robinson street. The proprietor, Annie Gray, four girls and eight men were arrested. The next visit was paid to No. 14 Ann street. The proprietor could not be found, but four girls and six men were captured.

Kate Mantell of No. 16 Ann street, was at home, and she, two girls and four men were caught. Mary Armour lives at No. 608 West Robinson street, and was arrested with two girls and four men. The last raid was at No. 620 West Robinson street, where the proprietor, three girls and three men were arrested.

At the hearing in the Allegheny central station the proprietors were fined $50 and costs or 90 days, the girls $10 and costs or 60 days, and the men $5 and costs or 10 days.

BY DAYLIGHT TO DETROIT.

Special Train and Special Steamer Service for Epworth League Excursionists.

The Pittsburgh contingent of the Epworth league will go to the convention at Detroit next Wednesday, July 15, in a special train leaving Pittsburgh Union station 7:45 a. m., city time, over the Pennsylvania lines. The special will run on a fast schedule to Cleveland, taking excursionists direct to the steamer dock where the palatial steamer City of Cleveland, will be in waiting to take them across Lake Erie by daylight. Detroit will be reached at 6 p. m., the same day. The round trip fare from Pittsburgh to Detroit, with privilege of returning one month later, will be $8.30 for the special train, also for regular trains via Pennsylvania lines, June 15 and 16.

PERRYSVILLE

WE INTRODUCE TO THE PUBLIC THE INITIAL STEP IN WHAT IS WITHOUT QUESTION THE GREATEST REAL ESTATE UNDERTAKING EVER KNOWN.

In the first place Keating West-View Plan of Lots is only the starting point for a giant city-building project which has back of it millions of dollars in addition to indomitable, tireless masters of finance who have the reputation of making colossal enterprises a success as well as an investment for their customers and their followers. It is well for you to know this and to investigate thoroughly the value of this information, For we are now living in a period of strenuous times, when strong personality behind an enterprise counts most wonderfully and gives to purchasers what is virtually a guarantee of absolute ascension of profit on every dollar they invest.

An enormous expenditure of money is being put into action to establish a chain of city improvements, such as graded, sewered and paved streets, city water and immense new reservoirs, gas fuel, gas light, electric light, etc., covering miles of level territory. This territory begins a short distance from where the City of Allegheny stops. It consists of that level section starting about four miles this side of the village of Perrysville and winding around on level highlands to the Ohio River.

A FAVORITE SPOT FOR GENERATIONS.

Allegheny countians have been taking their pleasure drives through this beautiful Perrysville district for the last half century. The famous old Keating Inn, where the racing and sleighing parties used to have their chicken waffle feasts, is only half a mile as the crow flies from the property to which your attention is now directed. In front of the Plan the new Ben Avon or County boulevard begins. This boulevard is macadamized and improved just like the Beechwood boulevard in the East End. The street rollers and army of pavers have completed their work. You can drive over its smooth, broad surface and down through Rodgers Avenue to Lincoln Avenue, Bellevue, and reach the Avalon and Bellevue cars in seven to ten minutes.

RIDE STRAIGHT

PROTZMAN-BARRACO.

Purchasers of Keating West-View property will not only be able to buy wonderfully-situated lots at

$50 TO $500

but they will be given

FREE WITH EACH LOT A PROVISIONAL TWO-YEAR PREMIUM BOND THAT MAY EARN THEM FIVE TO TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT.

These bonds are negotiable. You can sell or transfer them at once to any person. Under their provisions they become especially valuable to building contractors, and will often earn within four months anywhere from $12.50 to $100 or more. One of these bonds is presented to you as an absolute free gift with each lot that you buy, whether the lot is priced $50 or $500.

It will pay every frugal person to investigate this bond proposition. Without question it is the most liberal stroke of enterprise any real estate organization ever made. It is backed by virtually unlimited capital, and is proof positive that the capitalists who bought up this immense Perrysville acreage are determined to make it the finest residence place that modern ingenuity can possibly establish.

TERMS ON LOTS:

5 PER CENT DOWN; 2½ PER CENT PER MONTH FOR BALANCE; 10 PER CENT DISCOUNT FOR CASH WHEN PAID WITHIN SIXTY DAYS.

Great New Short-Line Traction Road Brings Keating West-View Within 25 Minutes of Pittsburgh.

The great manifold-motor traction road now being constructed from the city to all points in this district, and at present completed as far as Keating West-View, puts the property ten minutes nearer to downtown Pittsburgh that any of the really fine East End residential districts. The road will be operated upon the greatest speed-giving system known to traction practice. The line continues up East Street extension, which is as broad as that part of Liberty Avenue lying in the business section of Pittsburgh, and nine-tenths of it very nearly level, being not more than 1 per cent. grade.

Fifty per cent of the entire length of the route is virtually without curves or crossings, making it possible to attain a high rate of speed without endangering lives.

At the north end of East Street, at Jake Borne's hotel, this new fast line connects with the Riverview Park cars on Perrysville Avenue, and after passing the Allegheny city limits, branches off on to private rights-of-way laid with double tracks and T-rails. The unobstructed route up East Street and the private rights-of-way cut off three miles of distance. This enables the line to make the run to Keating West-View from the corner of Sixth Avenue and Smithfield Street in twenty-five minutes. If the run had to be made up Federal Street and out Perrysville Avenue a time schedule of forty-five minutes would be required.

The new railway, by going up East Street instead of up Perrysville Avenue, escapes a large number of long bends, which would cause a great loss of time, and by going on a bee-line over private rights-of-way instead of along the Perrysville plank road makes another remarkable reduction of distance and saving of time.

Some of the greatest engineering experts declare that the unequaled traction service which throws open the magnificent Perrysville section of country for residence building, will be attained on the finest roadbed and trestle work construction ever planned, and that spacious $6,000 palace cars may be operated on it with the same ease that small cars can be operated on the older lines.

TAKE CARS AS FOLLOWS:

The new Perrysville cars to Keating West-View Plan of Lots start on Smithfield Street, at Sixth Avenue. Some of the cars are marked Perrysville (not Perrysville Avenue), and others Madison Avenue and East Street.

One of the palace cars is just finished and in operation to the property, but until all are finished the small coaches, or old Madison Avenue and East Street cars, will be used.

You can catch the cars marked Perrysville (not Perrysville Avenue), or Madison Avenue and East Street on Smithfield Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, on Ninth Street, on Anderson Street in Allegheny, on Lacock Street, or Sandusky Street or on North Avenue.

DRUGGISTS KEPT OPEN YESTERDAY

PROSECUTIONS MAY FOLLOW

Although 3,000 Citizens of the Borough Favor Stores Being Kept Open on Sunday, Committee of Twelve Is Likely to Take Action.

After experimenting with public sentiment by keeping their stores closed two Sundays, the druggists of Wilkinsburg, with two exceptions, opened yesterday, and did a big business in ice cream, soda water and cigars. The druggists expect to be prosecuted today by the committee of twelve, which has been quite active in a crusade against Sunday selling.

To quench the public thirst, the committee of twelve had tanks of water stationed at many places in the borough, and those who did not use soda water or ice cream patronized these places liberally during the day. But the drug stores had the better of the bargain, making big sales all day. Those who remained closed were W. F. Patterson and S. H. Jackson.

The breach between the druggists and the committee enforcing the blue laws is now wider than ever. At a meeting of the two factions Friday night the arguments were hot and neither side would recede from their position.

Three Thousand Signatures.

At that time the druggists presented petitions, signed by 3,000 citizens of the borough, requesting that the drug stores remain open on Sunday to sell soda water. This, the druggists pleaded, was a good argument that a majority of the people of the town wished them to keep their stores open, and they reasoned that the committee should now allow them to proceed without further molestation since the citizens had spoken against any prosecution.

The members of the committee, however, declared that if ever, person in the town signed the petition but one, they would see that the law was enforced as long as it was on the statute books. The members of the committee declared that the sale of soda water on Sunday was detrimental to the interests of the town.

That both sides are in earnest was fully demonstrated by their actions yesterday. Late Saturday night the committee of twelve had tanks containing 32 gallons of water each stationed at the following corners:

Locations of the Tanks.

Wood street and Penn avenue, Swissvale and Penn avenues, Wood and Franklin streets, Rebecca avenue and Hay street, Rebecca and Trenton avenues, and Swissvale avenue near North avenue. The tanks were placed in the direct vicinity of the drug stores that were dispensing soda water. W. F. Patterson also placed a tank of water in front of his store in Wood street.

Burgess John A. Keys is maintaining a neutral position in the contest. He holds that the police are not the proper persons to make the informations against the druggists or gather evidence. He says, however, that he cannot refuse to accept information against the druggists made by citizens, and if the offenders are found guilty, it is his duty to inflict a fine. He is taking no active part in the crusade, and will do nothing further than what he deems his duty when informations are made before him.

EVERYTHING IS READY FOR ORPHANS' PICNIC

Committees Expect Over 70,000 Visitors to Calhoun Park During the Two Days.

The last meeting of the committee on the St. Paul's orphans' picnic was held last night at the Catholic Lyceum in Washington street, and it was the largest gathering of the series. Reports were submitted by all the sub-committees and everything found to be in smooth working order for both Wednesday and Thursday.

It is estimated that over 70,000 people will visit Calhoun park on these two days, and to handle these great throngs a gate committee was created. It consists of Thomas Hughes, chairman; Lawrence Fagan, vice chairman; C. E. Devlin, H. E. Charles, J. W. Sullivan, M. J. Clark, M. Hennigan, D. F. Crawford, John T. Dignam, John Heighan, P. C. Murphy, T. M. Dermott, P. Sweeney, J. B. Lauler and T. J. McConnell.

Leopold Vilsack reported that the contest for the trip to Europe has been started in an excellent manner. The tickets for this drawing are being sold at 25 cents each. The disposal of the lot donated to the picnic managers was placed in the hands of George A. McLaughlin. He will have a booth at the park and will be assisted by a number of young women who are employed in different real estate offices in the city. The chances on the lot will be sold at 10 cents.

Edward Friel, from the committee on the goat race, reported that he had received 100 applications and from these had selected 25 entries, taking only goats that could show a record in former races or a pedigree. The entries included goats from Pittsburgh, Allegheny, New Castle, Pa., and Youngstown, O. He has arranged for a goat car to leave Fourth avenue and Market street at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning to transport the animals to the park. Thomas Kilkerry will have charge of the car. At the park the goats will be kept under canvas for two days.

The ladies of the Church of the Epiphany, of Sacred Heart, East End, and of St. Peter's, Allegheny, have made special arrangements to cater to visitors who may want to take their meals at the park. Over twenty booths will serve both dinner and supper exclusively, and there will be no lack of accommodations.

The street car company has provided a schedule under which there will be quick service between all points in the county and the park. Assurance was given last night that there will be no difficulty either in taking the people to the picnic or to bringing them away.

DEPUTY CORONER AIDS THE POLICE

Deputy Coroner John P. Black, about noon yesterday, saw a man on the hillside at Fourth avenue and Try street, going through the pockets of a drunken man, and notified Officer Thomas McCready, who sent back the men to Central station. The drunken man gave his name as Mike Ratchford and the other says his name is Samuel Peet. Both claim their homes are in Pittsburgh. Ratchford says he had a little less than $3 in his pockets and $2 81 was found on Peet. Peet is held as a suspicious person and Ratchford is charged with drunkenness.

Killed Woman and Himself.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., July 12.—Jacob Mueller, a huckster, shot and killed Mrs. Margaret Weiss, at her home, 2648 Waterloo street, this city, this afternoon, and then killed himself. The couple had lived together for some time and had frequently quarreled. The man was 28 years old and the woman 50.

HAD BEEN PALLBEARER; SOON HE WAS CORPSE

Joseph Nugent of Braddock Killed While Returning from a Funeral—Sad Home-Coming of His Son from England.

Joseph Nugent, aged 61 years, of No. 441 John street, Braddock, died yesterday of injuries received on the railroad while returning from the funeral of a friend at which he acted as pallbearer. A son of the deceased man will have a sad home-coming today, when he arrives from New York to visit his parents after a trip from Manchester, England.

Mr. Nugent had been picked up along the line of the Pennsylvania railroad Saturday evening by the crew of a freight train. His leg was badly crushed, and he was taken into the Grant street station, from where he was removed to the West Penn hospital. The leg had to be amputated. The aged man could not withstand the shock and died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

After acting as pallbearer at the funeral of Charles McCarthy of Braddock on Saturday, Mr. Nugent boarded a train with some friends to go to Irwin. Before the end of the trip he was missed by the rest of the party, and nothing was seen of him after reaching Irwin. It is supposed he fell from the train while passing from one car to the other.

A son, Michael, who has been at Manchester, England, the last two years, as superintendent of one of the British Westinghouse departments, will arrive home this morning. He was given a leave of absence for this summer, and was coming home to spend it. He arrived in New York city on the steamer Cedric yesterday.

Mr. Nugent was born in Clare county, Ireland, April 1, 1842. He went to Irwin with his parents when 10 years old, and worked in the mines there, and later was a hotelkeeper in Westmoreland county. He went to Braddock 15 years ago, and until a year or two since had charge of the store shops of the Edgar Thomson blast furnaces. He was a member of St. Thomas' R. C. church, Braddock. He is survived by his widow and the following children: Edward J., an insurance broker of Braddock; Thomas, a drygoods merchant; Michael of Manchester, England; James, a law student at Washington, D. C.; John of the Braddock National bank, and Misses Mary, Agnes and Annie.

BIG CONVENTION WEEK AT DETROIT

Three Organizations Will Take Many Strangers to That City.

EPWORTH LEAGUE TO MEET

Committee Preparing to Entertain a Large Number of Delegates—Veterans of the Spanish War Will Hold Reunion—Electrical Association Also.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

DETROIT, July 12.—This is to be one of the greatest convention weeks in the history of Detroit, and it is expected that the city will be crowded to its capacity with strangers. Three large conventions will be held during the week, the sixth international convention of the Epworth league, the reunion of the Society of Santiago de Cuba and the Fifth army corps, and the annual convention of the American Electrical association.

The Epworth league convention, which opens Thursday afternoon, will, it is expected by the arrangements committee, bring about 20,000 strangers to the city. The convention will be opened at three meetings held simultaneously in Tent Ontario, which is pitched at the corner of Fourth and Lafayette avenues, the Central M. E. church and the Detroit opera house. Meetings will also be held in these places Thursday night.

Friday and Saturday mornings will be devoted to departmental conferences. Friday afternoon the Light Guard armory will also be turned over to the leaguers and named "Epworth Auditorium." Meetings will be held here Friday afternoon and evening, in addition to the other three general meetings in the tent, the church and the opera house. Saturday afternoon will be devoted to excursions to Belle Isle park, where there will be music and speeches. Three general meetings will be held Saturday evening.

Sunday morning "love feasts" will be held in a dozen churches, followed by preaching and regular church services. Sunday afternoon will be devoted to three meetings, one for men, one for women and one for children. The convention will end with seven general meetings Sunday night.

The committee on entertainment has arranged for accommodating the visitors in private families throughout the city, as well as in boarding houses and hotels. All delegates and visitors will be met at the railroad stations by members of the reception committee and conducted to the headquarters of the entertainment committee, where quarters will be assigned them. Splendid musical programs have been arranged for all the meetings, a feature of which is the choruses that have been organized.

The Army of Santiago de Cuba reunion will begin Thursday with a great military parade and continue through Friday. A number of United States regular troops will be sent here during the reunion. In addition to the battalion of infantry that is located at Fort Wayne, there will be one battalion of infantry of the Ninth regiment from Forts Madison and Niagara, one battalion of Third infantry from Fort Thomas, Ky.; one battalion of light artillery from Fort Sheridan, Ill.; band of the Third infantry, from Fort Thomas; band of the Ninth infantry, from Fort Madison, and band of the First infantry, from Niagara.

Capt. Brett's troop of picked horsemen from Fort Meyer will give exhibitions in an enclosure on Woodward avenue, and it is expected that the gate receipts from this exhibition will largely cover the expenses of the reunion. Among the prominent military men expected are Gen. Shafter, Gen. Chaffee and Gen. John C. Bates.

The American Electrical association will be in convention from the 13th to the 16th, and a large exhibition of electrical machinery and material will be made at Light Guard armory.

NEIGHBORS COULD NOT SLEEP FOR THE NOISE

Neighbors complained of the noise in John Mulvarich's house at Forty-seventh street and Plum alley early yesterday morning, so the police raided it to allow persons in the vicinity to get some sleep. When the officers arrived they found several fights in progress. At the hearing Mulvarich was fined $10 and costs and the 20 visitors $5 and costs each. All settled.

HARVESTING NOT SUMMER OUTING

College Boys on Kansas Farms Learn What Real Hard Work Is.

SOCIETY LIONS NOT WANTED

Men With Untanned Skins and Tender Hands Find Harvesting No Pleasant Task—Work 14 Hours and Eat Five Meals Each Day.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

TOPEKA, KAN., July 12.—Dispatches received today from Ellsworth county state that the carload of harvesters sent there last night from New York city and from a number of leading colleges of the east find the work before them anything but a pleasant summer outing.

Thirty-one of the 40 are college students with untanned skins and tender hands. The others have been clerking in stores. When they were told that the eight-hour day did not apply to the harvest fields and that the farmers were not looking for society lions, their hearts grew heavy and sad, but they will have to work, for they are without money.

The college boys were told that the farmers' day began at 4 o'clock in the morning and ends when it is no longer possible to drive the big machine, about 8 in the evening. There is an hour for dinner and an hour for supper and lunch and 14 hours of the hardest kind of work under a blazing sun. The harvester must get up at 3:30. He cannot get to bed before 10 o'clock in the evening. He gets five meals a day, breakfast at 3:45, lunch at 10, dinner at 12, supper at five, and another lunch before he goes to bed.

Some of the eastern college students today telegraphed their friends in the east that the business of harvesting in Kansas was anything but a picnic.

READING, PA., July 12.—Farm work is now at its height throughout Berks county, and, as last year, many farmers are unable to secure sufficient help. There has been a scarcity for several years, the young men preferring to work in the mills in the city. As a result wages have advanced materially, and many inducements are thrown out for help. As high as $1.25 to $1.50 is paid for an experienced farm hand. Many farmers are advertising for help, but are unable to secure any. The old custom of serving whisky and lunch in the fields, which had fallen into disuse, has been revived in some districts.

As a special inducement to secure help three meals are served, and between meals a quantity of whisky and an old-fashioned lunch is supplied at intervals. Some farmers have secured help by this, but many more laborers are needed.

TELEPHONE OPERATOR LOST POWER OF SPEECH

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 12.—Cecile Brunswick, a long distance telephone operator for the Central Union Telephone Company, suddenly and with seemingly no cause, lost her voice a week ago. Since that time she has not been able to speak. The case has baffled the physicians here. She will go to Cleveland tomorrow and consult a specialist.

Veteran Confederate Very Ill

GEN. JAMES LONGSTREET.

GAINESVILLE, GA., July 12.—(Special.)—Gen. James Longstreet, whose left eye has just been removed on account of a cancerous growth which destroyed its sight, is dangerously ill. He is 81 years old and his friends fear will not live long. Gen. Longstreet is the last of the great leaders of the Confederate army; he was in high favor with Gen. Robert E. Lee, and took the place in that general's estimation held by Stonewall Jackson before his death. He has been severely criticised for delay in connection with Pickett's charge at Gettysburg.

Recently he has held national office under the Republican party. He was a great friend of Gen. Grant.

KITTY BRANSFIELD WILL PLAY TODAY

First Baseman Will Resume Work After Long Absence from Game.

NO GAME AT WHEELING

"Kitty" Bransfield will be on first base for the champions when they begin to do battle with the Bostons this afternoon at Exposition park. Bransfield has been unable to don his uniform to play for the past few weeks because of a very bad knee, which now seems to be strong enough to permit his resuming his position on first.

Capt. Fred Clarke, too, is rapidly rounding into playing shape and it is expected that he will soon be back in the game. Last week he thought it would be a matter of a few days, but the sore arm was worse than he at first thought.

The Boston team went to Wheeling yesterday morning to play an exhibition game with the Central league nine of that place. Rain began to fall before it was time to dress for the game and the contest was called off, much to the regret of the Wheeling fans and Manager Buckenberger of Boston, as well. Buckenberger is a former Wheeling manager and it would have pleased him to have had his "big leaguers" play in his old town. Bransfield was talking to some friends in the Monongahela house last evening when the Boston players arrived. "What did you get at Wheeling?" he asked of Pittinger.

"Dinner," was the reply.

Manager Buckenberger said that Captain and First Baseman Tenny would join the team here today and be in this afternoon's game. Tenny has been out of the game for some time. Buckenberger also said that he would pitch Malarky today against the Pirates.

A special from New York to The Gazette last night, said that President Johnson of the American league and President Comiskey of the Chicago American league club are in that city to look out for their interests in the Davis and Elberfeld cases. They will be there until the Elberfeld injunction hearing comes up in the supreme court, Wednesday. Comiskey, too, intends to apply to the United States court for an injunction restraining Davis from playing with the New York Nationals.

"We expect to win out in the Elberfeld case on the facts," said Johnson in an interview. "Elberfeld had a prior contract with the Detroit club when he signed with the New York Nationals. Moreover, his name was not mentioned at all in the peace negotiations. Neither were the names of Matthewson and Bowerman, who signed with the St. Louis Americans. As soon as Matthewson and Bowerman returned their advance money to St. Louis I returned their contracts to Pulliam.

"As to a baseball war, I don't think there will be any—unless the National league wants it, and Brush, apparently, is the only one that does. Will I attend the National agreement meeting on July 28? That depends entirely on the stand taken by the National league in the Davis case.

"The situation in New York in the way of pitching is not worrying us in the least. It is all we expected this year; but next year we are confidently expecting the public will warm up to us and that we will reverse the present order of things."

President Pulliam of the National league has also started an investigation of the O'Neill-Babb fight in St. Louis on Friday last. The result of his investigation of the Bowerman-Clarke fight is still awaited.

Kelley Is Great Player.

"As an all-around ball player there is not a man in the league who compares with Joe Kelley of the Reds," says Ed. Grillo in the Cincinnati Tribune, "There is not another player in the league who can be at the head of the list in any position in the outfield and hold up his end in any one of the infield positions. Such a man is most valuable to a team. Kelley has already proved this. What a mess the Reds would have been in had they not had Kelley to play at short. Jack Morrissey showed how big a game that he could not do duty there, and there is not another man on the team who could have half way filled Corcoran's place excepting Kelley. Kelley, of course, is not Corcoran at short, but one would not believe that to see him at his regular position if the fact were not generally known.

"So long as the Reds have Kelley and three other outfielders, there need never be an effort made to find a utility man. Kelley is all that, and more, too, for the fact that he is playing out of his regular position does not affect his playing and batting in the least, and that is saying a great deal, for most players allow a change of position to affect their hitting.

"Speaking of ball players reminds me to once more say what I have always said, that Corcoran's ability is never appreciated until he is out of the game. When the people see Corcoran day after day they do not realize that he is one of the greatest men in his position in harness today. His work is performed so easily that it is often not appreciated. Other shortstops occasionally make one-hand stops of a ball and are given ovations, when on the same sort of a ball Corcoran would get in front of it, use two hands and make a very ordinary play out of it. In this respect Corcoran is much as McPhee used to be on the local grounds.

"McPhee was seldom applauded. It had to be a play which took one's breath away before McPhee's ability was appreciated, but away from home, where they did not see McPhee every day, they thought him the king of all second basemen. McPhee was not given that title at home, but abroad, and so it is with Corcoran. In other cities they think Corcoran a great shortstop, but here there is a difference of opinion, and at one time there was a feeling against the great player."

COLLETT WILL RIDE IN GERMAN RACES

NEW HAVEN, CONN., July 12.—(Special.)—A message from George H. Collett of this city, the former amateur champion and later grand circuit professional bicycle rider, who is in Europe, states that he has just signed a contract for a series of open races in Germany. Collett has had remarkable success in the chief races in Paris this year, landing in second in the Grand Prix. He defeated the German champion, Myers, in France. His first race is scheduled for Cologne.

Columbus Races Begin Today.

COLUMBUS, O., July 12.—The summer meeting of the Columbus Driving Park association, which will begin tomorrow, is regarded by horsemen here as practically the opening of the grand circuit. Most of the horses here will be taken directly to Detroit at the close of the meeting. There will be five days of racing, four races each day, and there will be good fields in every event. The purses aggregate more than $22,000.

BRUSH CAUSED DEATH OF DELEHANTY, SAID POSTAL

President of Washington Club Scores the New Yorker for Tampering With Player.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

DETROIT, MICH., July 12.—"John T. Brush, president of the New York National league baseball team, is responsible for the death of Edward Delehanty," said President Fred Postal, at Griswold House yesterday morning. "If Brush had not tampered with Delehanty, the player would have been satisfied, and would not have started on the course that led to his death.

"Brush and McGraw do not know now the baseball war is over. The playing of George Davis is not so much matter, but agents of the New York club are tampering with other American league players. If the National league at the meeting called by Pulliam, decides the New York National league team is the whole thing in the baseball world, as they will decide; if they uphold the course of that club, it will either mean another war, which would be ruinous to baseball, or else that the better element in the National league will combine with the American league.

"If think there are enough cool heads in the National league to shut down on Brush and those other people. Men like Garry Hermann, Hart and Ebbitts will not want to bring on another baseball war.

"No radical changes are likely to take place on the Washington team as a result of the death of Delehanty. It will be necessary to play either Martin or Lee in the vacant outfield position, and another infielder may be necessary to the team. The Washington club is just now in a position to sincerely regret the release of Ducky Holmes, who is playing grand ball for the Chicago White Stockings."

LIPTON AT CLAM BAKE

Parody on "Tommy Atkins" Pleases Him at Larchmont Yacht Club.

NEW YORK, July 12.—(Special.)—Sir Thomas Lipton attended his first clam bake today as a guest of the Atlantic Yacht club at Sea Gate and if forms and actions mean anything he thoroughly approves of this American institution. He arrived at the club house at about noon and immediately the clam bake was under way. The committee on arrangements had neglected no detail that would make the affair a success and even the weather was good to them until about 3 o'clock, when the rain began to fall, but at that time the feast was over and Sir Thomas was holding an informal reception in the club house.

Though there was no speech-making Lipton took occasion to inform the committee that America had but one more joy for him and that was the lifting of the cup. He was informed that it was the only joy in life that Americans did not wish him. The yachtsmen at Larchmont, however, sang Sir Thomas tonight, were humming a little parody on "Tommy Atkins" today, which runs like this:

"Oh, Tommy, Tommy Lipton, we have welcomed you before,
And we hope, again to welcome you a dozen times or more,
We have faith in our Reliance, whom we trust to rule the blue,
But losing, Tommy Lipton, we had rather lose to you."

The song was sung by Ray McGee, of the Lambs' club at the dinner on Saturday and amid great enthusiasm. It was written by Clay M. Green, the club playwright, and Sir Thomas was so delighted with the tribute that he thanked the singer and musicians and requested it a second time. Sir Thomas said today that he was delighted with the reception he received at the Larchmont Yacht club.

Steubenville All Stars to Play.

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—The Steubenville All-Star team will play here tomorrow afternoon against the New Castle Independents, a local team which has just been organized with strong local and outside material. The latter have arranged a series of games with prominent independent teams of this locality, and will tour this vicinity during August.

Danny Maher Has Quiet Day.

ENGLAND DOES NOT AGREE WITH THE AMERICAN HORSES

LONDON, July 12.—(Special Cable.)—It is reported in racing circles here that the American contingent is convinced of the hopelessness of running American horses on the English turf with the view of winning money. Bad luck has persistently followed the three largest owners, Richard Croker, W. C. Whitney and the Keenes.

Representatives of all three were busy at Newmarket at all the sales last week, and they bought up some of the best things that were put up for sale. Richard Croker was not bidding personally because he did not want the other two to know that he meant to replenish his stables with English-bred animals. He was a silent looker-on in the paddock. It is estimated that during the Ascot week Whitney parted with $10,000 in entry money alone.

KERNOCHAN TO ABANDON POLO AND COUNTRY HUNTS

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 12.—James L. Kernochan, the champion polo player and cross-country hunter, the greatest gentleman jockey in America and the leader of the famous Meadowbrook hunt millionaire sportsman, has decided to abandon his dearest hobby and will sell his entire stable of polo horses and crack hunting horses. His mother, the noted leader of New York and Newport society, induced Kernochan to take action because of his accident while hunting. He sells his entire stable to Newport, where the sale will take place.

Kernochan, who trained his own horses and had a miniature steeplechase course at his Meadowbrook, his Long Island summer estate, took out a new 3-year-old jumper. The hunter was high spirited and took the first jumps in grand style. At the high cedar jump the horse went at a fast gallop and struck his hoof on the top bar and fell. Kernochan was hurled over the horse's head, and though he fell clear of the horse, his head struck heavily on the hard ground. He was picked up and carried to his home and medical help summoned.

Kernochan and his wife have for years been known as two of the most daring riders in this country. Both have had miraculous escapes from death and many serious hurts and croppers. Kernochan has had both arms broken and his knees dislocated in his many exploits. Mrs. Kernochan recently met with an accident similar to her husband's, except that her horse fell on her, and for a time it was feared that she would suffer from spinal affection, such as killed the beautiful young wife of William C. Whitney some years ago.

KENNOY GOES TO WAYNESBURG TEAM

QUEER PLAY AT JOHNSTOWN

Buck Kennoy, second baseman on the All-Interscholastic nine will leave for Waynesburg this morning to join the summer team being formed at that place. Frank Haller, the former minor leaguer who coached and caught on the Indiana State Normal nine this spring, will catch and captain Waynesburg. He also leaves for that place today. John Welch, pitcher on the Waynesburg college team last season, will be one of the slabmen. Kennoy has received offers from many teams in this part of the country, but he refused to leave the Scholastics until he promised Haller to join his Waynesburg crowd.

The Scholastics finished their season Saturday. Don Doyle, the crack pitcher and "Midget" Spuhler, will leave today for Chautauqua for the remainder of the summer. Clarence Overend will join them soon and these players may get up a team at that place.

While the season lasted the Scholastics had a few short trips and on each there was something new turning up for them. A play occurred in the game at Johnstown last week that is seldom seen on a ball field, which is the ball being lost in a fielder's glove on the players' bench. In this game Alex McCracken hit a fast grounder to Kinkald at third. Kinkald picked up the ball nicely but threw a trifle wild to Fisher, captain of the Gettysburg college nine for next year, at first. The ball got away from Fisher, hit a post back of the line, bounded back and caromed off the back of a rooter, falling into a glove on the Scholastics' bench. Fisher lost sight of it when it hit the post. He ran past the bench, but it remained for an urchin to "pipe" it off for him. Fisher picked up the ball and let drive for Weller, who was pitching. Weller, without getting on the rubber, threw to the catcher, getting McCracken just as he was about to slide. He was called out by the umpire, but when informed that the pitcher was not on his slab when he delivered the ball and that the ball was blocked because of it hitting the rooter, the official changed his decision. The Johnstown players, however, could not see how the ball could get lost in a glove.

The many friends of Lew Wentz were pleased to hear of his return to the local amateur fold as a manager. Wentz, who managed the Pittsburgh Athletic club team a few years ago, will again have the same club in the field. Last year he took the P. A. C. club to Atlantic City, but no such trip will be made this year, However, Homestead will hold up the reputation of this city in the east by playing a series of four games at Atlantic City and all the other principal cities in Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware.

Wentz will begin to form his team this week and will soon be in shape to meet the best nines in this part of the state. Lew Morin, a promising youngster, will be one of his pitchers.

BASEBALL INVENTION

Canadian Hits Upon Idea Not Likely to Become Popular in National Game.

A Canada man has invented an apparatus designed to remove all doubt as to whether the runner or the baseman touches the plate first. To announce the result to the cranks in the grand stand this latest invention is provided with an electric bell, which the baseman can ting if he reaches the base first, and which the runner can prevent him from ringing if he arrives at the plate first. Each base has four metallic plates, so arranged that they can be connected to close the circuit and ring the bell near the home plate. The baseman's gloves have spring contacts in the palm, which can only be closed by the pressure of the ball in the hand, and his shoes have metallic plates on the soles.

The gloves and shoes are connected by wire, and when the baseman has the ball in his clenched hand he can stand on one plate and touch another with his glove to close the circuit and ring the bell to announce that the runner is out. But, should the runner arrive at the base before the ball, he can step on one of the plates and break the circuit to the home plate, thus preventing the baseman from giving his signal. To prevent imposition on the part of the baseman, it is optional with the umpire which pair of plates shall be connected, and the player has no means of knowing until he arrives at the base with the ball what connection he is to make, there being two connections with the home plate, either of which can be selected by the umpire and indicated to the baseman.

VANDERBILT'S ALPHA WINS RICH STAKES

PARIS, July 12.—W. K. Vanderbilt's Alpha, ridden by the American jockey, Nash Turner, won the Prix du President de la Republique, the principal event at today's race meeting at Maisons Laffitte worth $8,400. His Marigold ran in the same race, but was unplaced. The French president and Madame Loubet accompanied their suite, witnessed the race.

FANNY DILLARD MAY BREAK RECORD

She Has Mark of 2:05 1-4, and Is Expected to Lower Best Effort of 2:04 1-2 This Season.

GOOD PERFORMER LAST YEAR

Before the curtain is drawn over the racing scene of 1903, it is safe to say the world's record for a pacing mare of 2:04¼, made during 1899 by Lady of the Manor, and equaled two years ago by Mazette, will have gone the way of many previous world's marks.

If the wise ones are not mistaken, last season's consistent performer, Fanny Dillard, 2:05¼, a full sister to Hal B, 2:04½, by Hal Dillard, will have placed that record to her credit.

Fanny Dillard is owned by John L. Wentz of Scrantan who will campaign a stable of fast performers under the care of Trainer W. L. Snow, down the Grand Circuit line again this season.

Fanny Dillard has a great future before her this year, as she was one of the fast big winners of 1902, and is today as sound as the first season she was raced. Dr. Wentz purchased her in Ohio, as he did Hal B, and she showed phenomenal speed from the first.

During 1898 she took a record of 2:11¾, and the following season reduced that mark to 2:08, winning some hard races. It was in 1900 that Fanny Dillard took a record of 2:06¼, which she did not reduce until last season.

Fanny Dillard started at the opening meeting of the Great Circuit at Detroit last July. Shadow Climax, driven by Ed. Geers, was forced to his record of 2:05 by her there. Then came Cleveland, where Fanny was third to Audubon Boy, who won in 2:03¾.

The next week saw the Grand Circuit at Columbus, and it was there the mare paced to her record of 2:05¼, beating Major Muscovite. At Buffalo she came second to Audubon Boy in 2:06, and won the 2:06 pace at Brighton Beach, beating Dan R, 2:04.

The following week at the same place she finished second in the 2:04 pace, won by Audubon Boy. At Providence she forced the winner in her class out in 2:04¾ and 2:04½. Second money was again her share at Hartford.

The circuit then moved to Syracuse where Fanny won her race in straight heats, beating such as Daniel, 2:04¾, and The Bishop, 2:06. The week following at Cincinnati she defeated a large field, including Nathan Strauss, 2:06¾.

Then came Memphis, where she won the Queen's Cup for free-for-all pacing mares from Little Squaw, Edith W. and Lottie Smart, in 2:05¾ and 2:06¾, again equaling her record and establishing a new world's mark for the fastest two heats in a race by a pacing mare. That was her last race.

W. L. Snow is now stepping her along well below 2:10 over the Glenville track, preparatory to her campaign down the Grand Circuit this season, where she has many engagements.

Fanny's first start will be made the last week of this month at Cleveland in the 2:06 pace, purse $2,000. She will then go down the line.

Expert horsemen predict a low mark for the speedy daughter of Hal Dillard and Ellen M. this summer. When it is remembered that she established a new world's record for two heats and could have lowered her record in her last race at Memphis, the prediction does not seem unreasonable.

MANY HORSES ENTERED.

Beaver Valley Driving Club Will Have Races Three Days of This Week.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—The first annual summer meet of the Beaver Valley Driving club will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The entries closed last night with 76 horses on the list. Of these 31 raced at Salem last week. In one race alone, the 2:23 pace, there are 14 entries. The track, a regulation half mile, is in good shape. The Beaver county record of 2:16 will probably be lowered. The purses aggregate $2,400. The program:

Thursday—2:40 trot, purse $200; 2:23 pace, purse $300; 2:25 trot, purse $300.

Friday—2:30 pace, purse $200; 2:30 trot, purse $250; 2:28 pace, purse $300.

COPENHAGEN RACES.

Goelet's Yacht Swan Wins First Prize in Class 4.

COPENHAGEN, DENMARK, July 12.—The regatta of the Royal Yacht club opened today in fine, warm weather. Seventy yachts, representing Great Britain, Germany, Scandinavia and America, participated.

Robert W. Goelet's yacht Swan won the first prize in class 4, defeating the well-known Swedish racer Khaki. The course was 20 miles long. The Swan's time was 5 hours, 14 minutes and 6 seconds, and the Khaki's 6 hours, 12 minutes and 51 seconds.

WESTERN HORSES SCARCE.

But Three Stables Will Be at Saratoga Meeting.

CHICAGO, July 12.—A canvass of the stables now arriving here shows that fewer western owners intend shipping to Saratoga than for years past. So far as known the only strings booked for the east are those of John A. Drake, Clay Bros. and Middleton & Jungbluth.

Sixteen stakes will be decided during the Harlem summer and fall meetings. Of these the most valuable is the Tecumseh handicap, at 1⅛ miles, $2,000 added.

CONVICTS ARE ARMED

Warden of New York State Reformatory Unable to Find Stolen Weapons.

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 12.—(Special.)—Intense excitement prevails among the officials of the New York state reformatory here over the discovery that the store room for the institution had been broken open and loaded revolvers, knives and razors secured by the convicts.

The incident took place yesterday at noon, while most of the inmates were at dinner. It was discovered later in the afternoon, and a search of everyone of the 1,200 cells instituted, but not a sign of the missing weapons was seen. General Superintendent Robertson then ordered all guards and citizens, employes of the institution, to remain on duty day and night, pending further orders. He has doubled the guard on all prisoners and is watching them closely, fearing an outbreak.

Aged Couple Killed by Train.

EAST BREWSTER, MASS., July 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Adnah Rogers, while out driving this afternoon, were struck and instantly killed by the afternoon express train to Boston, on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. The double fatality occurred at a point where a roadway leading from the woods crosses the tracks. Mr. Rogers was 70 years old and his wife was 60.

GOVERNMENT IS ASKED TO REFUND

PITTSBURGHERS ARE INVOLVED

Local Concerns Paid Tariff on Steel Products Which Was Afterwards Declared Illegal—New Law Enables Them to Recover This Excess.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.

Claims of steel dealers and others amounting to many thousands of dollars for excess duty paid the government have been filed in the court of claims here with bills of particulars, and it is likely that a decision will be reached by the court this fall.

The Carnegie Steel Company has a claim of $27,737, and the Edgar Thompson steel works, which was formerly an independent concern, has a claim of $20,761. These claims represent excessive tariff charges that were paid by the firms and individuals named during the years from 1879 to 1882 on steel blooms. The collector of the port of New York insisted on classifying blooms so that they were charged a tariff rate of 45 per cent. Later this decision was overruled and they were classified so that they came in at a rate of 30 per cent. The sums asked by the claimants represent the difference between what was paid by the importers and what should have been paid under the proper ruling. So many years elapsed before a demand for restitution was made that the claims were nullified by the statute of limitations, and to remedy this a bill was passed at the last session of congress giving the court of claims jurisdiction.

The following is the list of claims: Oliver L. Garrison, receiver of the St. Louis Ore and Steel Company, $19,338 90; A. Schrader and Eugene Ellery, $8,597; A. E. Godeffroy, surviving partner of Godeffroy and Alfred Hayn, $81,213; G. E. Chapman, receiver, $138,851; Cleveland Rolling Mill Company, $22,267; Josiah F. Bailey and S. W. Groome, $77,462; Diamond State Iron and Steel Company, $23,278; Thomas F. Matthews, executor of the estate of C. W. Matthews, $23,106; Samuel E. Merwin, trustee of the estate of E. S. Wheeler, $20,405; Interstate Improvement and Construction Company, $31,511; Edward C. Smith, $48,091; Edgemoor Iron Company, $8,222; W. Selfridge, surviving partner of E. Samuel & Co., $13,176; Cambria Iron Company, $20,761; Carnegie Steel Company, $27,737; Eugene Odell, agent of the Northern Pacific railroad, $38,106; Northern Pacific Company, $65,983; Edgar Thomson steel works, $20,761; Amelia Y. Collins, for H. E. Collins & Co., $17,889; Charles Ridgely, $45,936; C. A. Griscom, F. L. Neale and James A. Wright, for the Cambria Iron Company, $20,176; Sandusky Rolling Mill Company, $65,985; Albany and Rensaller Iron and Steel Company, $19,219; Henry A. V. Post, as surviving partner of Clark Post & Co., $70,885, and Henry W. Oliver, $86,467.

PERSONALS

B. J. Zimmerman of Mexico City just before boarding the train at the Baltimore & Ohio railroad on his way home, said last night: "While there has been much railroad construction under way in Mexico the past two years, it is only a tithe of what is contemplated. Nearly all the railroad projects have been delayed for want of material. Especially is this true regarding securing ties. Many miles of grading have been completed, and the roads would have been in operation could the projectors have secured the material."

David B. Johnston of Philadelphia was a passenger on the Pennsylvania limited last night. He said that the city of brotherly love is not enjoying the prosperity as some cities are, yet business is good. He was on a business trip to Chicago.

Neighbors Visiting Pittsburgh.

The residents of nearby towns registered at local hotels last night were as follows: Monongahela House—M. Laffindo, Marietta; George J. Burns, Wheeling; William Crane, Shamokin, and N. G. Wilson, Altoona. Griswold—M. L. Cregle, Marietta, and W. S. Churchill, Bradford.

DIAMONDS WORTH $1,100 GIVEN FOR SHOW TICKET

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BELLEFONTE, PA., July 12.—During the street fair and carnival here a few days ago, Mrs. Wallach of New York, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Emil Joseph, missed a diamond brooch. From a little girl it was learned that a brooch was seen in the possession of one of the men with the fair that morning.

The police were appealed to. They went to the man and inquired if he had found a brooch with stones in it being careful not to mention that they were diamonds. The man unhesitatingly told the officials that a boy had given him a pin that morning in exchange for a 10-cent ticket to the show, but that he did not want it and had given it to one of the girls with the show. The girl was seen and she said she had given it to the man at the merry-go-round for a 5-cent ticket for a ride on the merry-go-round. The man in charge of this amusement was then visited and he admitted freely of having received the pin and said that he had thrown it into his valise and would get it for them, which he did saying he "didn't know what to do with it anyway."

The brooch had passed through four hands and paid for two tickets valued at 15 cents, but Mrs. Wallach was so glad to get it back she paid over $100 in rewards. The brooch was composed of diamonds of the first water and was valued at $1,100, and yet all who handled it thought it was of glass or imitation stones.

THE DEATH ROLL

Mowry Bonner.

Capt. Elmer K. Rupp,
of Altoona, Pa.

ALTOONA, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—By energetic efforts Capt. Elmer K. Rupp of this city, whose picture is here presented, has just been successful in reorganizing at this place Company E, Fifth regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, and was deservedly elected at its head. Capt. Rupp has a brilliant soldier record for one so young in years, is very much devoted to military matters and takes especial interest in the discipline and tactics of the state national guard. He first enlisted as a private in May, 1881, with Company A, Fifth regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, at Huntingdon, Pa., under Capt., now Lieut.-Col. John S. Bare, serving through the Homestead riot in 1892. He was promoted to corporal December, 1892, and served through the Punxsutawney riot in 1893. Afterward promoted to regiment commissary sergeant 1897. Capt. Rupp enlisted in Company A, Fifth regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer infantry for the Spanish-American war April, 1898, there being no regimental commissary sergeants allowed. He was promoted to regimental quartermaster sergeant August, 1898, and mustered out with the regiment November, 1898. He re-entered the guard as regimental commissary sergeant January, 1899, and promoted to regimental adjutant May, 1900. His commission expired with the colonel of the regiment February, 1902. Besides being popular with members of his company, Capt. Rupp is a talented newspaper writer in this city and has a wide personal acquaintance over the commonwealth.

THOUSANDS VISITED SCENE OF THE FLOOD

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., July 12.—Every car on the Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Greensburg street railway bound for the storm-swept Brush creek valley was crowded today and thousands visited the scene of last Sunday's disaster.

At Penn the work of clearing away the debris was continued all day and the little town is slowly regaining the appearances of ruin and desolation. The Catholic church, in which the little Niega children had taken their first communion on Easter, was well filled at the two masses this morning, and Father Modeska referred touchingly to their deaths. Services in the other churches were in the nature of memorials to the victims of the flood.

A big force of men were at work all day repairing the break in the Pennsylvania railroad fill east of the Jeannette passenger station and they were watched by thousands of sightseers. The break is puzzling the railroad officials, landslides in the repaired portion being of almost daily occurrence. All four tracks have been placed far out on the northern edge of the fill.

Sheriff Wants More Guards.

GREENSBURG, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—Sheriff John H. Trescher will ask for additional guards at the local jail. He considers that he has exceedingly desperate characters in his charge in Charles Gruber, the confessed murderer of Constable H. Ebert, his brother, Fred Cruber, and Peter Mattern. It is believed that the gang will resort to any means to effect their escape.

STATE AND NEIGHBORHOOD.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—No. 1 furnace at the Ohio plant of the Carnegie Steel Company will resume operations between July 15 and 20.

FAIRMONT, W. VA.—R. L. Cunningham's three-story brick building, which was gutted by fire, will be repaired at once. His loss is $12,000.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—Shortage of ice in this city is almost to the point of causing a famine. The big plant of the Crystal Ice Company broke down last week.

STEUBENVILLE, O.—Harry McKivers, 65 years old and single, of Martin's Ferry, was struck by a passenger train at Glenny's Run and fatally injured. He was brought to Gill hospital.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—The linemen in the employ of the Central Union Telephone Company are all out on a strike. The men wanted one of the foremen, whom they claim is not a union man, discharged.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—The Rev. John Snape, pastor of the First Baptist church of Wilmington, Del., has just accepted the unanimous call recently extended to him by the First Baptist church of this city at the salary of $2,000 annually.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—The annual camp meeting of the National Interdenominational Holiness association began here and will continue for two weeks. The Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Harris of Chicago, the celebrated evangelists, will have charge of the meetings.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—The project of erecting a big music temple in this city has been started. A site has been secured and the project will be pushed as rapidly as possible. The city has not an auditorium outside of the theaters where musical events may be given.

JOHNSTOWN, PA.—The new Sacred Heart Catholic church at Conemaugh was dedicated with impressive ceremonies. Bishop Garvey of the Altoona diocese officiated and the sermon was preached by the Rev. William Graham of St. Patrick's church, Pittsburgh. A large number of priests from this section were present.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—The Orangemen of this city, Sharon, Youngstown and the entire Beaver valley will hold their annual outing today at Aliquippa park, when they will celebrate the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne. Several thousand Orangemen and their families will be present and all manner of athletic sports will be held.

BUTLER, PA.—The cornerstone of the Methodist church was laid with appropriate ceremonies. The Rev. E. S. White, pastor, opened the services with prayer, and the Rev. Dr. Staples, president of Beaver college, delivered the address. The building will be built of brownstone and will cost $50,000.

FLOOD MAY PUT AN END TO SABBATH DESECRATION

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., July 12.—In his sermon tonight on "Every Man a Prophet," the Rev. J. A. Eby, pastor of the First United Brethren in Christ church, drew a lesson from the disaster which swept through Brush creek valley last Sunday afternoon. His text was Numbers, xi.:29, "And Moses said unto him, would that all Jehovah's people were prophets." The Rev. Mr. Eby said in part:

"The officials of our park were warned by the officers of the law to desist in the desecration of the Sabbath. They would not heed, but when God spoke in thunders and floods it was too late to stop the terrible judgment. And while we would not say that the flood was sent as a special judgment for this sin, it may yet be as corrective as if it had been thus sent.

"Finally, brethren, will you not open your mouths, will you not with a good example and with your God-given franchises lift up your hands in a mighty protest against sin. Public exhibitions of immorality that should not be tolerated for a moment are almost daily occurrences among us. For our home's sake, for the sake of our children, in heaven's name, I beseech you the ye all filled with the spirit and be ye prophets.'"

GREAT CROWD TO ATTEND CORNER STONE LAYING

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GROVE CITY, PA., July 12.—Fully 35,000 visitors are expected by the Odd Fellows on the occasion of the laying of the corner stone of the "Wayside Inn" at Grove City next Tuesday, and elaborate preparations are being made to care for the army which will flock here. The human block system will be installed on the railroads to prevent collisions as dozens of special trains will enter the town that day. Experienced flagmen will be located every half mile along the tracks to hold each train until the signal is given that the block ahead is clear.

State Grand Master Samuel A. Steele of Wilkinsburg will conduct the ceremonies attending the placing of the corner stone, assisted by all the grand lodge officers and the officers of the Western Pennsylvania Odd Fellows association. The latter are: President, Louis Kossuth White of Allegheny; vice president, Frank B. Tribby of Meadville; secretary, John Fielding of Allegheny; treasurer, Samuel A. Steele of Wilkinsburg.

The "Wayside Inn" will be supported by more than 500 Odd Fellow lodges of this part of the state. The institution is being founded to provide a suitable and comfortable place for aged and infirm members of the order to pass their reclining days in peace and quiet. The "Wayside Inn" will provide a haven from the first for fully 100 residents, and it is expected that the home will be shortly enlarged so as to give accommodations for as many more.

The various Odd Fellow lodges of each county have made plans to provide meals for all visitors coming from their respective counties and provisions sufficient to feed an army will be dispensed without charge by the Odd Fellows to their guests that day. Attorney Clifford W. Fenton of this city is chairman of the Lawrence county committee, and Charles H. Young is secretary. The Lawrence county visitors will be served refreshments under a huge tent and those from other counties will also be liberally provided for.

Fatally Shot His Friend.

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 12.—(Special.)—William Goddard, who is employed on the Wabash railroad work near Bloomfield, was accidentally shot in the stomach last night by D. F. Hinds, a friend, and Goddard is dying this evening at the Gill hospital. The water boy at the camp had a 22-caliber revolver and asked Goddard to let him shoot at him. Goddard said "Go ahead," so the boy and Hinds went two yards away and Hinds said, "Give me the revolver." In handing over the revolver it was pointed toward Goddard and accidentally discharged. Hinds came here and gave himself up. Goddard's home is at Newport, O.

Elks Prepared for Baltimore Trip.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—Final arrangements were made here today by the Baltimore committee of the Punxsutawney B. P. O. Elks to attend the grand lodge meeting at Baltimore next week in special cars. The committee, which consists of Past Exalted Rulers W. S. Scrow, C. M. Kurtz, A. S. Work, P. O. Freas and J. L. Shield, have concluded arrangements with the Pennsylvania railroad for two special cars which will leave here for Baltimore July 20 and will return on Friday July 24.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Women's Corner

The readymade habit, when once it is contracted, is hard to break. To the busy woman it offers most insidious temptation. The well made street gown, plain, well cut and silk lined, and far better in style and quality than private enterprise could produce at the price takes but half an hour to buy, and the matter is settled. No wearisome shopping for materials, long consultations with the dressmaker, and repeated fitting is required. Hat and blouse come the same way, and very pretty and inexpensive lingerie.

The Readymade Habit.

In the house the readymade habit has full sway. Bed and table linen which once had to be hemmed at home, may be bought neatly finished, ready for instant service. When pillow cases may be bought for ten cents up it is a foolish woman who wastes her strength in making them. Sheets may be bought as fine or as coarse as one likes, plain and stout, or deeply and elaborately hemstitched. Towels come hemstitched and initialed, and dish towels may be purchased by the dozen instead of by the yard. And so on through all the household—the readymade stands ready to lighten the white woman's burden, to give her time to develop her brain with books, and her body with athletics, and her soul with a new and righteous freedom.

In hot weather a frozen dessert is always acceptable, and they are quite as easy to make as any other. The following fruit ices and creams will be found delicious: Raspberry Ice Cream — Allow one pint of milk, one pint of cream, one pint of sugar, one quart of red raspberries and the white of one egg. Put the milk and cream together in a double kettle until hot, then remove from the fire and add half the sugar. Add the rest of the sugar to the raspberries and mash. When the milk is cold, stir in the raspberries. Pour all into the freezer and pack. When half frozen add the white of the egg beaten to a froth, and finish freezing.

Hot Weather Desserts.

Pineapple Ice Cream—One pint each of milk and cream, the yolks of two eggs, one pound of sugar, the juice of one lemon, and one large pineapple. Dissolve two cupfuls of cream and one-half pound of sugar in a double-boiler, cool. Add the beaten yolks. Prepare the pineapple, removing eyes and core, grate the apple and dissolve in one-half pound of the sugar. Freeze both the cream and the milk. Stir into it the pineapple and lemon juice, and again freeze.

Frozen Pudding—Take one pint of cream, the yolks of four eggs and beat together; make a syrup of one pound of sugar and one pint of water, put on the fire, when very hot add forty blanched almonds, pounded fine, one ounce of chopped citron, two each of raisins and currants, one ounce of candied orange and lemon peel each, the juice of one lemon; pour in freezer and freeze. Set aside one hour to harden.

Lemon Water Ice—To a heaping tablespoonful of gelatine dissolved in two gills of cold water, add a quart of boiling water, twelve ounces of sugar, and the strained juice of eight lemons; mix thoroughly; strain and freeze.

The small personal characteristics and traits of famous women are receiving so much attention today that I have felt it fitting to compile a few which biographers seem to have missed.

Traits of Famous Women.

Mary Queen of Scots never seemed to care to be told that she was very homely.

George Eliot, the distinguished writer, is said to have avoided those who had just eaten onions.

When Mrs. Browning was dressed for the evening in a white gown, she is said to have discouraged small children with dirty hands from touching her.

Mme. de Stael was apt to become irritated if told that her salon was a rendezvous of the underbred and ignorant.

Mrs. Rorer prefers not to eat gritty lettuce, and in this respect she resembles Susan B. Anthony.

There was a man who went downtown with his sister the other day, and all through the shops, because he heard her say she was going to buy some tub gowns, and he was anxious to see exactly what a tub gown was. This is the story of the Baltimore News. He didn't tell his relative that this was why he was going with her to the aisles that he detested. He told her that she was going away so soon he hated to be separated from her. So he followed like a sheep from one crowded counter to another, with his curiosity well in evidence.

The Inquisitive Man and the "Tub Gown."

When he arrived at the suit department and saw the "tub" frock that was bought forth for his sister's delectation he was the most disgusted masculine creature that had been in that store for many a day. "Goodby, I've got to get to the office," he said hastily, and all the way down he was anathematizing himself for an idiot.

"Nothing but an old linen dress," he explained to a man friend, "and I thought they were something to see."

"When people presume to shut birds up in cages," says a lover of the feathered songsters, "they should see that they are made as comfortable as it is possible for birds to be in a cage. Here are a few rules that might be observed. Put slippery elm bark in the drinking vessels. Taste the birdseed to make sure that it is pure, and never use hempseed. Always dry the perches thoroughly after cleaning, as damp perches are a fruitful cause of rheumatism. Wash out all the vessels thoroughly every day, as the parasite which forms in water left standing in a cage is a deadly enemy of bird life. If the bird shows signs of general debility, such as moulting out of season, give him more iron than he can get from a rusty nail in the water, and counteract the one bad effect of iron with sulphur. Use a bit of apple or fig or, for the larger birds, a live worm as a tonic. Hang the cage about five feet from the floor, where it will be out of draughts and also out of the hot air that rises toward the ceiling. Never hang the cage out of doors, as no one will remember to bring it in when the weather changes."

Roman sandals, which have been fashionable abroad for several summers, have made their appearance here in some of the large shops. They consist of a stout flexible leather sole, with straps to hold it in place, just like the classic sandals of 20 centuries ago. They are intended for children's use, giving all the freedom of bare feet without the risk of cuts and bruises. Abroad, in England and on the continent, very fashionable little folks have been going about stockingless, in sandals, health authorities endorsing the fad. The sandals, in tanned russet leather, cost $1.50 to $2 a pair.

GRACE CHURCH WAS DEDICATED

New $100,000 Edifice of Re-Reformed Congregation Was Opened Yesterday.

MANY MINISTERS PRESENT

Services Were in Charge of the Pastor, the Rev. Dr. John H. Prugh, and the Rev. George W. Richards, D. D., of Lancaster Preached the Sermon.

The handsome new edifice of the Grace Reformed congregation at Dithridge and Bayard streets, Bellefield, which cost $150,000, was yesterday dedicated to the worship of God. The dedicatory sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. George W. Richards of Lancaster, Pa. A fellowship service was held in the afternoon and in the evening the Rev. John H. Seehler of Philadelphia preached. The pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. John H. Prugh, had entire charge of the program.

The morning services were opened by Dr. Prugh with a call to confession and confessional prayer, after which the congregation which crowded the new building chanted the beautiful Kyrie and Gloria Patria. The confirmation and reception of 19 new members by the pastor was an impressive ceremony. All the new members were adults, and two of them were baptized. In the last five months the church has received 79 new members.

The dedication services were read by the pastor which consisted of the reading of the beautiful service from the ritual of the Reformed church of the United States. The sermon was preached by Dr. Richards, who is a professor of church history at the theological seminary at Lancaster, Pa. In the sermon he spoke of the ancient religions as they were conducted by the saints, the Greeks and Hebrews, as compared to the religion of the present day, and said in part:

Sermon of Dr. Richards.

When the saints of olden times experienced a divine presence they erected a sacred memorial. Greeks would build their shrines and the Canaanites their pillars, and the Jews places after they had built an altar they had a tabernacle which became the center of the Jewish religion. As the different tribes became more and more civilized they became more and more dependent on building, on which is based the claim that art had its origin in religion.

The churches of the present time show that the people have their churches as bands for all that is good. It stands as a virtue in spiritual graces; in scepticisms. It is the believer in faith; in anarchy it stands for law; the church is no respecter of persons, but always recognizes the fellowship of man in the church.

At the conclusion of the sermon a prayer was offered by Dr. Richards, concluding with the Lord's prayer chanted by the congregation. The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. P. C. Prugh, D. D., of Butler, Pa. During the morning Miss Carrie Angel Baker rendered a soprano solo in good voice.

Fellowship Service in Afternoon.

The most important part of the afternoon meeting was a fellowship service participated in by ministers of other denominations. The ministers were introduced by Dr. Prugh and each made a five-minute address. The speakers were the Rev. Daniel Dorchester, Jr., of Christ Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. R. W. Grange of the Protestant Episcopal church of the Ascension, the Rev. William McEwan of the Third Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh; the Rev. J. K. McClurkin of the Shadyside United Presbyterian church, the Rev. James Moffat, D. D., of Washington and Jefferson college; the Rev. Richard S. Holmes of the Shadyside Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Paul S. Leinbach of the Wilkinsburg Reformed church.

At the evening services the Rev. Dr. Seehler, a professor in Ursinus school, Philadelphia, preached the sermon. He closed with a prayer, after which Dr. Prugh paid a high tribute to the building committee of the church, composed of Herbert E. Anderson, J. Emerson Ash and P. Keil.

The church has several memorial gifts, including eight large globes for lighting the auditorium, a brass lectern and a large electric globe in the center of the auditorium. The Women's Missionary society and the Sunday school each presented $1,000 to the building fund. The large three-manual pipe organ was presented by Andrew Carnegie. Dr. Prugh has occupied the church's pulpit for 23 years, this having been his first call after ordination.

PRESIDENT HEARS SERMON ON DUTY.

ROOT IS AT OYSTER BAY

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

OYSTER BAY, L. I., July 12.—Instead of attending Christ Episcopal church, President Roosevelt this morning attended divine service at the First Presbyterian church. He was accompanied by his daughter Ethel, and as usual drove to the village in an open two seated wagon. Dr. Alexander C. Russell, the pastor, who was the head of this congregation 27 years ago when the president, then a boy, attended church with his mother, preached a sermon on "Duty." The discourse in certain portions rang much like some of the president's public utterances, for it dealt with corporate dishonesty such as President Roosevelt is warring against, and dishonesty in public office, such as the administration is trying to stamp out in the postoffice department. Dr. Russell referred to the American army and navy as brilliant examples of devotion and obedience to the call of duty.

Elihu Root, secretary of war, arrived here at 5:23 o'clock, and was met at the station by the president's daughter, Ethel. Mr. Root will remain until tomorrow and will discuss with the president several administration subjects, including the investigation of glove contracts now going on in the war department, and the Alaskan boundary arbitration. Mr. Root is one of the arbitrators. It will probably be decided before Secretary Root leaves whether or not Brig.-Gen. Leonard Wood shall be promoted to the grade of major general. The administration is not blind to the fact that a hard fight will be made on Gen. Wood's confirmation if thus promoted. His rapid advance since the Spanish-American war has made many enemies for him.

President Roosevelt was highly gratified today to read of the recapture of the Palma trophy by the American rifle team in England. He will send a message of congratulation tomorrow to the victorious team. The president feels that this victory will have great effect in improving marksmanship in this country and towards thoroughly instilling in the American mind the president's own saying: "The only shots that count are the ones that hit."

SCAPEGOAT IS ABSENT.

Man Hargis Faction Will Blame for Marcum Murder Off to Honduras.

LEXINGTON, KY., July 12.—(Special.)—Jesse Spicer and E. L. Noble of Jackson, Ky., have boarded a steamer at New York bound for Honduras, and now comes the report that one of them is to be indicted for the murder of J. B. Marcum, a crime for which Curtis Jett and Tom White are under indictment and are to be tried at Cynthiana on July 27.

Spicer and Noble are involved in some land deals in Breathitt county, and it is claimed they have sold timber lands on titles that are not good to a Chicago firm, securing something over $20,000 in cash.

Bruce Little of Jackson is here tonight and says the men have gone to Honduras, and that it is the plan of the Hargis faction to have one of them indicted for the Marcum murder. Judge Hargis says he will not resign from the state central committee.

HEROIC MOTHER DEAD.

NEWARK, N. J., July 12.—(Special.)—Mrs. Mary Vanness, aged 33, died in the city hospital in Newark tonight of lockjaw, the result of a Fourth of July accident caused by her effort to shield her children from danger.

While she and her husband and the children were finishing up their celebration on the Fourth she called out that she had saved a giant firecracker for the last and would set it off. She held it in her left hand while lighting the fuse, and was about to cast it from her when she saw that her children were at the spot where it would fall. Mrs. Vanness held the firecracker until it exploded.

FERRYBOATS COLLIDE.

Deckhand, in a Panic, Jumps Overboard and Is the Only Victim.

NEW YORK, July 12.—(Special.)—Through a misunderstanding of signals the ferryboat New York and the steam yacht Clifton collided off Fulton street this afternoon, and during the panic John O'Brien, a deck hand, jumped overboard and was drowned. David Casey, also a deckhand, went overboard with O'Brien and was rescued by Joseph O'Hare, captain of the lighter Old Forge, moored nearby.

Women screamed and the men of both boats were thrown into a panic. As the Clifton drew away it was seen that she was not seriously damaged.

NEWMAN HAD THINGS ALL HIS OWN WAY

Fortune favored George Newman of Evergreen road, Allegheny, when he was only fined $10 and costs at Allegheny Central police station yesterday morning, after having a strenuous time at his home. Newman was charged with abusing his wife, throwing his baby out of a first-story window and then knocking down and kicking Officer Albert Beck, when he tried to place Newman under arrest. The baby was not badly hurt, but Officer Beck's appearance at the hearing indicated that he had come in contact with somebody's boot recently.

ALIENS IN NATIVE LAND

Former Commissioner of Immigration Weber Makes a Strong Appeal for the Subjects of the Czar Who Are Friendless and Defenseless.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 12.—John B. Weber of Buffalo, N. Y., late commissioner of immigration at the port of New York and chairman of the special commission, authorized by congress in 1888 to investigate in Europe the causes inciting emigration to this country, was a speaker today before the Jewish Chautauqua, on the subject of "The Status of the Jew in Russia."

In his address Mr. Weber charged the Russian restrictive laws as being responsible for the misery and persecution of which people read and hear. He stated that there would be no peace, no substantial relief for the sufferers, until the total disappearance from Russia of either the Jew or the special laws directed against him.

Taking up the laws regarding the right of residence, which the speaker characterized as especially harsh and oppressive, he briefly sketched the history of the official decrees regulating the area within which the Jews were permitted to live during the past 40 years.

Summing up the status of the Jew in Russia, Mr. Weber said:

Alien in His Native Land.

"Today he is an alien in the land of his birth, a subject who bears an undue share of the burdens of good government without the privileges of its meanest citizens. Fettered in his movements, handicapped in his vocation, restricted in his educational opportunities, he is unable to protect himself and powerless to successfully invoke the protection of the authorities; a slave without the self-interest of a master to shield him from abuse—he stands helpless, friendless and defenseless against brute force, egged on not only by religious intolerance, but by contending with forces that strive to strengthen the government, on the one hand, and to destroy it on the other.

"The Jew is therefore the sport of the rabble, the spoil of the official, the football of fanaticism, the buffer against which strikes the wrath of bigotry, intolerance and savagery."

After asserting the moral obligation and the legal right of the United States to protest to the Russian government against its treatment of Jews, Mr. Weber said:

Should Not Be Indifferent.

"We cannot look with unconcern upon the arrival of the thousands of hunted, terror-stricken human beings, who come to us crushed in spirit and impoverished in substance, to enter into competition with our respected and self-respecting labor. Neither is it an answer to say that we have the remedy in our own hands by closing our ports against those people. This would violate our every instinct of humanity, and would war against the policy which has made this country great and prosperous, and which will continue to add to our progress and prosperity, if immigration is confined to normal causes alone.

"The abnormal immigration from Russia is due to the laws and methods of that country—and this gives us a legal and moral right to object. Self-interest and humanity unite in a loud call to invoke such rights."

Referring to the hope that a considerable part of this stream from Russia may be diverted to other lands, Mr. Weber quoted the statement of an emigrant at Kovno in the Falek:

"I am going to America, for in that direction lies hope. Here I have only fears to confront me. The hope may prove delusive, but the fears are a certainty. My great ambition is to breathe at least once the free air with which God has blessed the American people."

Duty of American Jews.

"These," said the speaker, "are the words of an uncultured Jew, and these are the sentiments in the heart of every Jew in Russia."

Mr. Weber closed by calling attention to those of the Jewish faith of the grave responsibilities falling upon them due to the persecutions of their co-religionists, in receiving the thousands who flee from their oppressors. In aiding to establish them in work and business so that they will become self-sustaining, in distributing them so they will not by congestion become a menace, to guard against the dangers of a rebound from oppression to freedom, which so generally accompanies the lifting of the pressure and so generally interprets liberty to mean license, and to instill into their minds correct principles of our citizenship "and to solve these problems would tax their best energies, their most profound thought and their most enlightened liberality."

Continuing, he said:

"Be patient with these unfortunate people and do not judge them by the ordinary standards. Their lives from the cradle up have been passed under extraordinary conditions. The grown-up generation can never forget their mistreatment—they cannot banish fear and suspicion on command, but their children can be fitted to enter upon our citizenship and made to glorify your race and reflect credit upon our American institutions."

DR. YOUNG PREACHES IN SCHENLEY PARK

The Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young of the Second Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh, preached a sermon last night in Schenley park pavilion on "The Quartet of Characters the Cross Has About it Here." The sermon was based on the four texts: Matthew, xxvii:36, "And sitting down they watched him there;" Mark, xv:29, "And they that passed railed on him;" Luke, xxiii:42, "And he said unto Jesus, Lord remember me when thou comest into Thy kingdom," and John, xix:27, "Behold thy mother." The cross of Jesus, his mother and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene."

Memorial Resolutions on the Late A. E. W. Painter.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Safe Deposit and Trust Company of Pittsburgh, held on Thursday, July 9, 1903, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, It is with sincere feelings of sorrow and regret that we record the demise of our esteemed fellow member, whose life was a particularly useful one, securing to him a measure of success seldom obtained by a single individual.

Resolved, That in the death of A. E. W. Painter we have lost a genial companion and the Safe Deposit and Trust Company of Pittsburgh an able adviser, who had served for many years as a director and the past 15 years as president, giving the company that thoughtful attention for which he was so well known.

Resolved, That in his death the city of Pittsburgh has lost one of its brightest and most valued citizens whose progressive ideas and honor have left for him a lasting reputation.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered on our minutes, published in the daily papers, and a copy sent to the bereaved family.

RUSSIA HOPES TO AVOID PETITION

DECIDE MATTERS TOMORROW

Relief Committee at St. Petersburg Has Received 192,500 Roubles for Distribution Among the Sufferers — 350 Roubles More Is Needed.

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.

Regardless of information received here from trustworthy sources that the Russian government is taking effective measures to punish those responsible for the Kishineff massacre and to prevent further persecutions of that same kind, the president will not be prevailed upon by such intelligence to hold back the petition of the Hebrew association. It is understood from an official of the state department, however, that arguments will be used at the conference Tuesday at Oyster Bay between the president and the petitioners to induce the latter to withdraw their petition, if the efforts of the Russian government to prevent further persecutions prove to be sustained. What may be accepted as an official position of the government in the Kishineff issue and the attitude of the president is contained in the following statement obtained today:

"The whole situation is simply this: There has been no official communication between the two governments. Since the president promised the petitioners that he would forward their petition there has been nothing to change the situation. It is no breach of international diplomacy of friendship if this government submits the question to the Russian government. At the conference Tuesday it will be doubtless decided what shall be done."

ST. PETERSBURG, July 12.—The Kishineff relief committee has received the sum of 192,000 roubles from America and 363,700 roubles from Russia. The total receipts up to the present amount to 736,500 roubles and the total expended has reached 464,000 roubles. The future expenditure is estimated at 350,000 roubles.

CONCILIATION BOARD EVADES THE QUESTION

Anthracite Operators Delay Decision on Matters Vital to Workmen.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 12.—Despite the reports that the board of conciliation is rapidly adjusting the mine workers' grievances and discussing the questions harmoniously, one of the mine workers' members states that a good understanding does not prevail and that there is liable to be trouble soon. Some of the grievances had been adjusted, he says, although these have not been announced, but they are those which any man could adjust by reading over the finding of the strike commission.

The real grievances, those causing the serious complaints among the men, are as far from being adjusted as ever. He declares that the efforts of the mine workers to get these before the board have been futile, and that the coal operators' members have put them aside. It is against the wishes of the mine workers' members on the board to make formal complaint, but they intend to insist upon the consideration of the questions and to ask in the event of dispute that the seventh man, or umpire, be appointed.

Milwaukee Engaged in Battle With an Asphalt Paving Monopoly.

MILWAUKEE, July 12.—(Special.)—The Wadsworth, Stone and Paving Company of Pittsburgh is taking a hand in an asphalt paving fight which threatens the present administration.

It is charged by those who are not acting with the administration that Milwaukee is paying three times the price paid in many cities for the same quality of asphalt paving, but all efforts so far have been futile to change this condition. The chief effort that is being made by the opponents of the administration is to secure competition, the conditions heretofore having been such as to exclude all but one company.

The opponents of the administration are being aided in their fight by the Pittsburgh firm, among others, and before the fight is ended it is likely that competition will be allowed.

MORE TROOPS CALLED

Bulgarians Accuse Turks of Bringing on Engagements by an Invasion.

PARIS, July 12.—According to a dispatch from Constantinople, published here, engagements have taken place between Turkish and Bulgarian troops on the frontier, which the Turks accuse the Bulgarians of crossing. On the other hand, the Bulgarians assert that the Turks tried to occupy the neutral zone.

The dispatch adds that a ministerial council was hurriedly summoned at Vildiz Kiosk last night, and more troops have been called to the colors.

MANAGER OF RAILROAD DIES OF HEART FAILURE

MARBLEHEAD, MASS., July 12.—Tristram Allan McKinnon, first vice president and general manager of the Boston & Maine railroad, died today at his summer home on Marblehead Neck. The cause of death was heart failure. Mr. McKinnon was stricken while at his deck in the North station, Boston, last Friday. Mr. McKinnon was born in Ireland, June 7, 1843. He was prominent in both the railroad and social life of New England.

Ten New Smallpox Cases.

To Publish New Laws.

The United Labor league met last night and decided to publish 800 constitutions and bylaws as revised recently. The changes are expected to revive the league and bring it up to the standard which it formerly enjoyed.

EXPORTS OF GOLD PORTEND NO HARM

RESULT OF VARIOUS CAUSES

Falling Off of Cotton Exports Has Something to Do With It—Present Conditions Are Only Temporary—No Serious Stringency Expected.

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.

Reassuring was the statement given out today by Director of the Mint Roberts in regard to the gold supply of this country as affected by the continued and heavy exports of that metal to foreign markets. Director Roberts returned to the capital today after a western trip, and will leave shortly for the Cape Nome gold mining districts to investigate the condition of the gold producing country, especially with the view of ascertaining the amount of gold which will be contributed by Cape Nome mines.

"I believe the present exports of gold to Europe are in response to normal causes and give no cause for anxiety," said Director Roberts. "The gold exports are easily explained on the ground that the United States is a gold producing country, while France, Germany and other European countries are not producing any of this metal. It may be, however, that to a degree this export of gold may be due to the falling off of cotton exports to the other side and the present conditions prevailing in the cotton market. But I don't think that the movement will be long continued or of such proportion as to affect our available currency."

Director Roberts visited a number of points in the west and obtained an excellent view of the currency affairs in that section. He says: "There may be a tightness in the money market, but I don't think it will be of any serious nature."

In regard to his proposed visit to the Cape Nome district Director Roberts stated: "The production of gold from Cape Nome has averaged about $5,000,000 annually, but the prospects are that the output will be increased this year."

ACCIDENT BRINGS LUCK.

Aged Pittsburgher, Reduced to Beggary, Struck by Engine at Whiting, Ind.

CHICAGO, July 12.—(Special.)—Bent and trembling with age, and his long white hair matted with blood, Frank Stromp, once a prosperous merchant of Pittsburgh, was found last night at Whiting, Ind., beside the Ft. Wayne tracks by Supt. Wilbee of the American Wire Fence Company, suffering from wounds caused by a switch engine, which had caught his clothing and dragged him along the embankment.

Stromp is 70 years old. He said that for several weeks he had been working his way westward looking vainly for work. Refused shelter and food when he reached Whiting, Stromp walked on, but fell exhausted along the track, was struck by the engine and hurled into the ditch, where he was found last night. Mr. Wilbee sent him to the Hahnemann hospital here and will give him work and a home as soon as he is well.

FATHER TOOK HIS CHILD.

Placed It in an Orphan Asylum, But the Mother Wants It Back.

Mrs. Joseph O'Brien of No. 2517 Carson street, South Side, reported to Police Sergt. Edward Jacobs yesterday that her three-year-old daughter Eleanor had been taken from her by her husband.

Mrs. O'Brien said that she was married four years ago and that shortly after her husband parted from her. She had supported her child, making her home with her mother, Mrs. McCabe. On Friday O'Brien came to the house and induced the little girl to go with him. He took her to Father Thomas Devlin of the Holy Cross church and through him secured admission to St. Paul's Orphan asylum for the child.

Mrs. O'Brien wanted the child restored to her. She was told that the police could not interfere and advised her to call on the asylum authorities about the matter today.

LIGHTNING KILLS FIVE WELL-BRED HORSES

PHILADELPHIA, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—Jove paid a visit to Chester Brook stock farm Friday afternoon and his entertainment cost A. J. Cassatt, owner of the farm, five horses and the American turf the dam of last year's Suburban winner. The storm was at its height and the stock all over sought shelter under the spreading trees which abound on the farm. Heel and Toe, the celebrated dam of the most celebrated Gold Heels; a horse and three colts gathered under a tree. A vivid flash of lightning and a crash attracted the attention of the employes and upon investigation they saw the tree on fire and found the entire five horses dead under it.

PAYNE'S HEALTH CAUSES ANXIETY

It Is Feared Postmaster General May Be Compelled to Relinquish Investigation.

MORE TESTIMONY NOW READY

New York Postoffice Will Be Gone Over This Week and George W. Beavers Will Be Examined—Madden and Shallenberger Yet to Come.

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.

Tried to a point almost beyond endurance by the postal scandal Postmaster General Payne's indisposition is giving occasion for some grave fears among his friends, and it is doubted if he will be able to conduct the investigation in person any further. Mr. Payne intends to leave here Wednesday for an ocean trip to Boston, which is to consume 10 days. Unless his physical condition is more promising it is feared Mr. Payne will not be able to return as soon as he expects. Today the postmaster general barred all callers from his apartments at the Arlington.

A new turn will be given the investigation this week when the New York city postoffice will receive special attention. One of the principal witnesses to be examined in connection with the exploitation of the "promotions syndicate" and irregularities at the New York office is George W. Beavers, former superintendent of the division of salaries and allowances, who is now understood to be in New York and prepared to give valuable evidence.

Considerable testimony gathered by the Fourth Assistant Bristow and Inspector Cochrane remains to be submitted. Thus far only the divisions of the first assistant postmaster general have been under scrutiny, while the blanket order issued by President Roosevelt contemplates an investigation into the methods of the railway mail transportation system in the department of Second Assistant Shallenburger. Charges have also been made which require an investigation of bureaus under the supervision of Third Assistant Madden.

AFRAID OF TREATY.

Colombian Government Has Not Assumed Responsibility for Canal Convention.

PANAMA, July 12.—(Special Cable.)—A message from Bogota dated July 11 says: "The only Liberal member in congress, Jose Carrizosa, took his seat in the house today. Minister Rico's canal message is identical to the United States' message presenting the treaty in the American congress. The Colombian government has not yet officially assumed the responsibilities of recommending the treaty.

"Serious debating on the canal treaty will commence on July 14. On July 10 the senate, by 14 votes to 11, rejected Caro's motion regarding Marroquin's signature before discussing the treaty. The actual probabilities seem to indicate that only one-fourth part of the senate is favorable to the canal treaty without amendments."

A message from Guatemala says the constitutional assembly has amended the constitution so that the president is now permitted to legally succeed himself forever.

SPOOK INTERFERES.

Digger After Kidd Treasure Sustains Lacerated Proboscis in Awesome Adventure.

NEW YORK, July 12.—(Special.)—Charles Endum, the Brooklyn engineer who has been digging in the cellars of one of the Arbuckle coffee mills for a fortune that he thinks was hidden there by the notorious Capt. Kidd, did not resume operations today because of his having been incapacitated by a spook. The fortune hunter showed a lacerated nose in proof of his encounter with the spook.

Kidd's former chief mate is a bluff old soul and fond of tobacco. He wanted Endum to blow tobacco smoke in his direction so he might enjoy the fumes. The gold digger was so busy he did not hear or pay attention to Capt. Kidd's chief mate. Anyhow, he is willing to make affidavit that the old seadog pushed him down the stairs.

CELLS FILLED WITH PRISONERS AND MUSIC

Sixty-two foreigners, many with musical instruments, filled the Forty-third street police station early yesterday morning with more or less harmonious music and discordant cries. The cells and corridors were packed with the prisoners who had been captured in a raid on No. 129 Howley avenue, kept by John Orich. As many of the men were intoxicated much trouble was experienced in getting them to the police station. At the hearing Magistrate Thomas F. Kane fined Orich $10 and costs and the visitors $5 and costs each.

ALL MUST OBEY ORDER NO. 800

Police Raided Downtown Disorderly Houses Where Liquor Was Being Sold.

STATION HOUSE CROWDED

One More Chance Will Be Given the Proprietors to Obey the Rule Laid Down by Superintendent McTighe. Going After the Wholesale Dealers.

Charged with violating "police order No. 800," which provided for prohibiting the sale of liquor in disorderly houses, Inspector Bernard McStay and his officers closed a number of these places last night and locked the proprietors, inmates and visitors in the Central police station. There were 116 men and women gathered in by the police. They will be arraigned this morning before Police Magistrate T. D. Stewart. The proprietors will be charged with keeping disorderly houses and the inmates and visitors with frequenting disorderly houses. Supt. McTighe issued an order on June 27 prohibiting the sale of liquor in disorderly houses and advising the wholesale dealers against selling liquor to these places.

After the bulletin was issued Supt. McTighe detailed plain clothes men to warn other proprietors. Later, another detail of officers was sent out to see whether the order was being violated. It was learned that liquor was being sold in these houses to a "select few," and last night the police received orders to close them.

Get One More Chance.

The proprietors will be given another opportunity to operate their establishments, but if they violate the order again, they will be closed, informations charging them with illegal liquor selling will be made against them and they will be bound over to court for trial.

Supt. McTighe is at Atlantic City, but before leaving on Thursday he instructed Inspector McStay to close the places reported to having violated the police order.

About 8 o'clock last night the patrol wagon from Central station drew up in front of No. 20 Cherry alley, kept by Bessie Copurt. Five inmates and three visitors were arrested. After that two patrol wagons were kept going for four hours. Houses were visited by the police and the inmates and visitors were hauled to the station house.

Mabel Williams' establishment at No. 22 Cherry alley was next closed. Five inmates and six visitors were captured.

Many Visits Made.

The following places were closed in quick succession: Mamie Hughes, No. 74 Cherry alley, four inmates and five visitors; Carrie Sheridan, No. 36 Second avenue, three inmates and one visitor; May Bennett, No. 428 Third avenue, four inmates and nine visitors; Kate Stewart, rear of No. 240 Second avenue, one inmate and one visitor; Madge Smith, No. 437 Third avenue, seven inmates and nine visitors; Fay Lyons, colored, rear of No. 212 Grant street, 14 inmates and 16 visitors; Maud Stanton and four women were found in No. 237 Second avenue, the proprietor of this place being out of the city. Kate Irwin, No. 3 Clay alley, eight visitors.

Inspector McStay said last night the police had evidence against a number of other places, which would be closed some time today.

Information is to be made against the wholesale dealers for selling liquor to the proprietors of these places. The liquor has been furnished by a number of brewers. Some of them have their business houses in McKeesport and McKees Rocks, and others in Fifth avenue.

Inspector Milton Bailey with a squad of police raided the house of Mrs. Ellen Dewey, No. 8 Romeo street, yesterday. Mrs. Dewey and three visitors were arrested and locked up in the Oakland police station.

NEW CASTLE STUDENT GETS LEHIGH SCHOLARSHIP

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—Joseph B. Reynolds, the first honor student of the class of 1903 of the New Castle High school, has been awarded a scholarship in Lehigh university for scholarly attainments during his four years' course here. He completed both the classical and scientific courses and secured the highest grades in both, in a class of 20 graduates. The scholarship was offered by Registrar N. M. Emery of Lehigh university, the selection of the winner being left to Principal S. H. Miller. The latter received notification yesterday and Reynolds at once accepted and will enter Lehigh this fall. The scholarship will secure him admission without examination.

COLUMBUS CHURCH EXTENDS FORMAL CALL

COLUMBUS, O., July 12.—(Special.)—The Franklin Avenue Church of Christ today extended a formal call to the Rev. J. H. Craig of Bellevue, Pa., to succeed the Rev. C. A. Freer, who recently accepted a call to Collinwood, Cuyahoga county. Mr. Freer will leave Columbus tomorrow and an effort will be made to bring Mr. Craig, who is considering a call to Rochester, N. Y., to this city at once.

MUST MEET PROBLEMS.

President of Negro League Says Vital Questions Confront the Race.

KANSAS CITY, July 12.—Leon H. Jordan, president of the Negro Republican League of Missouri, in the call for the annual state convention to be held at Springfield August 4, 5 and 6, says:

"Questions affecting the moral and material welfare of the race will occupy the major portion of the time of the convention. At no time during all the years of his natural life has the negro been confronted with so many different problems as now stand athwart his pathway. Problems that he must meet and settle now or leave them as a heritage for the destruction of future generations."

Invitations have been extended to United States Senator Burton of Kansas and others to address the convention.

SHOW GIRL TO MARRY A YOUNG MILLIONAIRE

CLEVELAND, O., July 12.—(Special.)—The engagement was announced today of Miss Ethel Intropidi, one of the snow girls at the Garden theater, to Henry Genet, the young millionaire proprietor of the Lenox hotel, at Atlantic City. Miss Intropidi is 17; her fiance is 20. They have been chums and schoolmates. The announcement of the engagement was made by Mrs. Josie Intropidi, Ethel's mother, who is also a member of the Garden Theater Company. "Ethel is too young to marry," she said, "but the young people have set their hearts upon it. I shall fix no time for the marriage as yet."

NEW WAY TO SELL MEDICINE

Schilling Bros. Give Guarantee Bond With Mi-o-na, the Flesh-Forming Food.

The proprietors of Mi-o-na, the marvelous flesh-forming food and digestion regulator, have made arrangements with Schilling Bros. to sell this remarkable preparation in a new and hitherto unheard-of way; furnishing a guarantee bond with every package.

GUARANTEE BOND.

In buying a package of Mi-o-na, the purchaser is requested to have this guarantee signed by Schilling Bros. as their absolute agreement to refund the money if Mi-o-na does not give an increase in weight, and cure dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

Signed.....

Schilling Bros. will give the above bond with every 50c box of Mi-o-na they sell. You run no risk in buying Mi-o-na.

For years there has been a demand for a natural means of increasing the flesh and Mi-o-na has come to supply this need. It is not a cod liver oil preparation, but a combination of flesh-forming elements with remedies that regulate and aid digestion and restore health.

Everyone who is troubled with dyspepsia, headache, distress after eating, dizzy feeling or loss of appetite or who is losing weight and in a run-down condition, should take the guarantee bond to Schilling Bros and commence the use of Mi-o-na at their risk, remembering that the treatment costs you nothing unless it does all that is claimed for it.

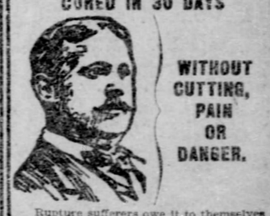
Men, Women and Children CURED IN 30 DAYS



WITHOUT CUTTING, PAIN OR DANGER.

My Electro-Plasmic Method

I not only effect these cures so that they stay cured, but I effect them in two to six weeks. I effect them without detaining the patient from work or business, without causing any distress or pain. When you call I will explain why you should cease wearing a truss. The wearing of a truss only helps to aggravate and prolong a rupture. It weers out both the body and mind and will not effect a cure in any case.

PILES AND FISTULA CURED IN 10 TO 30 DAYS.

Dr. Brinton, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Dear Sir—Since receiving your treatment I am pleased to state that there is no sign of the return of either piles or the fistula, and I am satisfied that I am entirely well. This seems almost too good to be true, and I assure you that I feel very kindly toward your treatment for the quick relief it has given me. I tried all the patent pile cures I could find, and had been doctoring with local specialists nearly two years without getting any very satisfactory results when I began your treatment.

THE SUNDAY GAZETTE IS ALWAYS IN THE LEAD IN THE NEWSPAPER RACE

In this industrial age everything that amounts to much reaches a high state of perfection, and to secure consideration from a discriminating public it is necessary to keep abreast of the times and be up to date, no matter in what line of business. The newspaper business is one of the strongest examples of these facts. The Sunday Gazette can be pointed to as showing how newspapers have kept pace with the giant strides that have been made in the world during the last decade.

The days of the crab have passed; also of the howlers who cry because they have been left behind, and who mope and give vent to tirades against more enterprising competitors instead of being spurred on to renewed efforts. The recent disaster that befel Jeannette and adjacent towns gave proof of The Gazette's superiority over its competitors in this neighborhood. The Gazette's reporters were first on the spot, with the result that the paper last Monday morning gave a full account of the calamity, with lists of the known dead and the missing. Some of The Gazette's contemporaries had to wait until The Gazette was on the street before they could get the semblance of a coherent story and the names of the victims. It was another illustration of the fact that The Gazette prints the news when it is news and does not need to wait for other papers to come out so as to crib the news.

In addition to all the news yesterday The Sunday Gazette had a lot of special articles that were of particular interest to nearly all of its readers. Besides there were many features for persons with particular inclinations. One interesting article with illustrations was all about Kittanning, the pretty and hustling town 45 miles up the Allegheny valley. Other features were:

John Bull wants Africa. Toronto police are polite. Books and book reviews. Coon Hollow folks. Children's page. Ararat kids and brownies. Mother Goose rhymes. Common yegg men use nitro. Buster Brown. Suburban residences. Summer lingerie. Richness of wall paper. Irrigating the arid west. Madame Countess receives. Two fetes of freedom. Shaw's garden. Picturesque Morgantown. Popular resorts. Church of the presidents. Floating down the Mississippi, and a variety of other subjects treated in a bright, breezy manner.

WALL STREET RESUMES DIGESTIVE PROCESS

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 12.—The stock market in the closing days of the week resumed the process of readjustment, which was temporarily halted about one month ago, when a little investment buying appeared and concerted efforts was made to check declines. If the intervening interval demonstrated anything at all, it certainly made clear the fact through the lack of buying power that so far as some securities were concerned the work had not been thoroughly performed. It disclosed also, what ought not to surprise experienced bankers, that no mere artificial barrier such as supporting orders and fictitious money rates, can long oppose the working of the great economic law of supply and demand. The market is working for the restoration of equilibrium between selling price and intrinsic value, seeking to establish the worth of properties based on the actual, not the nominal, capitalizations.

A careful consideration of the facts would seem to indicate that there was no occasion for Wall street's alarm over the rumors and reports connected with some future financial necessities of the New York Central and the Lake Shore & Michigan Central railroad. Wall street has known for months that the Central road has planned very extensive terminals and that it has bought heavily of real estate to carry out the project. It has also known, for the facts were widely published, that the Lake Shore road borrowed in January about $27,000,000 at five per cent for one year and that like other corporations, it would not be strange if it was borrowing more money up to $30,000,000. That this at sometime or other would have to be funded was a foregone conclusion. Why the street should have been thrown into such a flutter over the reports that $17,500,000 Central stock was to be sold, or that $18,000,000 had been borrowed by the company at six per cent, which, by the way, is definitely denied, it is difficult to understand. As a five per cent issue in the present money market, New York Central stock was high at 127½, and like other issues it is simply adjusting itself to value just as 3½ per cent general mortgage bonds have been declining from 113½ in 1899 to 95¼ in 1902. When the time comes a syndicate will doubtless attend properly to all the details of the financial scheme.

Possibly Wall street worked itself up into excitement because of the high rate of interest mentioned and its own failure to appreciate at an early date that money rates have been purely artificial and that money at five or even six per cent is regarded as not exorbitant for a large transaction. If so Wall street has simply succeeded in deceiving itself. The Hocking Valley deal revealed clearly enough that the greatest railroad corporations in the country were willing to pay six per cent, while Lake Shore, even as far back as last January, borrowed at five per cent and commercial borrowers have been paying from five to six per cent for the greater part of the year. If anything was lacking to convince the street that the interest rate was changing the bond market was at hand to disclose it, with its steady yielding price and the failure of the reinvestment demand to materialize from savings banks, large corporations or personal investors. However, as a final indication of the change is the fact noted in the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, that no less than 76 municipalities in the month of May, and 55 in the month of June offered bonds at the interest rates which would have proved very attractive a year ago, but which this year failed to procure bids. In this list is included Chicago, which could not sell $4,000,000, 2½ per cents; Louisville, which failed to place $800,000 bearing the same rate; Minneapolis, St. Joseph, Brookline, Mass., Orange, N. J., Montreal, Cleveland and Elmira, offering at various rates failed also to make satisfactory sales.

In the Oil Fields

With all the activity in the various parts of the lower southwest, new production is not increasing at the rate that should be expected when the vast amount of capital that is going into the business is taken into account. All of the old fields are receiving attention and the search for new producing territory has not been abandoned by any means. Every nook and corner is being prodded, but in almost every instance the efforts are barren of results further than to furnish convincing proof that the producing formations, if encountered, are barren and not capable of supplying even a small amount of new production. Wildcatters are not alone in drilling failures. In some of the old districts formerly regarded as reliable, dry holes are numerous and not a few of them very expensive.

Developments in the Folsom district in West Virginia have reached that stage when a dryhole is no longer the exception or a great surprise. Occasionally a good producer is drilled in, but the average is much smaller than a few months ago. At this time there are not a half dozen wells in the district each with a production of 100 or more barrels a day. However, it is still a very busy development, and will remain well to the front for some months. A number of wells drilling. The only part of the field that shows any possible extension is to the southwest of the Jesse Talkington farm, where the South Penn Oil Company recently drilled in a second test on the Samuel Talkington farm that is holding up at better than 100 barrels a day. This well brings the Folsom district and the old development near Wallace much nearer together, and makes the complete union of the two more probable.

The Pine Grove extension is the busiest development in the lower southwest and is the most important. It is a district of undefined territory and the greatest source of new production. If it were not for this district the outlook for new production in the West Virginia fields would at this time be anything but promising. This district has a larger undeveloped acreage than any other and much of it looks favorable for furnishing large wells. This is true in particular of the recently discovered extension to the northeast. The big producer on the Showalter farm is making a fine record and makes the prospects in that locality look very promising. It is still producing 420 barrels a day, and is the largest well in the eastern fields at the end of the fourth week after drilled into the sand. New work in the immediate vicinity of the big well is now progressing nicely and will be of no small interest when it nears completion. On the west side there is almost as much interest in the vicinity of the producer on the Lemasters farm. It is not expected that this side of the field will furnish anything better than average wells.

The Fallen Timber district in Wetzel county is improving and the outlook is more encouraging than at any time since the initial well was drilled in on the Francis farm. South of the last named well the Mellon & Co. No. 3 on the Ice farm is producing better than 200 barrels a day and is encouraging operations in that direction. To the northeast, Smith & Carnahan have drilled in a test on the Postalwait farm that shows light, but may improve with deeper drilling, as the time since the initial well new wells are nearing the sand. This is Gordon sand territory and should be the source of some new production. In the Cameron end of the Marshall county development there is a well that is making a good record for its staying qualities. It is the South Penn Oil Company's No. 2 on the Jacob Standiford farm. This well was drilled in some three weeks ago and is still holding up at 180 barrels a day.

Aside from that part of Harrison county that claims a part of the Folsom development, the prospects are not bright for new producers. All efforts to extend the Salem district are futile. The Patterson Fork Oil Company completed a test on the Pendum farm and found the stray and Gordon sands barren. There is still a little experimental work under way, but unless the results prove more satisfactory than has been realized in the recent past operators will give up the search. To the northeast of the Elk Fork pool in Tyler county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled in and put to pumping a test well on the Morgan farm that has the talent as well as the owners guessing. A strong flow of salt water was developed in the Big Injun sand and all efforts to exhaust the flow have failed. It is thought that it will make a fair producer if they can get rid of the salt water.

Wirt county shows new operations in the Burning Springs district and Ritchie county has several wells drilling above the point. In the last named the Whisky Run extension is declining and the old wells are all in the pumper aggregation except four. Calhoun county has a drilling new work starting in the Oil Creek district, but it is not within defined limits. In the lower tier of counties there is very little experimental work starting. Nothing has been discovered that can encourage the search to the southward in Roane, while Braxton and Jackson counties there has always been a theory that the producing lines could be advanced but failures have followed every effort.

Operators on the Ohio side are very busy, both in old fields and in trying to find new pools. Wildcatting is more of a specialty on this than the West Virginia side. It is not expected that any large fields will be discovered, but small pools are not improbable. During the past week Jennings Bros. drilled in a wildcat on the Smith farm near Empire, Jefferson county, that looks like the discoverer of a new pool. The location is two miles north of the Knoxville pool, one of the best of the late discoveries in the Berea grit districts.

In Washington county, the Lower and Big Injun sand pool on Sheets run is furnishing some good producers and will be the incentive for greater activity in this development. The wells average about 20 barrels a day after they have settled down.

In Monroe county, there is a fair prospect for opening a Berea grit pool in Sycamore valley. The wells are small, not averaging more than 5 barrels a day.

Near Woodsville in the same county, the new well owned by the Southern Oil Company is about a 5 barrel producer and two new wells have been started in that locality. South of the Harper pool Mooney & Co. drilled a test on the Scott farm through the Berea grit and found nothing but a gas pressure.

Small wells and dusters were the result in the shallow sand territory in Noble county. Operations in this district are increasing to the west of developments.

The little spurt in drilling work noticeable in the local fields a short time ago has disappeared and no prospects of a revival in sight. In the Brush Creek field in Allegheny county some good producers have been completed within the past few weeks. Southeast of Bakerstown in the same county, the American Oil Company has a good producer on the Fisher farm.

Very light pumpers and not a few dusters have been completed in Beaver county within the past few weeks.

LONDON MARKET NERVOUS.

Political Outlook in the Balkans and Manchuria Restricted Business.

LONDON, July 12.—The nervousness felt regarding the political outlook in the Balkans and Manchuria tended to restrict business on the stock market last week. The advent of fine weather, benefiting the home railways, and the cheapening of money are expected, however, to bring a revival of business. American securities have shown renewed weakness, partly due to the reports that Wall street suffered heavily through the rise in cotton.

The anticipation of a new issue of capital for New York Centrals also tended to depress the market, the idea being that difficulty would be experienced in raising the capital necessary to enable American railroads to cope with their growing traffic.

Alleged Disorderly Houses Raided.

Mary Miller of No. 32 Clay alley was yesterday fined $100 and costs for keeping a disorderly house, and five men found there were fined $5 and costs each. Annie Nee of No. 7 Ferry street, paid $50 and costs on the same charge, while nine women found in the place were fined $25 and costs each, and 11 men $5 and costs.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF MARKET PRICES

Corn Quotations Much Stronger. Flour and Sugar Advance. Poultry and Cheese Lower.

Hay has passed through a period of weakness during the past few days which has developed lower quotations and the market closed easy on Saturday. Recent rains have had considerable effect upon grass in districts where it was supposed the hay was gone beyond recall and probabilities favor a crop which will be about two-thirds of an average in the eastern section of the country. While this will not make timothy plentiful, it will counteract the tendency toward extreme figures and more moderate prices will prevail, at least until a shortage becomes apparent, which may be possible later in the season. Clover hay is weak and quotations have gone off $1 a ton. Oats closed at the same range of prices as ruled on Monday and the market is fairly steady. Dealers are holding oats rather than let them go below present quotations, having faith in the future of the market, made stronger by the showing of late crop reports. Rye and corn have given way to corn and oats. Corn is strong and prices are higher. Receipts of corn for the entire week amounted to only six cars and sellers now have the market well in hand. Millfeed continues at quotations which ruled at the opening of last week, but the market is firmer. Rye is in less active demand and a decline has occurred. Affairs in provisions in a rather depressed manner last Monday flour took a firmer turn and has since become one of the strongest articles in the list. The scarcity of spot wheat has made millers stiffen up quotations and local prices for spring wheat flour are now 10 cents a barrel above those ruling a week ago. Both winter and spring wheat crops are in good condition, but harvesting of the latter is still in the future and the available supply of old is limited. Sugar has advanced; refiners put prices forward 10 points on Thursday and Pittsburgh wholesalers followed the market on Friday, the result that the grades command higher figures. Jobbers hail with delight this upward move and hope to see the market yet stronger. Western demand is quiet, but Saturday's opening for potatoes drew to some extent on eastern refiners, who thus find reason for the advance. Demand here has not measured up to the average for the time of year and July and August should show a large increase in consumption. There has been no change in coffee. Navy beans occupy about the same range of quotations as ruled a week ago. Canned corn is scarce and quotations for standard have advanced. Canned tomatoes are weak at quotations, though quotations have been given away up all season. Lettuce is firm and higher. Egg plant is easy at slightly reduced figures. String beans have been a drug in the market and many farmers' pickers, nearby farmers sending large quantities to this city. Peas are scarce and quotations are strongly maintained. Tomatoes closed the week at same prices as ruled at the opening, stocks being heavy. New corn arrives slowly and demand is light.

Strawberries have ceased to come in and raspberries have seen their time of greatest plenty for the year. Huckleberries are now in their prime and are coming forward freely. Blackberries are not yet up to the abundance they will reach when ripening is in full swing, for the country is full of them. Cherries come in occasional lots only. Currants are scarce and high, shipments coming in daily, but of small size. Watermelons are slightly higher and cantaloupes closed the week at prices above those ruling a week ago; they are expected to be cheaper this week. About the only changes in tropical fruits are in California plums, which are scarce and higher. Chickens are coming forward freely and prices are lower. Other poultry remains unchanged. Butter, eggs and cheese are all easy, with receipts of cheese and butter heavy. Both New York and Ohio cheese declined during the week and prices are no more than steady at the decline.

POINT PLEASANT.—River 6 feet and falling. Rain. Up, Iron Age, Mariner. Down, J. B. Lewis, R. P. Gillham and Greenwood.

GALLIPOLIS.—River 7 feet and falling. Rain.

The stage of water at the Davis Island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 8 feet, and the river was stationary.

NEW DREDGING BOAT HERE.

Vessel Built After Sibert's Plans Is Ready for Work.

The new dredging boat built by M. A. Sweeney & Co of St. Louis arrived at the Pittsburgh wharf yesterday afternoon. It was built for the United States government after the designs made by Captain W. L. Sibert, the local United States engineer. It is to be used in this district in keeping obstructions from the channels. The Dave Wood, the steamer owned by the Monongahela Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, towed the dredge from St. Louis.

Pilots were sent to Louisville yesterday to bring the steamers Valiant and John Warren to Pittsburgh. The boats took down a fleet of coal, and, as the water lowered, it prevented their coming home.

Despite the rain of yesterday the excursion boats were well patronized.

CALLED REGULARLY FOR CASH.

Arrest of Two Men Accused of Repeatedly Burglarizing the Same Store.

John Fishinger of Lodi alley and Oscar Larson of Forty-fourth street, alleged to have twice burglarized the grocery store of William Hubner, at Butler and Fisk streets, were arrested Saturday night by Captain C. F. Ford on a charge of burglary.

On the night of May 30 a window in the rear of the store was pried open and the safe and till broken open and robbed of the contents, amounting to $32. On the night of July 4 an entrance was gained to the store in exactly the same manner and a sum of money taken.

The matter was reported to Captain Ford, who learned Larson and Fishinger had been working at the window. The men were again seen in the vicinity of the store Saturday night and Captain Ford was notified and placed them under arrest. They will be given a hearing tomorrow before Magistrate Thomas F. Kane.

A Bank's Progress.

M'NEIL IN BAD CONDITION.

Policeman Hit With a Brick Is Laid Up—Made a Gallant and Successful Fight.

Policeman Frank McNeil was struck in the face early yesterday morning by a brick thrown by Frank Barmetler of Mathilda street, and is at his home in a serious condition.

McNeil, while patrolling his beat heard a noise in the rear of the Adams market house in Penn avenue, and went back to investigate. He was peering into the darkness when Barmetler threw a brick, hitting him squarely in the face, breaking his nose and inflicting a deep gash three inches long. Although nearly stunned and bleeding profusely from his wounds McNeil grappled with his assailant, and after fighting him into subjection placed him under arrest.

McNeil was unable to appear against his prisoner yesterday morning, and Barmetler will be held until such a time as his condition improves sufficiently. Although he fought furiously and was subdued by the officer, Barmetler was uninjured. Not once did the officer use his mace.

GLASS PLANT AND STOCK BURNED AT BELLEFONTE

BELLEFONTE, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—In one hour this afternoon fire destroyed the $60,000 plant of the Bellefonte Window Glass Company with $6,000 worth of glass in stock. The car barn of the Bellefonte Central railroad and a warehouse belonging to McCalmont & Co. were also destroyed. The insurance on the glass plant and stock was $11,000. The other losses will aggregate $5,000, with partial insurance.

Up to the Railroads to Carry Odd Fellows to Wayside Inn Corner Stone Laying.

The last meeting of the committee of 900, appointed by the lodges of I. O. O. F., of Western Pennsylvania to arrange for the laying of the cornerstone of the Wayside Inn, at Grove City, Mercer county, Pa., on Thursday, July 16, was held in Mendel's hall, Allegheny, yesterday afternoon.

Over 275 lodges were represented, and reports showed that over 30,000 people will attend the cornerstone laying, if the railroads can haul that many people. The railroads have already agreed to furnish 23 trains and more if they can possibly do so. Trains will begin leaving Allegheny and Pittsburgh at 7 a. m. on Thursday, and begin leaving Grove City at 7:45 p. m.

Grand masters of the order from New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania will attend the ceremonies, as will patriarchs militant of Western Pennsylvania, under command of Brig. Gen. J. B. Anderson of Altoona, and the children of the orphans' home at Meadville and Ben Avon. Grand Master Samuel A. Stube of Pittsburgh will have charge of the ceremonies.

LEFT A BAG OF GOLD UNDER HIS PILLOW

George Woock, an engineer of Buffalo, reported at detective headquarters yesterday that he had lost $100 at the Star hotel at Seventh avenue and Grant street. The money was in gold and he had it in a small tobacco sack which he placed under his pillow when he went to sleep. He got up and went to church yesterday morning and forgot to take the money, but later on remembering it, returned to the hotel and made a search for it, but was unable to find it. Detective Harry Jones went to the house with him and

KAISER PREFERS CZAR'S GOOD WILL

SUSPECT A SECRET ALLIANCE

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, July 12.—The kaiser has definitely declared that no German squadron will be sent to America during the St. Louis exposition. It is thought that he considers it unwise to increase the bad will of the ultra-German party which even now is dissatisfied with the many favors shown America during the last year. It is known that Prince Henry told a personal friend connected with a Hamburg paper that he hoped to go to the United States in command of a large squadron and accompanied by Prince Adelbert, the third son of the kaiser, who is an ensign in the navy, and it is stated that the kaiser's decision has come as a great disappointment to him.

In spite of all the beautiful words spoken, in spite of all the toasts, in spite of the fraternizing of German and United States officers and sailors at Kiel during the "never-to-be-forgotten week," the fact remains that there is an undercurrent of ill-feeling in official circles here against the United States. The clouds which threaten the German-American friendship have gathered in the far east and rise from the fact that the government seems to have reason to believe that the United States is secretly working together with England and Japan against the interests of Germany in eastern Asia.

A Secret Partnership.

It is thought here that the government at Washington, having been disappointed by Russia's breach of faith in not keeping her promise to evacuate Manchuria and maintain the open-door, has been driven into secret partnership with Japan and England, though as yet only a silent partner.

The sending of the Kishineff petition to the czar is also considered a proof that the United States does not care if friendly relations with the czar are broken. The kaiser, though admiring many things in the United States, cannot forget that America, though powerful, is a republic; that its government rests upon principles which he does not believe in and which he is waging a continuous warfare against in this country, and he considers the official approval by President Roosevelt of the Kishineff petition as an insult to the czar, which should be turned down in the sharpest possible manner.

It is well known that one of his favorite ideas is a European alliance against the United States, and if he could only win the friendship and confidence of Russia he would drop the friendship with the United States without one moment's consideration. Ever since his accession to the German throne he has been trying to win the heart, first of Alexander III. and later of Czar Nicholas.

Empress Dowager an Enemy.

An alliance with his mighty eastern neighbor has always been his fondest hope, but he has always had a strong enemy in the dowager empress, who, Danish born, has never been able to forgive and forget that Prussia robbed her father of two-fifths of his country. She is still unfriendly and hates everything German as fervently as ever, though she has no ill-feeling against the kaiser personally. By remaining absolutely silent, uttering no word of protest against Russia's aggression in the far east, Germany, however, has won many friends in Russia, and an alliance between the two countries is no longer considered an absolute impossibility, especially if the kaiser could find a way of placating Russia's ally, France, and this may be done by giving back to that country Alsace-Lorraine in exchange for a French colonial possession, a plan which has recently come up for serious consideration. The kaiser's joy over the friendship with the United States has its main reason in Germany's isolated position in Europe, but this friendship would lose value if friendly relations could be established between Germany and her neighbors east and west.

EMIGRATION ALARMS KAISER.

United States Is Drawing Heavily on the German Population.

BERLIN, July 12.—(Special Cable.)—The kaiser is greatly worried over the increased emigration from Germany to the United States, as shown in statistics just reported. For some years the emigration has been decreasing, but last year's figures show that a greater number than ever before left Germany for the new world, and furthermore that the largest number of emigrants are young men whose services are thus lost to the army.

The prosperity of the United States, which cannot be concealed, as well as the oppressive tax and military laws of this country are considered to be the reason for the increase in the number of persons leaving Germany. It is reported that the kaiser has personally drafted a bill, which will be introduced in the reichstag early in the approaching session, and which will be almost prohibitive in its effects.

MANY TOOK THE RIDE.

Visitors Were Numerous Yesterday at Keating West View.

The extension of the Perrysville avenue line of the Pittsburgh Railways Company to Keating West View was well patronized yesterday. The line has just been completed to that place. The officials of the company intend to make it a belt line, going out by way of Perrysville avenue, passing through Keating West View to Bellevue. Most of the new line is on private property purchased by the company, consequently the traffic will not be impeded by vehicles and other hindrances that occupy streets.

The present terminus of the line rests on a hill, which gives a commanding view of the surrounding country. Being so far from the industrial Ohio and Allegheny valleys the atmosphere is pure. On Saturday the old homestead belonging to the farm after which Keating West View is named, was burned to the ground. It was a frail structure and stood a few hundred yards from the Five-Mile house.

Alleghenians Are Traveling in the Land of the Czar.

LONDON, July 12.—(Special Cable.)—An American party now in London on their way to Norway, Sweden and Russia includes the Misses Matilda H. and Jean M. Smith of Allegheny, Pa., Mrs. Sarah A. Derr of Brookline, Mass.; Miss C. B. Geule and Isabel S. Chapman of Andover, Mass.; E. A. Howe of Marlboro, Mass.; Mrs. J. L. Mason of Oakland, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Montgomery of Philadelphia, and John M. and Mrs. Reynolds of East Las Vegas, N. M.

Countess Russell's Heart Softens

Countess Russell and Her Husband.

The Successor of Count Russell in Her Affections Was a Coachman, Who Pretended to Be a Prince.

LONDON, July 12.—(Special Cable.)—London society was surprised when it learned that the presumptuous but handsome young coachman, William Brown, who induced the Countess Russell to marry him by representing himself to be a scion of the princely Austrian house of De Modena, received a sentence of only two days. It is now reported his bride will forgive him. The countess, who has been in seclusion and despair since the details of her marriage to a bogus prince were made public, swears she never again will see the handsome young coachman, but there are those in society who believe that the countess is enamored of William Brown, alias "Prince Athrobald Stuart De Modena," and they will once again live in harmony. There is no question of the validity of the marriage, though the blind infatuation of the countess in marrying a youth whose pretensions could have been punctured by a simple inquiry at the Austrian embassy surpasses understanding. The countess is a beautiful young woman and her "prince" is a handsome man. Love may be blind, but it is trustful.

YANKEE BIDDERS ARE FROZEN OUT

ARE JEALOUS OF AMERICANS

The County Council Reduces Terms of Leases in Order to Render Unprofitable the Erection of Buildings by United States Capitalists in Kingsway.

(Special Correspondence to The Gazette.)

LONDON, July 5.—Soreness over all the talk about the American invasion is going to be the chief cause of the architectural ruin of what was to have been the handsomest business street in London. The London county council began spending $25,000,000 last year in tearing a great hole through one of the most crowded districts, from the Strand up to Holborn, to make a broad street which was to be lined with such beautiful business blocks that it was confidently expected it would be the handsomest business thoroughfares in the world.

As soon as the London county council got control of the land it began to receive offers from American capitalists who wanted to put up skyscrapers. They were willing to pay any reasonable rates and abide by any reasonable conditions, and they had the money behind them. The council was pleased to have such good customers, and in consequence plans were forthcoming for one of the greatest office buildings in the world on the best site in the new street, and for a number of other buildings to be put up by American capital.

Then "Constant Reader" began to growl in the columns of his favorite newspaper that he wasn't helping the municipality to raise $25,000,000 simply to open new opportunities for the American invasion.

Fancy Prices Offered.

There was so much of this sort of talk—regardless of the fact that the Americans were offering fancy prices—that the county council began to get frightened. I am informed that no less a person than Lord Rosebery, ex-premier, who was the first president of the council, said, when he saw the number of American applications for sites: "If we entertain all these offers the new street will be nothing more than a miniature New York. Even though it may not be good finance, we cannot have our first great thoroughfare a promenade of American stores."

Private influence from other influential sources was also brought to bear on the council to shut out the Americans, and it was conceived that the best way to do it was to refuse permission for skyscrapers and to grant only an 80-year lease, which would render unprofitable the great buildings proposed, as the entire structure would become the property of the council at the end of the lease.

But it seems to have escaped the attention of the county statesmen that the restrictions which cut off American opportunities likewise made it unprofitable for British capitalists to put up costly buildings on Kingsway, as the new street has been named.

Lined With Cheap Buildings.

The result is that what was to have been the world's finest commercial avenue is to be lined with the cheapest buildings that the supervising architects will tolerate. The first structure to be completed in this new thoroughfare is utterly without dignity, and its neighbors are to be like unto it.

Every one of the American applications for sites on the new street has been withdrawn. Among the plans thus nipped in the bud were a huge American department store, a theater for the Frohmans and another theater which a lavish admirer of Edna May proposed to build for her, and for the site of which he had offered $300,000.

OPPORTUNITY IS CONFRONTING US

Great Responsibility Rests Upon United States, Says Chautauqua Preacher.

MUST GRASP IT OR LOSE IT

God Has Some Great Task for Us to Perform in Placing the Scepter in Our Hands—How We May Win the Battle is Told.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 12.—An unusually large number of visitors arrived at the assembly grounds last night to spend a quiet Sunday away from the heat of cities. The cottages and hotels were taxed to take care of the people.

The services of the day were interesting and varied. Dr. G. L. Robinson conducted a Bible study on the Songs of Solomon. Prof. C. W. Yotaw gave an address on religious education, there was a sacred song service in the evening, the usual C. L. S. C. vesper service and the men's meeting on the ball field.

The sermon for the day was preached by Dr. J. W. Bashford, president of Ohio Wesleyan university, who took for his text, "Who knoweth whether thou art come into the kingdom for such a time as this." The theme of the discourse was the providential work God has for the people of the United States. Dr. Bashford said in part:

"The great problem of the twentieth century will be the shaping of the civilization of the Pacific basin—what nations, what language, what religion shall dominate. All nations recognized so far as position is concerned, the United States has the advantage, situated as it is between the two great oceans. Then, too, we have had a phenomenal growth in population, and we have the opportunity. Surely God has thus favored our nation because He has some great task for us to perform.

"Our success in the work is not a question of our strength, or wealth, but of our loyalty to God. In Old Testament times, when a nation departed from following after God, it went down to its death. You will find that the Old Testament is not a last year's almanac and that God Almighty will not change the laws of the universe even to accommodate Americans. Spain, France and England each have in turn held the scepter of power in this country, and through corruption, worldliness and tyranny have lost it. That scepter is now ours, and if we betray the trust placed in us we, too, shall lose it, and the opportunity will never come to us again. If we seek only for gain, if we are not strong enough to battle intemperance and ourselves, we shall go down to our death. Let us feel the great responsibility that is resting upon us. If we would be great among the nations of the earth we must show forth love, unselfishness, a disposition to serve rather than to rule, and a willingness to take up the cause of the oppressed, for 'who knoweth whether thou art come into the kingdom for such a time as this.'"

CAPTIVE BEARS DIDN'T FORGET THEIR ENEMY

WILKESBARRE, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—Four years ago Edward Carter fed some pepper to three bears in a summer garden here, arousing them to such a pitch of fury that they nearly broke out of their cage in efforts to get at him. Last night he entered the summer garden for the first time in four years and the bears recognized him and tried to claw through the bars. Carter poked his umbrella at them and they tore it to shreds. Then as they grew more excited he was ejected.

INTERNAL TRADE SHOWS INCREASE

PROSPERITY IS NOW ASSURED

Shipments of Live Stock to Domestic Markets Larger Than Ever—Wheat Coal, Iron Ore, Flour and Cotton Continue in Increased Quantity.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.

Internal commerce conditions, as shown by the monthly report of the department of commerce and labor through its bureau of statistics, compare favorably with the corresponding period of last year. For the month of May, receipts of live stock at five western markets have been larger than either of the two preceding months, a total of 2,512,501 head having arrived, compared with 2,461,868 head in April and 2,346,410 head in March of the current year. The usual course of trade is in the other direction, and these larger receipts may be partly accounted for by the excellent condition of pasturage throughout the producing sections, owing to the more prolonged period of rainfall.

For five months ending with May this year 12,581,790 head of stock had been received at Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis and St. Joseph. For the corresponding period in 1902 a total of 12,502,596 head were reported, showing that this season is fully up to that of 1902 in this branch of trade. In 1901 the receipts amounted to 13,213,926 head. If the live stock trade be taken as an index to economic conditions generally, it would seem that a firm and even level of prosperity had been maintained with at least fair prospects of continuance.

Idea Is Confirmed.

This view is confirmed by comparison of the movement of live stock from Kansas City and St. Joseph for feeder and country demand. During the five months under consideration 306,974 head were sent from these two markets, whereas in 1902 only 237,588 head were sent, and in 1901, 272,196 head. These figures indicate that the feeding flocks of the stock-raising sections tributary to the large slaughtering centers are steadily being rehabilitated.

For the crop year up to June 2, the total receipts of wheat at eight markets were 228,519,561 bushels, compared with 211,656,605 bushels in 1902 and 215,083,037 bushels in 1901. These figures cover 10 months of the crop year in spring wheat section, and 11 months in winter wheat section. They show, however, that for the full crop year the volume of receipts will undoubtedly exceed those of either 1901 or 1902.

The weekly average shipments of flour from Minneapolis for the first 22 weeks of the current year was 325,561 barrels, compared with 299,638 barrels in 1902 and 273,285 barrels in 1901. For the week ending with May 9, Minneapolis shipped 209,552 barrels, and 440,695 barrels during the next week.

Shipments of grain from elevators at Buffalo for five months ending with May were 31,941,900 bushels, compared with 28,162,804 bushels last year and 24,133,824 bushels in 1901. Shipments of grain by canal up to the end of May were 2,070,193 bushels, compared with 2,508,436 bushels last season.

Freight on the Lakes.

On the great lakes 139 ports report 7,112,814 net tons of freight received, and for the season to the end of May 10,629,517 net tons, compared with 10,092,906 net tons in 1902. The volume of traffic is, therefore, practically as large as last year's, in spite of the somewhat later opening of navigation this year.

Shipments of iron ore to the end of May were 4,014,103 tons, compared with 5,113,979 tons in 1902. Traffic through the Sault Ste. Marie canals reached a total of 6,839,856 net tons to May 31 this year, compared with 6,764,893 net tons in 1902.

At the North Atlantic seaboard the four ports of Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore report 106,250,012 bushels of grain received including flour and meal reduced to bushels, for five months ending with May. Last year's receipts were 90,348,432 bushels, being a gain of 25,811,580 bushels.

Inspected receipts of grain at Portland, Me., for five months were 5,890,756 bushels, of which 1,378,865 bushels came from American sources and 4,511,891 busheis from Canadian sources.

Coastwise Coal Shipments.

Coastwise coal shipments from five seaboard points to coastwise destinations show that 9,982,435 tons were carried during the four months ending with April, April alone contributing 2,954,614 tons. Receipts at Boston for five months this year were 2,683,812 tons, compared with 1,951,165 tons a year ago.

Lumber receipts at New York have fallen from 190,869,634 feet for the first 21 weeks of 1902 to 166,064,889 feet for the same period in 1903. This decline was due, primarily, to disturbed conditions of the building trades in New York market.

The total available supply of cotton on May 31 this year was 10,567,998 bales. This exceeds receipts for the preceding year, which were 10,390,617 bales, as well as 9,815,674 bales in 1901. The sources of receipts this season were as follows: 2,804,083 bales from Texas, 3,513,806 bales from the Gulf states and 4,034,545 bales from the Atlantic states.
